BARCELONA, March 17.—(P)— Pentless insurgent bombers ruck at Barcelona again tonight the tenth of a series of raids hich already had taken 600 lives thin 24 hours.
The planes dropped about 20 ombs on a section of this refuge-packed capital which had not en hit in raids earlier today.
Casualties were reported heavy d dozens of ambulances were mmoned from the northern part Barcelona.

The raid began at 10:10 p. m.
10 p. m. Atlanta time), and at most the same time other Insurgent planes bombed the cities of urragona and San Vicente on the Catalan coast, inflicting a nsiderable number of casualties.
Before the last raid, a careful eck by the defense board showed 415 dead and 700 wounded, t it was explained the fatalities ed included only bodies taken om debris in this greatest industry city of Spain.

Estimates by doctors gave the ad as 600 and the wounded

pecially that 600 had been killed and 400 wounded.

Wave on wave of insurgent mbers roared over Barcelona ne times in 16 hours, raining ombs on this Mediterranean seaport.

It was the worst air attack incted on Barcelona in the 20-nth civil war.
Tons of shattered masonry and bris hid the exact death toll.
The United States embassy's emporary quarters were dam-ed. A bombing landing near by

STATE SECRETARY HULL.

ADEQUATE DEFENSE IS URGED BY HULL

Secretary in World Broadcast, Says U. S. Will Not Tolerate Infringement.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—
(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell
Hull today, in a momentous speech before the National Press Club, told the war-menaced world that the United States is for peace, but that it will not tolerate international outlawry which infringes upon American rights.
He said the United States has and intends to steer a sound middle course between the two extremes of internationalism and isolationism. The former, he said, means undesirable political involvements, while isolationism
"would compel us to confine activities of our people within our own frontiers, with incalculable injury to the general welfare, or else expose our legitimate interests abroad wherever lawless conditions arise."

Speech Broadcast.
The speech was broadcast nationally and rebroadcast to the world in seven languages. It was conceded to be one of the most candid expositions of foreign policy since the administration came into power and timed to draw the sharp contrast between peace in the western hemisphere and unrest in Europe and the Far East.

He reiterated that the United States is ready to disarm if other powers do likewise; he flayed dictators and treaty breakers; he rebuked land-hungry aggressors, assailed isolationists and jingoists alike and concluded with a restatement of his and President Roosevelt's pronouncements against international lawlessness.
He came out flatly for Mr.

BIG NAVAL GROUP BEATS PROPOSAL FOR ARMS PARLEY

Advocates of Super Fleet Score Easy Victory in First Major Test of
$1,000,000,000 Program.

PLAN IS DEFEATED TO DELAY BUILDING

Rayburn Warns That Congress May Be Asked to Vote Greater Defense.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—
(UP)—The house tonight turned thumbs down on an international disarmament conference after President Roosevelt and advocates of the super navy scored an easy victory in the first major test of the billion-dollar naval expansion program.

An amendment by Representative Luckey, Democrat, Nebraska, to call an arms limitation conference among signatories of the 1922
Washington treaty was rejected, 74 to 29, shortly after the house had defeated an amendment by Representative Randolph, Democrat, West Virginia, to strike out an authorization for three super-dreadnaughts.

Luckey Amendment.
The Luckey amendment proposed that construction of the 46 fighting vessels and 22 auxiliary craft authorized in the expansion bill be held up pending a conference and that the future navy program be based on what such a conference developed.
Previously, Majority Leader Rayburn, Texas, warned that before next January, congress may be called upon to vote defense appropriations even greater than the pending $1,121,000,000 navy bill "to let the world know that we are prepared to defend ourselves."

Urges Approval.
Rayburn, concluding general debate on the bill to increase America's naval strength 20 per cent over treaty limits, declared the President's program must be approved to prevent possibility of an alien power gaining a foothold in Central or South America from which it might operate against the United States.

When the house completed consideration of the bill for the day it had tentatively approved vital provisions authorizing the increase requested by the President. Debate tomorrow is expected to center around the controversial "policy section," which would commit the United States to build a fleet powerful enough to defend both coasts simultaneously, carry out all national policies and protect American interests.

WARSAW, Poland, Friday, March 18.—(UP)—Diplomatic developments that may mean war or peace between Poland and Lithuania reached a climax with all Europe vitally interested in the outcome.
The government announced that an ultimatum had been served the Lithuanian government in Kovno containing the well-known Polish demands. An answer is expected within 48 hours.

Poland's Demands.
The government's formula for a settlement was understood to include:

1. Immediate resumption of diplomatic relations with Kovno, the Lithuanian capital.
2. Immediate resumption of railway, postal and telephonic communications, interrupted by recent aggravations between the two countries.
3. Alteration of the Lithuanian constitution establishing Vilna, situated near the Polish border and long a subject of controversy, as the nation's capital. Vilna now is occupied by the Poles.

Guarantees Asked.
4. Reciprocal arrangements concerning treatment of national minorities, with guarantees of the development of the cultural and national life of 200,000 Poles in Lithuania.

5. Commencement of negotiations for a customs and commerce agreements.

6. Satisfaction for the recent Polish frontier incident, in which a Polish soldier was killed.

From Paris came word that the Lithuanian government, through Petras Klimas, Lithuanian minister to France, was reported to have informed Jules Lukszieicz, Polish ambassador to Paris, that Lithuania is prepared to make concessions toward a peaceful settlement of the Polish-Lithuanian dispute.

French Channels Used.
A dispute between the two countries over a frontier clash last Friday intensified long-drawn bickering between the countries when 50,000 persons last night marched to the home of Marshal Edward Rydz-Smigly, Poland's dictator, shouting:

"Lead us to Kovno!" (Capital of Lithuania, called "Kaunas" by the Lithuanians).
Rydz-Smigly permitted the

Chancellor Inspects Catalog of Georgiana Library

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia, turns to the page dealing with charters in one of the catalog index volumes of the famous DeRenne Georgiana Library. The index volumes add greatly to the worth of the collection, Chancellor Sanford said.

FULTON REOPENS GRAFTING PROBE

Grand Jury Also to Investigate Paroles and Probations in County.

Investigation of grafting law enforcement officials has been reopened by the March-April grand jury, it was understood yesterday.

Though officials of the grand jury and the solicitor's office refused to comment, it was known plans are being made to review evidence of pay-offs to police by racketeers.

This developed as the grand jury yesterday took up a probe of Fulton county paroles and probations upon the request of County Commissioner George F. Longino.

Possibility of graft in connection with release of prisoners from county public works camps was being investigated, with a score or so of witnesses under subpoena, it was understood.

Refuses to Comment.
"I have no comment to make,"
was the answer of A. L. Belle Isle, grand jury foreman, when questioned on plans of the jury to take up again the graft probe started last fall.

E. E. Andrews, assistant solicitor general, who was in charge of the grand jury investigation of the "bug" racket last year, will again leave his courtroom duties for a week or 10 days, or more, to work on the bribery probe, it was understood.

Andrews served the jury yesterday during the special session.
Boykin Is Silent.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin would not say whether Andrews had been assigned to the investigation or not. However, it was known definitely he has been relieved of court duties temporarily.

Andrews has worked on various angles of the graft case at intervals since the end of the lottery investigation last fall, it was said.

He also refused to talk about plans of the grand jury.

Belle Isle said jurors had been forbidden to speak of their grand jury work.

Last fall when the grand jury investigated alleged payoffs to officials in the Fulton county

Board of Regents to Meet This Morning to Approve Details of Sale.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

A contract for purchase by the regents of the University of Georgia of the famous DeRenne Library of Georgiana, one of the most complete collections of state material in the country, will be submitted to the regents at their meeting this morning.

The board, of which Marion Smith is chairman, will meet at 10 o'clock in the regents' office at the state capital, and is expected to approve details arranged last week at a conference in Savannah.

At the conference were Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia; Dr. E.
M. Coulter, historian of the University of Georgia; Regent John
G. Kennedy, of the first district;
Charlton Theus and Alex Lawton, attorneys for Wymberley Wormsloe DeRenne, owner of the collection and son of the late Wymberley Jones DeRenne, a descendant of Noble Jones, who came to Georgia with Oglethorpe.

Following the conference, which lasted five hours, Chancellor Sanford announced that a satisfactory agreement had been reached and that details will be presented to the board at the meeting today, when he said: "We hope the matter can be closed and thereby save the DeRenne library to the state and the university."

Chancellor Sanford also said

TWO LEASES BRING $201,000 RENTALS

S. L. Whitson to Take Over Centrally Located Buildings to Operate Garages.

Two large commercial leases of central property, aggregating a rental of more than $200,000 for a 10-year term, were announced Thursday by the Burdett Realty Company, realtors.

The two buildings in close proximity to each other are to be used for garages by S. L. Whitson. One is the large three-story brick building at the northeast corner of Forsyth and Hunter streets, long used as a convenience for Rich's customers. It is understood a similar arrangement will be continued by the new lessee. It was leased by the Forsyth Hunter Company to Mr.
Whitson.

The building contains approximately 30,000 square feet of space, the structure being about 100x100, with three floors. The lease is effective September 1, with a gross rental for 10 years of $126,000.

The other lease negotiated by the Burdett company was from the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company to Mr. Whitson, it being a two-story garage building at 37-43 Forsyth street, behind the Georgia State Capitol.

Roosevelt's Writing on New Deal Is Another of Many Precedents

The precedent of President Roosevelt's publishing, during his term of office, a series of books containing documents and notes concerning his own administration, is but one of many that he has set in the course of his public career.

The writings in question are the series of notes and comments, selected from the President's forthcoming five books,
"The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt." These commentaries, constituting a record and an explanation of the New Deal, are to be published exclusively in Georgia in The Constitution, beginning March 23. They constitute an authorized advance publication of writings by the President never before appearing in print, in any magazine or book or in any other newspaper in this city.

President Roosevelt's disregard of precedent in granting permission for them to be published during his presidency is not the first time he has acted counter to tradition. The risking of precedents has almost become a custom with him.

This began even before he was elected President. While still governor of New York, he inaugurated the frequent use of the radio to convey a message directly to the people. He has continued this since entering the White House with his "fireside chats." A second pre-election precedent was his accepting his party's nomination for the presidency in person at the party

F.D.R. NAMES GROUP TO MAKE OUTLINE TO GIVE CONGRESS

Authority Would Call In Roads' Bonds, Change Them for Issues Bearing Lower Rate of Interest.

U. S. WOULD HELP MEN LOSING JOBS

Parallel Operations and Duplications Would Be Eliminated by Project.

By N. P. GREGORY.

Special to The Constitution.
WASHINGTON, March 17.—A railroad consolidation plan envisaging the creation of seven great systems, under which annual operating economies of more than $600,000,000 would accrue, is being considered by high administration officials. The plan would be effected through a consolidated authority agency, independent of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Here are the outstanding points of the reorganization plan most likely to be adopted:

1. The authority would call in the $16,500,000 of railroad bonds and exchange them for new bonds at lower interest rates. The exchange would not involve any scaling down of outstanding debt.
Outstanding junior securities would also be exchanged for new security and a dividend would be paid.
2. Railroad employees, who would be thrown out of work as a result of the consolidation, would be taken care of by the government until the roads began a long term modernization plan under which, it is expected, the "dislocated" employee would be given work in the new projects.
3. A railroad coming into the consolidation would receive for its property and leasehold interests a percentage of the new securities, based on the estimated revenue, which it would contribute to the system.
4. The element of competition between large producing and consuming centers would be preserved while eliminating as far as practicable competition in the intermediate areas. Under such circumstances it would be possible to cut out parallel operations and duplication of systems and unify terminals.
5. Earnings in excess of fixed interest charges and dividends would be plowed back into the system.

DR. W. F. HINESLEY GETS CHURCH CALL

Has Been Acting Pastor at Center Hill Baptist.

Dr. W. F. Hinesley, acting pastor of the Center Hill Baptist church, has been extended a permanent call to the pastorate of the church, it was announced yesterday. After serving as pastor of the Center Hill church from 1927 to 1930, he went to the Baptist Tabernacle in Chattanooga, Tenn. In 1933 he accepted the call of the Cherokee Heights church in Macon, and in 1936 went into evangelistic work. Later he was asked to supply at the Center Hill church until April 1. He is a graduate of Mercer University, the Southern Baptist Seminary and Moody Bible Institute. A special service has been arranged for Sunday, when Dr. Hinesley is expected to accept or reject the call. The theme will be "A Prayer Which Jesus Refused to Pray." Members of the Sunday school will be special guests.

2 RELEASED ON BOND IN BANKRUPTCY CASE
Bonds of $1,000 each were made yesterday by Joseph R. Rossignol and A. Joseph Crocy, indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in connection with bankruptcy proceedings of the defunct Rossignol & Crocy Investment Banking Company.

They were arrested yesterday on bench warrants and were released after an appearance before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith, who approved the bonds.

MILK CONTROL ACT UPHELD BY COURT

Ruled Constitutional by the State Supreme Bench; Life Sentence Affirmed.

The Georgia milk control act was held constitutional yesterday by the state supreme court, which also affirmed a life sentence in the swamp slaying of Mrs. Bertha Owens near Bainbridge.

The high court, upholding the act for the second time this week, said the Milk Control Board could call a second election in a milk shed which voted once against going under the board.

L. O. Johnson, of Richmond county, and G. W. Gibbs, of Columbia county, sought to enjoin a second election in the Richmond district, where milk producers had voted against the control plan. They contended the act was unconstitutional on grounds it excluded a producer selling milk from less than six cows.

The decision affirming the life sentence of Sherman Logue, Whigham, Ga., truck driver, held the circumstantial evidence in the death of Mrs. Owens was sufficient for his conviction by a DeKalb superior court jury last May. The beaten body of Mrs. Owens, 34, of Cairo, was found in November, 1936, in a rural section of DeKalb county with her 20-month-old son alive nearby. Logue denied guilt.

The state court of appeals ruled a superior court judge is empowered to set aside a Department of Industrial Relations finding authorized by competent evidence. Judge Paul S. Enderidge, of Fulton superior court, had reversed the industrial board finding in a suit by R. Z. Brand against an insurance company.

Brand claimed compensation for injury in a fall. Director Robert S. Elrod, of the board, had awarded him $15 weekly for 10 weeks and $3.75 for 175 weeks, but he was reversed by the board. The high court decision upholds the board in overruling Elrod.

Melon Growers Challenge Rules Set Up by U. S.

Southern watermelon growers are divided over the merits of a marketing agreement effective in South Atlantic coastal states since 1936.

The agreement gave the secretary of agriculture authority to establish certain regulations of size and grade and to declare marketing holidays up to 48 hours duration.

Charles Cannon and George Demott, Georgia producers, termed the pact binding the handling of melons in Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas as "inadequate and unsatisfactory to growers." Colquitt county farmers said it had "failed to accomplish its purpose."

Cannon said that, under the pact, markets must be overstocked with melons before holidays could be called by the control committee, and added that "this defeats the purpose of the holidays."

On the other hand, George E. Prince, marketing expert of the Clemson College extension service, said South Carolina melon growers "generally agreed that if the committee could be given more power to regulate shipping, the marketing agreements should be continued." Opponents of the plan said unregulated shipments from other southern and western states upset markets.

282,455 TAGS ISSUED

State Director Lists License Revenue at $802,894.

Marcus McWhorter, director of the State Motor Vehicle Division, said yesterday a total of 282,455 auto tags had been issued through March 15, the deadline for obtaining plates without penalty.

McWhorter said this was 82,511 less than had been issued up to March 15, 1937. The director listed total revenues for the sale of 1938 tags at $802,894.54. Only 8,397 sets of tags were issued on the final day, March 15.

ADEQUATE DEFENSE IS URGED BY HULL IN TALK TO WORLD

Secretary Assails Dictators, Land-Hungry Aggressors, Treaty-Breakers.

Roosevelt's billion-dollar naval expansion program in his first public statement on the matter; defended parallel action with other nations where "common objectives" are involved; pledged himself to preserve the traditional policy of no "entangling alliances or involvements," and scoffed at suggestions that American armed forces if enlarged would be used to "police the world."

"The United States intends, as in the past, he said, to afford 'appropriate' protection to American citizens and property abroad, to exercise 'moral influence' and to co-operate with all peace-seeking countries."

"The most effective contribution this nation can make to the cause of peace, he continued, is to have America 'respected throughout the world for integrity, justice, good will, strength and unswerving loyalty to principles.'"

Respect of Rights.

"To respect the rights of others and to insist that others respect our rights has been the traditional policy of our country," he said. "To waive rights and to permit interests to lapse in the face of their actual or threatened violation—and thereby to abandon obligations—can serve only to encourage disregard of law and of the basic principles of international order and thus contribute to the spread of international anarchy throughout the world."

He said that the primary objectives of the administration's foreign policy is maintenance of peace in this country and promotion of the economic, social and moral welfare of the people.

"In common with other nations since the World War," he said, "we have assumed a solemn obligation not to resort to force as an instrument of national policy. All this gives us a moral right to express our deep concern over the rising tide of lawlessness, the growing disregard of treaties, the increasing reversion to the use of force, and the numerous other ominous tendencies which are emerging in the sphere of international relations."

Reiterates Principles.

After reiterating the "enunciation of principles" which he made public at the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war, Hull continued:

"National armaments should be limited and be progressively reduced; at the same time, realizing the necessity for maintaining armed forces adequate for national security, each nation should be that end be prepared to reduce or increase its armed forces in proportion as reductions or increases are made by other nations. 'Apart from the question of alliance with others, each nation should be prepared to engage in co-operative effort, by peaceful and practicable means, in support of these principles.'"

He said that no government faithful to the sacred trust involved in the task of providing for the safety and well-being of its people can disregard these principles."

"Every nation must support them if civilization is to survive," he declared. "The longer they delay the greater will be the jeopardy into which all worth-while international relationships will be plunged, and with them the welfare, the happiness, and the civilized existence of all nations."

Turning to armaments, Hull lent full support to the naval expansion bill, saying it is the "manifest duty of a great nation to maintain armed forces adequate for its national defense."

"No policy would prove more disastrous than for an important nation to fail to arm adequately when international lawlessness is in the rampage," he declared, adding that the "responsible leaders" of the navy "offer convincing reasons" in support of the enlarged naval program.

"It is my considered judgment that, in the present state of world affairs, to do less than is now proposed would lay our country open to unpredictable hazards. It could, moreover, seriously restrict our nation's ability to command, without purpose or occasion, for resorting to arms, proper respect for its legitimate rights and interests, the surrender of which would constitute abandonment of the fundamental principles of justice and morality and peace among nations."

Referring to Mr. Roosevelt's refusal to invoke the neutrality act in the far eastern situation, Hull said that "after mature deliberation" it was decided that application of the law would be most likely to "endanger the very objectives which the law was designed to promote."

He reiterated the American principle of "non-interference" in every world area, with "ill-will toward no nation and a sincere desire to be friendly with all."

"At the same time," he said, "we endeavor to afford appropriate protection to American citizens and American interests everywhere."

THREE MEALS A DAY

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Sawyer

It's time to tune up family appetites with spring dishes—time to go heavy on fruits, fruit juices, cottage cheese, eggs, milk; time to go light on roasts, hot breads, heavy desserts.

But you don't have to cut out rich, starchy foods altogether. Just cut down on them.

Broiled ham slices, for instance, topped with spiced apricots or crushed pineapple. Or creamed peas over cheese soufflé, or broiled pears with lamb and veal chops, or hard-cooked eggs baked in a tomato sauce and sprinkled with grated cheese.

Some Suggestions. Instead of just creamed fish, mushrooms or meat poured over boiled rice, noodles or toast, try seasoning the mixture with chopped onions, green peppers and pimientos.

Stuff green peppers and tomatoes with corn, well-buttered and seasoned rice—or mushrooms.

Make a cheese sauce for new potatoes, peas, cauliflower, green beans or cabbage.

Stir any one of the following into a spicy sauce: carrots and turnips, cauliflower and peas, beets and celery, corn and pimientos, onions and green beans.

Make the most of the spring greens. Serve mustard tops, beet tops, spinach or kale with a lemon sauce, vinegar and sugar or just plain butter and seasoning.

A Warning. Don't, however, make the mistake of switching suddenly from the winter menu of steak, French-fried potatoes and home-made biscuits to fruit salad and dessert. You'll have a half-starved family if you do.

Instead, serve one hot dish each meal. A good cream soup will do.

Fruit Salads.

Peaches, pineapple, red cherries and cottage cheese, mixed together, covered with French dressing and mounted on a generous heap of lettuce.

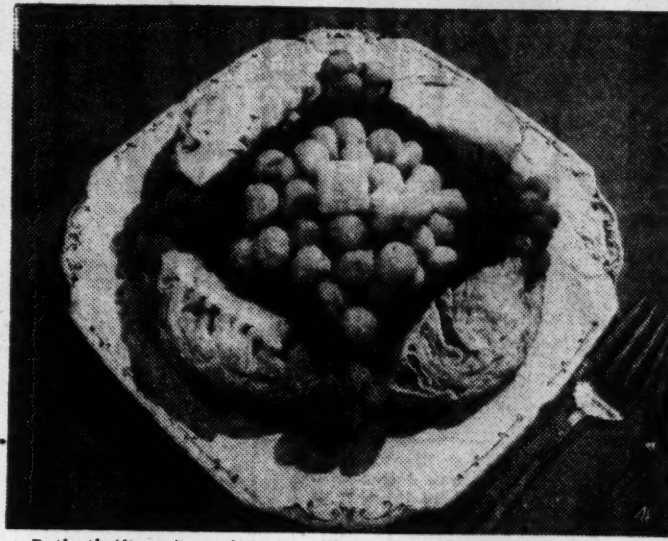

Apricots, pears and pineapple—flanked by cream cheese balls—on watercress and touched up with salad dressing.

Dried apples, seedless grapes, bananas, nuts and marshmallows mixed with a home-made dressing of whipped cream and mayonnaise in equal quantities.

Highlight your menu with one of the desserts for which spring-time is noted: rhubarb tarts, cobblers or pie . . . or strawberry shortcake . . . or home-made cup custard topped with a strawberry sauce.

And you'll have a spring tonic

A Spring-Tonic Formula

Both thrift and good taste will approve the vegetable platter as a spring tonic for winter-worn appetites. Buttered potato balls are surrounded by shoestring beets, buttered cabbage and—in the corners—carrot balls. Add a hot soup, bran muffins, strawberry shortcake and coffee and you have a delicious meal.

your family will find it a pleasure to take.

Make It With Bread.

Creamed Shrimp in Buttercup.

To make buttercup, trim crusts from slices of white bread. Butter both sides of each slice lightly.

Then press each slice into a muffin cup and toast in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until the tips are golden brown. Fill with creamed shrimp, chicken a la king, or other creamy mixture.

Buttercups may be made in advance and reheated just before serving.

Creamed Shrimp.

3 tablespoons butter

3 tablespoons flour

1½ cups milk

½ teaspoon salt

3-4 cup cooked shrimps

Melt butter in pan. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add salt and shrimp. Heat thoroughly and in hot buttercups.

Yield: 5-6 servings.

Rolls-In-Loaf.

Trim sides and top crusts from a loaf of unsliced white bread. Cut through the center of the loaf, just to the lower crust, but not through it. Then make crosswise cuts, spacing them so that the "rolls" will be even in size. Brush with melted butter and toast in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until the edges of the loaf are golden brown. Serve hot. Excellent with salad for luncheon, with jam and coffee for breakfast, or with marmalade for afternoon tea.

Salad Sandwiches.

Slice a loaf of white bread lengthwise. Trim off crusts. Spread each slice with softened butter. Place a large spoonful of salad (ham and egg, chicken, minced vegetable) near one end of each slice. Roll the slices lengthwise, just enough to hold the salad in place. Cover sandwiches with damp towel for 5 or 10 minutes. To serve, garnish with pickles, olives and radishes. Waldorf salad sandwiches are delicious served with wedges of nippy cheese.

Eating Irish.

Potatoes stuffed with sausages is a dish as "Irish as Patty's pig," and twice as good.

Wash and peel 6 large potatoes. With a sharp knife or apple corer, cut a hole through each potato large enough so sausage may be inserted in it. Drop 6 link sausages into boiling water and cook 3 minutes. Insert sausages into potatoes, place them in a baking pan, then cover with one 10-ounce can cream of tomato or cream of mushroom soup and 1-4 cupful water combined.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until potatoes are tender, basting frequently with the sauce in the pan. Garnish with watercress and serve.

J. M. McAfee, and Mrs. J. F. Harkins, both of Atlanta; and Mrs. W. E. Chambers Jr., of Greenville, S. C.; and four brothers, Z. G. Welch, Forest Park; W. E. and J. W. Welch, both of Atlanta, and H. G. Welch, of Hapeville.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with Dr. Ellis A. Fuller and the Rev. H. W. Morris officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

NAVAL PLANE EXPLODES IN CRASH, KILLING TWO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 17.—(P)—A naval scouting bomber plunged 2,500 feet, exploded and burned today, killing its two occupants, Aviation Cadet Herbert W. Younkman, Jersey City, N. J., and Machinists' Mate Junior D. Murry Puyallup, Wash.

Navy authorities said the plane was flying in "section formation" with two other planes when it spun out of control.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Mary Welch; three sisters, Mrs.

MRS. M. M. DUNCAN, ILL 3 WEEKS, DIES

Spring Hill Rites Will Be Held This Morning; Burial in West View.

Mrs. M. M. Duncan, of 1288 Morningside drive, N. E., died yesterday in a private hospital after a three-week illness. Born in Fayette county, Mrs. Duncan had lived in Atlanta since early childhood and was educated in the public schools of the city. She was a member of the Morningside Presbyterian church, and active in its Woman's Auxiliary, and belonged to the Wieuca Garden Club.

Surviving are her husband; three daughters, Mrs. Ezra E. Phillips, and Mrs. J. E. Branch Sr., both of East Point, and Mrs. Corley Wallace, Atlanta; one son, Merritt Duncan; a brother, R. J. Glover, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with the Rev. John B. Dickson officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

These combined leases for $201,000 are among the very largest made in the city for some time.

FOG CHEATS HOOVER OF LUNCH WITH PRINCE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 17.—(P)—Fog cheated former President Herbert Hoover of lunch today with Sweden's crown prince, Gustav Adolf.

Hoover's steamer from Helsinki, Finland, was delayed six hours, so the prince had to eat without his intended honor guest. He received the former president in a half-hour audience later, however. Hoover will fly to London tomorrow.

Once There Were Two Irishmen-- And Now Just Look Up Fifth Ave.

And What With Yesterday Being St. Patrick's Day, and the Wearing of the Green, and the Pipes, Life Sure Was Grand.

By JOHN FERRIS.
NEW YORK, March 17.—(P)—It was a grand parade, so it was, that went on in Fifth avenue this gray, wintry day of Saint Patrick's, with lashings of color and slithering feet and pipes bravely skirling, and thousands and thousands of Irish from the old country and their children in one fine showing.

It was something to warm a man, even though the wind chilled his very heart's blood, to stand on the sidewalk to see the whole shebang with banners flying, drums beating, fife shrilling airs about Kathleen Mavourneen, Brian Boru and Kilkenny and Tipperary, and himself remembering the ancient glories of Munsterboice and Tara and the deviltries of the Bantry boys.

There were squad on squad of sound, ruddy-faced men from Waterford, Aramagh and Limerick, Sligo and Cork, looking proud as himself peacock in shiny black hats and somber black coats, with swinging canes.

And squads of men in black derbies, wearing green carnations and shamrocks, men who could remember the old ones talking of '98 and the great O'Connell and Parnell.

convention. The rule previously had been for a candidate to be informed officially at his home by a delegation representing the party.

Akin, too, to direct speaking to the public has been his direct appeal, in times of urgency, to the heads of foreign governments, disregarding the usual diplomatic channels. Recent among the instances of this was the President's note to the Emperor of Japan in regard to the Panay sinking.

In social matters he has shown himself likewise ready to set aside conventions when need be. His style of entertaining at the White House is often informal, as compared to that of other Presidents; and he has, too, made exceptions to the tradition that the chief Executive visits no one. He has, during his term of office, been the guest in Washington of Supreme Court Justices Holmes and Cardozo, and of Vice President Garner.

Mr. Roosevelt also has revived the open press conference, which had been abandoned in previous administrations in favor of written questions and "The White House Spokesman." Washington correspondents now interview him personally in his office, questioning him orally and ad lib. Except where the President expressly specifies, what he says is not to be quoted, but he stands ready during these meetings with newspapermen to answer their questions and to explain acts of his administration.

The President also has addressed congress in person, a usage long neglected; and, like Woodrow Wilson, has left the boundaries of the United States while in office, upon occasions required by the public interest.

Furthermore, he is the first President of the United States to drive his own automobile.

CONDEMNED MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Body of Dynamite Slayer Found Hanging in Cell.

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., March 17.—(P)—The body of Church Lester, 43, of Pikeville, Tenn., condemned to be electrocuted May 28 for the dynamite deaths of three children near here last January, was found hanging from a cross bar in a cell at Carter county jail this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Atlanta time.

Sheriff Moreland said the body was hanging from a belt suspended from the cross bar. Lester was convicted March 3 along with White Tollett, Lee Walker and Ulysses Walling of first degree murder in connection with the dynamite deaths of three daughters of Harmon Gouge, killed January 7.

Lester and Tollett were sentenced to be electrocuted. Walker and Walling were given prison terms of 21 years.

106,999 SEND PLEA TO JAMES ROOSEVELT

BOSTON, March 17.—(P)—Carrying a petition he said was signed by 106,999 persons, urging James Roosevelt to run for the Massachusetts lieutenant governorship, Charles Maliotis, a leader of the move for Roosevelt's candidacy, departed tonight for Washington.

A small delegation accompanied Maliotis and was expected to place the petition in the hands of the President's son tomorrow.

NEW PARK PLAN MAY BE STUDIED

Consideration of Proposal to Dispose of Old City Hall Site Predicted.

Proposal of Atlanta businessmen to aid in disposing of the old city hall site and acquiring a new auditorium park will be studied by a councilman committee next week, it was predicted today.

A number of councilmen have indicated their willingness to reconsider their action in filing the proposal at the last session. It was predicted the matter will be referred to the finance committee for study.

Consideration of the plan to dispose of the old city hall site and acquisition of the new park was approved yesterday by the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association. The members adopted a resolution urging councilmen to consider the proposition, providing the trade was made at a "fair and equitable price."

Businessmen offered to trade the triangular block facing the municipal auditorium and $50,000 for the old city hall site. An alternate plan would give the city $25,000 cash in addition to the park and one-half of the profit made on the sale of the old city hall site. Council tabled these proposals.

The hotel men yesterday also told Mayor Hartsfield they will advertise the Cyclorama in their lobbies together with other points of interest in and around Atlanta.

Irish Leave Eire On St. Patrick's Day

DUBLIN, March 17.—(P)—Thousands of normally loyal sons of Eire (Ireland) deserted her today on St. Patrick's Day for Ulster (Northern Ireland). Complete prohibition reigned in Eire, the former Irish Free State, while in the north the pubs remained open as usual. Hence there was a migration of the thirsty by motor car, donkey cart, bicycle and afoot.

In Dublin Prime Minister Eamon De Valera and his ministers rove through the streets with a cavalry escort to attend high mass at the cathedral. Sermons in Gaelic were delivered throughout Ireland.

My Husband Says:

"Since I Changed to JIM DANDY—I Make the Best Corn Muffins in the World."

This Is How I Do It!

I TAKE: 1 cup JIM DANDY Meal; 1 Tablespoon Flax Seed; 1 Tablespoon Baking Powder; 2 Eggs; 2 Tablespoons Shortening; Sweet Milk to make fairly thin batter. Beat eggs, sift in dry ingredients, add shortening and milk. Put in greased muffin rings, bake 20 minutes in preheated oven 400 degrees. Your husband will praise you, too, if you will use Jim Dandy according to this recipe.

JIM DANDY Is the Only Corn Meal of It's Kind Sold in ATLANTA

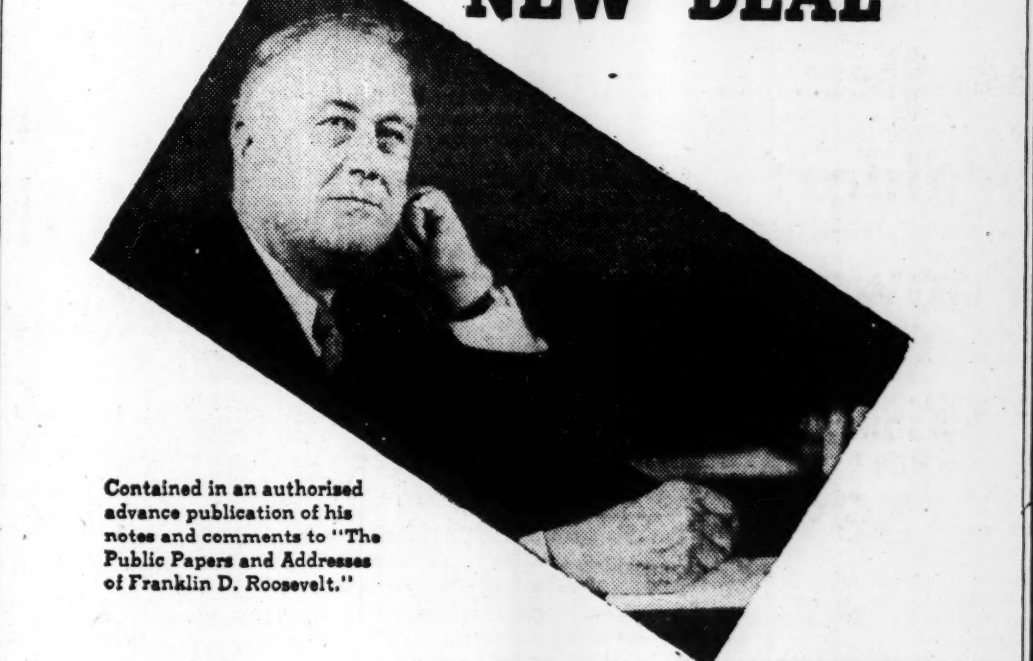

It is "DEGERMINATED," which means that the germ or only fat producing part of the corn is removed. It is "BOLTED," which means that every particle possible of the tough indigestible skin of the corn is removed. These things together with the fact that only pure white corn is used, makes it the whitest, finest corn meal sold in Atlanta. Try it—if you don't like it better than any other meal you've ever used, return the unused portion and your money will be refunded. All Atlanta Grocers have JIM DANDY CORN MEAL.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S OWN STORY OF THE NEW DEAL

Contained in an authorized advance publication of his notes and comments to "The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The President himself gives an account and an accounting of his Administration in a series of discussions selected from five books upon the subject which he will soon publish.

Beginning with the interval between his first election and inauguration, and carrying through to 1937, he remarks upon the most memorable events of the New Deal, upon its objectives, its achievements and its difficulties.

What the President has written is grouped by topic and will provide a series of newspaper articles, to appear daily, beginning Wednesday, March 23, in crowd to demonstrate and produced a spontaneous riot of enthusiasm when he replied: "I shall not disappoint your confidence."

Lithuania Given Demands As 50,000 Poles Cry 'War'

Differences Between Two Nations Near Climax as Anxious Europe Watches Tension Mount; French Channels Used To Ease Crisis.

"We will march to Kovno and Memel," shouted the Poles, who a half hour before had been stirred to a high pitch of anger by a speech by General Jan Gorecki, head of the Polish War Veterans' Association.

His speech bitterly condemned Lithuania at a moment when the Polish government was understood to have adopted a formula for easing tension over the Polish-Lithuanian border dispute after both Russia and Great Britain had stepped into the picture.

The gravity of the situation was shown in the fact that neither Rydz-Smigly nor the government sought to calm the anger of the crowds.

Deeply Impressed.

"The government has been deeply impressed by the anti-Lithuanian demonstrations, especially by the Warsaw demonstration," a government spokesman said.

"Foreign Minister Joseph Beck received the Italian ambassador, Baron Valentino, German Ambassador Hans-Adolf von Moltke, and French Ambassador Leon Noel and Deputy Foreign Minister Count Zernbeck received British Ambassador Sir William Kennard for lengthy conferences."

Virtually all of Europe's heavily-armed nations might be drawn into any war arising from the Polish-Lithuanian dispute and it was for this reason that Britain, Russia, France, Germany and Italy had hastened to consult with the Polish government.

Britain and France informed the foreign office that they were gravely apprehensive.

Berlin Watching.

Berlin was known to be watching the Polish situation, which might upset the balance of eastern Europe by any unexpected flare-up.

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, flushed with his "bloodless" victory over Austria, reportedly was more interested in the developments than any other European powers.

Hitler's interest was more closely affected not only because both antagonists are Germany's neighbors, but also because the Memel territory, controlled by Lithuania and frequently mentioned by Polish chauvinists as a desirable object, is inhabited by one of those German populations over whom Der Fuehrer has proclaimed a "protectorate."

REPLY WITHIN 48 HOURS

DEMANDED BY POLAND

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 17. (P)—The Lithuanian government has received a note from Poland demanding a reply within 48 hours to a demand for settlement of their differences.

The note was of "ultimate character," it was disclosed tonight.

Earlier in the day, Defense Minister Colonel Stasys Dirmanas told the diet the government was preparing to close the incident on a legal basis.

His statement, and the return of a Lithuanian policeman allegedly held by the Poles in a series of border incidents, had served to ease tension arising from the situation.

The communication was delivered by Lithuanian Minister Petras Klimas to Polish Ambassador Jules Lukasiewicz.

Klimas, acting in the name of the Lithuanian government, informed Lukasiewicz for transmission to Warsaw, that Lithuania was ready to designate a diplomatic representative to meet an authorized representative of Poland.

CHAMBERLAIN TO MAKE

STATEMENT ON POLICY

LONDON, March 17. (P)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain decided tonight to make a clear-cut statement on Britain's foreign policy to quell a rising tide of opposition to him in the cabinet, commons and the country.

Sources close to the government said Chamberlain would tell commons next week the stand the cabinet is adopting on such critical issues as Czechoslovakia and Spain.

Such a course was expected to do much to pacify those clamoring for an immediate definite declaration.

Young bloods in the cabinet, led by vigorous War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha, and buttressed by impressive backing in the house of commons, were reported to have demanded of Chamberlain:

1. A clear-cut pledge of aid in support of Czechoslovakia should she be attacked.

2. A firmer policy in the Spanish civil war to prevent Italy and Germany from dominating the peninsula.

Refusal, it was said, would lead to a number of resignations.

Demand Policy Change.

On the heels of this came a warning from a committee of influential Conservatives, headed by Winston Churchill and Robert J. G. Boothby, that Chamberlain's foreign policy must be changed quickly or they would join the opposition in commons.

Chamberlain, prime minister since May 28 when he succeeded Stanley Baldwin on the latter's retirement and elevation to the peerage, last month undertook a program of "realistic" dealings with dictator states.

These dealings were imperiled in the case of Italy and wiped out in the case of Germany by Hitler's absorption of Austria into a greater Germany.

Reliable sources said Boothby's movement might lead to at least 50 government supporters joining the opposition in parliament.

Boothby himself declared: "We are endeavoring to secure from the government a clear-cut statement of foreign policy in the very near future."

There was backing for Chamberlain, however.

Taking advantage of the fact that tomorrow the prime minister will observe his 69th birthday, legislators circulated a testimonial congratulating him and assuring him of their support.

Many signatures were obtained.

Reliable sources said that the movement against Chamberlain's foreign policy was fully supported by two ministers, Hore-Belisha, who is Liberal National, and Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald, a National Laborite.

It was stated that three Conservatives would fall into line.

These were:

Walter Elliot, secretary for Scotland.

W. S. Morrison, minister of agriculture.

William Ormsby-Gore, colonial secretary.

The attitude of three more ministers was in doubt, making a possible score of eight against 14 for Chamberlain in the 22-man cabinet.

These three are Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade; Earl De La Warr, lord privy seal and one of the leaders of the National Laborites; and Earl Winterton, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, who was appointed to the cabinet last Friday.

Winterton, though a confirmed Tory die-hard, holds what some quarters called "very definite pro-French views on foreign policy." Clement Attlee, Laborite and leader of the official opposition in the house of commons, put more pressure on Chamberlain.

He told the prime minister that unless a specific statement of policy "clearing away uncertainties" was forthcoming before Monday, the opposition again would force a foreign affairs debate.

Chamberlain, however, ignored repeated labor cries of "answer!" When Laborite Philip J. Noel-Baker asked whether Britain would fulfill her League and Locarno obligations for armed assistance in event of armed conflict in western Europe as the result of unprovoked aggression in violation of the League covenant.

Hore-Belisha was said to have precipitated the revolt over Chamberlain's foreign policy in yesterday's cabinet meeting in which he was reported to have declared he could not indorse Britain's "hands-off" stand on the Spanish war.

The war secretary, a Jew, also was said to sympathize naturally with the plight of Jews in Austria.

There was a scene in the house of commons when several men in the visitors' gallery shouted in unison:

"Chamberlain must go."

A demand that Churchill, a former first lord of the admiralty, be "given the task of reorganizing the British navy" was made in commons by Admiral Sir Roger Keyes during discussion of the new naval estimates.

"Great as our navy is," Sir Roger said, "it is not sufficiently strong to fight Germany in the North Sea, Italy in the Mediterranean and Japan in the Far East."

Churchill drew cheers when he spoke of "excellent relations prevailing on naval matters between this country and the United States."

He declared "the more ships that are built in the United States, the more confidence we have that the cause of peace in the world will be sustained."

His statement came after the government introduced naval estimates for the 1938-39 fiscal year calling for expenditures increased by about $90,000,000 over the previous year.

The admiralty's financial secretary, Geoffrey Shakespeare, said that by March, 1939, the admiralty hoped to have completed the following: One aircraft carrier, five 11,000-ton cruisers, three destroyers, 11,000-ton cruisers, three destroyers, 11,000-ton cruisers, three destroyers, 11,000-ton cruisers, three destroyers.

The foreign office, meanwhile, eagerly read reports of Secretary of State Hull's speech

Washington, but turned a cautious ear to the Russian plea for a conference for joint action against aggression.

At the same time Hitler's Reichstag speech was awaited for any indications of Europe's roadway—toward war or toward peace.

LOOK FOR THE BEAUTIFUL Round Cake SPECIALS

So beautifully and so expertly packaged, Merita's Round Cake Specials reach you oven-fresh, with the icing intact, and the whole cake perfect in shape. The recipes and ingredients for these delicious cakes are approved by Mrs. Dull, and are available every day at your grocer's in a variety of flavors and sizes.

For years Mrs. S. R. Dull has been telling you about the fine things with which Merita Cakes are made—creamery butter in quarter-pound sticks, bar chocolate, eggs, rich milk, fruit from famous orchards. Now, for a moment, let's forget about ingredients and talk about freshness. For, after all, unless your cake stays fresh and moist it is not a good cake.

In the large, modern research laboratories of the Merita Bakers numerous tests have been made to determine the keeping qualities of Merita Cakes. These tests prove conclusively that Merita Cakes will stay fresh in your pantry until the last slice is consumed. Merita's own process of "Baked-in Freshness" guarantees this lasting freshness.

New demands are expected for further clarification of the administration's foreign policy and for explanation of the "excellent arrangements" which Winston Churchill recently told the British parliament had been concluded between the United States and Great Britain.

Rayburn attempted to head off debate on this subject by assuring the house the President has no intention of policing the world with the proposed big navy.

SOVIET ASKS PARLEY

TO HALT AGGRESSORS

MOSCOW, March 17. (P)—Soviet Russia today invited world powers to consider joint action against aggressor nations and to prevent "a new world massacre."

Maxim Litvinov, the Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, indicated Germany, Italy and Japan would be ignored when the Russian proposal is offered to various capitals, including Washington.

Litvinov, disclosing the plan at one of his rare press conferences, did not specifically arrange a conference. He said one would be held if it appeared the powers were ready to do something.

The commissar indicated the call for a conference would be discussed with other governments after their ambassadors had received his formal statement of Soviet readiness to "take up immediately the consideration of measures which circumstances demand."

Foremost in his mind were the German annexation of Austria, tension on the Polish-Lithuanian frontier and the peril of Czechoslovakia from attack by Germany.

Litvinov said he was urging powers, including the United States, to discuss joint action to protect Czechoslovakia.

U. S. NOT EXPECTED

TO JOIN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, March 17. (P)—Diplomatic students said today there was little chance the United States would accept the Soviet government's invitation to discuss joint action on means of stopping international aggression.

Careful study, they said, however, undoubtedly would be given the proposal of Soviet Foreign Minister Litvinov that all world powers, except Germany, Italy and Japan, consider collective action to save Czechoslovakia from attack by German and Lithuania from Polish aggression.

James I. C. C. Group to Work Out Plan To Be Sent to Congress.

Items, thereby resulting in a longer position for the bonds and securities.

At his second meeting in a week, President Roosevelt today appointed three members of the I. C. C. as a special committee to work out recommendations for immediate action by congress in order to speed the precarious financial condition of the railroads. The committee is composed of Walter M. Splawn, chairman of the I. C. C., and Commissioners Joseph B. Eastman and Charles D. Haffie.

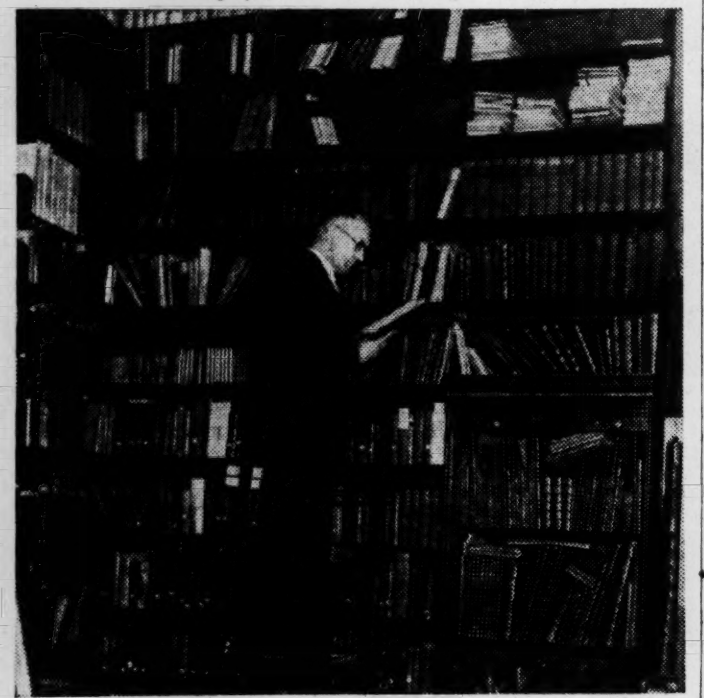

The consolidation plan is similar to the Prince plan, under which was proposed to create seven systems, two in the east, two in the south and three in the west. No Government Ownership. The plan, which is known as the national consolidation plan, does not call for government ownership of the carriers. After the consolidations were effected the roads would remain in the hands of the state owners, but their condition would be more closely supervised by the government. Security issues would be under the strict supervision of the consolidation authority.

Under these plans, the roads would deal directly with the public in their financing, eliminating completely their present bank relationship. It is estimated that there are $13,500,000 of first lien road bonds outstanding, of which $3,500,000 are in default. Life insurance companies and savings banks hold a major portion of the outstanding railroad bonds, which also includes about $100,000 of second mortgage bonds. The plan is drawn up so as to purchase of the DeRenne library will greatly complement the Moore Georgiana and the Telamon Cuyler collection of more than a thousand manuscripts, which have been acquired by the university within the past year.

SCHOOL EXPECTED TO ACQUIRE LIBRARY

Board of Regents to Meet This Morning to Approve Details of Plan.

"No state in the Union will have a finer historical collection of its own state than will Georgia through acquisition of the DeRenne library," Chancellor Sanford said.

In this connection, he called attention to the complete catalog index, the work of Leonard L. Mackall, of Savannah, formerly associated for many years with the Congressional Library of the United States, at Washington.

"Mr. Wymberley W. DeRenne, at his own expense and a cost of $30,000, had this valuable index work done," said Chancellor Sanford. "The index is contained in three large, beautifully bound and printed volumes. A limited number of copies was printed, and some of the index volumes are in great institutions of learning in this country. It adds greatly to the worth of the collection."

Referring to the library itself, Chancellor Sanford declared other universities have sought to purchase the collection, and said: "It would be a calamity for students to be recommended to go to out-of-state institutions to study the early history of Georgia."

Complete History.

The famous DeRenne Library of Georgia furnishes a complete history of Georgia. It comprises thousands of books, pamphlets and manuscripts published from 1700 down to the present century. It is the most complete collection of manuscript and printed material extant relating to the early history of Georgia.

The three volumes of the index are classified as follows: Volume 1, 1700 to 1838; Volume 2, 1838 to 1891; and Volume 3, 1891 to 1929. Few states of the Union have been served as well in assembling similar libraries. The history of the collection begins with Wymberley Jones DeRenne, whose father had also been a collector. However, this library was scattered by Sherman's troops during the War Between the States.

Thus, with the inherited zeal of a lover of historical records, DeRenne in the early 1890's actively began the intelligent collecting of books and other items descriptive of Georgia and her history.

Catalogues Searched.

Agents in Europe and this country were requested to search book catalogues and to attend book auctions, to acquire for DeRenne rare and fine items. This campaign proceeded until DeRenne's death June 23, 1916.

Meanwhile, to house and properly protect the collection, DeRenne had built on his ancestral plantation at Wormsloe, a few miles from Savannah, a beautiful building, well proportioned, fire-proof and classic in appearance. The library has remained there until now.

"The DeRenne library is not a haphazard collection of books," wrote Dr. Coulter, in The Constitution last fall. "Each item was acquired because of its intrinsic importance."

"This library is not to be measured by quantity, though it contains thousands of books, pamphlets and various other kinds of historical documents, but rather by its quality. It has a great many extremely valuable first editions and other rarities."

More Than Expert's. "But it is much more than an expert's or a specialist's library. Its greatest value for the University of Georgia is to be seen in the spread of its contents from the earliest colonial times down to the present. Throughout all the state's history there is scarcely a subject which this library does not illuminate. The bottom of few topics or theses can be reached without recourse to it."

The library contains many items to be found only in few other places. Included is the nearest complete set of session laws of Georgia in the original editions in existence, and a large and varied collection of old Georgia newspapers.

Among newspaper items is a complete photostat file of the Royal Georgia Gazette, first newspaper in the state, and an original file of the Cherokee Phoenix, a remarkable newspaper published by the Indians at New Echota, in both English and the Cherokee tongues.

Important Works. The library is rich in travel books; contains works of virtually all important Georgia authors, and valuable bibliographies of such men as Sabin, Stevens and Evans.

The books veer out of the field of strictly Georgia history in volumes of the period of the Confederacy.

The library contains hundreds of maps, many going back to years before Georgia was founded. The maps include the famous map of John Mitchell, in four large sheets, which was published in Amsterdam in 1755 and which shows British and foreign dominions in North America.

Another valuable map is William Faden's map of North America, with printed border-text, published in 1783. Only one other copy of this map is known to be in existence.

Other items are many rare engravings. The best known of these, because it has been copied and reproduced so often, is Peter Gordon's view of Savannah as it stood March 29, 1734. George Washington owned a copy of this engraving, but few others have been located.

Many Manuscripts.

Although notable mainly as a collection of printed material, the library contains a great many

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—(P)—Testifying before a senate committee today, J. R. Bachman, a director of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, said rail lines in the past had shown "shameless favoritism" to certain sections and that repeal of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce act would mean a return of that condition.

Bachman, one of two southern traffic representatives testifying before the committee against the Pettengill bill to repeal the clause, contended Atlanta sought only an equality with other shipping centers.

No Preferential Rate.

The clause the Pettengill bill would repeal prohibits railroads from charging a lower rate for a long haul than for a shorter haul over the same route in the same direction.

Warning the senate committee against a return to "unsavory and demoralizing" conditions which existed before the government imposed strict regulations on railroad freight rates, Bachman said the long-short clause and others which might eliminate "inglorious record of rate manipulations" gave rise to a "remarkable industrial and commercial development in the southeast."

"Life Depends on Section." "Perhaps it is because the railroads have kept Atlanta so busy fighting for breath that she has not had time to think of luxury," he said.

P. H. Johansen, representing the North Carolina Traffic League, said it was "a mirage" to believe the Pettengill bill would increase employment.

Marriage Plans Denied by Garbo And Stokowski

RAVELLO, Italy, March 17.—

(P)—Greta Garbo, the actress, and Leopold Stokowski, the symphony maestro, said today that they were not planning to marry.

First the conductor and then the Swedish star received reporters in the library of the ancient villa where they have been vacationing for three weeks.

Stokowski denied flatly they contemplated marriage and then left the room, saying Garbo would be there in a moment.

She entered, wearing a blue gabardine suit, yellow sweater and blue scarf. Nervously fingering a pair of black gloves, she said: "I only want to be let alone."

Garbo said she was so alarmed by "cruel events happening in the world today" that she thought its beauty might not last much longer and she wanted to see it before it vanished.

Then she explained that Stokowski was "a friend who has seen much and offered to show me some of the beauty of the world."

"I have never been about much so I optimistically accepted his offer."

"Marriage?" she mused. "I wouldn't know. There seems to be a law that governs all our actions so I never make plans."

manuscripts. The most valuable single group of manuscripts is the hundreds of original, confidential letters and telegrams from General Robert E. Lee to President Jefferson Davis during the War Between the States.

There also are many original reports and letters relating to the colonial period, and numerous letters penned by prominent men in later times, as yet not classified. An interesting single item is General Sherman's reply to the mayor of Atlanta relative to evacuation of the civilian population.

Other valuable items include the only known copy of the second Georgia Constitution, 1789; the "Yazoo Act" itself, as officially printed when first passed; the only known copy of a pamphlet from the Royal Georgia Gazette called an "Account of the Siege of Savannah," printed in 1780 by James Johnston, and a rare broadside printed on satin at Augusta of the Ordinance of Secession of the Republic of Georgia passed January 19, 1861.

Library Expansion.

Purchase of the library is in line with the program of the state board of regents and Chancellor Sanford of expanding the library facilities at the University of Georgia, to better serve the more than 3,000 students now attending.

Since organization of the regents, the university has placed emphasis upon graduate work requiring extensive research. During the past summer school, 416 graduate students attended the university.

Chancellor Sanford said the library would be removed to the university at Athens as soon as possible.

Dr. Coulter, in his article in The Constitution last fall, concluded by stating: "Probably the DeRenne Library of Georgiana is strongest in the Colonial, Revolutionary and Confederate periods; but it is conspicuously weak nowhere. An institution of learning which is seeking to specialize in its historical, literary and cultural activities in Georgia and the southeast cannot afford to be deprived of this wealth of material."

7 SHOE EMPLOYEES REINSTATED BY NLRB

Atlanta Plant Indulged in 'Unfair Practices,' U. S.
Board Finds.

The National Labor Relations Board, on a finding that the General Shoe Corporation, of Nashville, Tenn., had indulged in "unfair labor practices" at its Atlanta plant yesterday, ordered reinstatement of seven employees and reimbursement for time lost of nine others previously reinstated.

It was charged the company discriminated "in regard to the hire and tenure of employment" of 19 employees, "and thereby discouraged membership in United Shoemakers of America," an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

It was ordered that the corporation "cease and desist" from "discouraging membership in United Shoemakers of America" and from "dominating" or "contributing support to the shoemakers' association," the latter described in testimony as an "inside union."

The order instructed the corporation to withdraw recognition of shoemakers' association as representative of its employees for collective bargaining purposes and to post notices there would be no discrimination, coercion or intimidation of employees permitted.

The board said A. Steve Nance filed charges in the complaint as president of the Georgia Federation of Labor after he had been suspended from that office by the

Pony Leaves Home To 'See the World'

Druid Hills residents and DeKalb and Atlanta police were on the lookout last night for a shaggy Shetland pony which apparently took a notion to see the world, kicked down the bars of his corral and trotted away from his young master's home at 880 Oakdale road.

Missed about noon, the pony was sighted later at Springdale road and The Byway. When police arrived, however, he had disappeared again. He is the property of Emory L. Jenks Jr., son of Mrs. Emory Jenks.

executive council of the AFL for CIO connections.

The board said it was not "concerned" with the controversy between Nance and the AFL and that this could not affect the jurisdiction of the board since the charges could be deemed to have been filed by Nance as an individual, satisfying requirements of the National Labor Relations act.

GUN OVERTURNS, KILLS 7.

RADSTADT, Austria, March 17. (UP)—Seven persons were killed and several injured tonight when a German artillery gun carriage overturned near here in the Salzburg Alps, it was announced officially.

Dresses made from Sears own materials were featured at the fashion revue of practical spring fashions shown yesterday at The Constitution Garden School. In the upper left is Mrs. Virginia de Oviés in a white spring suit, and at the right is Mrs. Lorian Belmont, in blue sugar satin. In the foreground, Mrs. Flora Morris wears one of the new peasant garden frocks, three-piece, with removable skirt worn over a play suit. Little John MacQuiston Nichols is in white and Du-bonnet linen and little Joyce Smith wears an apricot net party dress.

PRISONER ADMITS DOUBLE STRANGLING

Electrician Says, After Leap,
He Killed Former Wife and Her Landlady.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 17.—(AP)—Buffalo police announced tonight that Peter Burton, 39, Detroit electrician, confessed strangling his former wife, Mrs. Monica Janonis, 40, and her landlady, Mrs. Ursula Jakubowski, 53, in a Detroit rooming house, last Monday.

Chief of Detectives Whalen said Burton admitted the double killing as he lay severely injured after a desperate leap from the third floor of police headquarters here. "Yes, I killed them," Whalen quoted Burton as whispering from his hospital pillow, a half hour after he had jumped out of a window.

A passing newsboy, John Mas-saro, 14, was slightly hurt as Bur-ton's body struck his leg.

"Spring Garden Work" will be the topic discussed this morning by Mrs. Crown at the fourth and last session of the school. Doors open at 9 o'clock and the lecture begins at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Reginald Fleet, a member of the Planters' Garden Club and publicity chairman for the forthcoming garden pilgrimage to be sponsored by the Garden Club of Georgia, will introduce Mrs. Crown this morning.

As an added feature today and similar to the ones marking yesterday's and Wednesday's school there will be presented a movie in technicolor showing floral and foliage beautification for the modern home and presented through the H. G. Hastings Company. This film will be followed by a fashion revue of spring and summer practical fashions staged by Sears. After the lecture there will be an interesting and historical movie showing the gardens in and around Williamsburg, Va., and interiors of homes there. These pictures are being presented at the school through Duffee-Freeman Company. There also will be a musical program by Miss Hermes Jacobs, well-known Atlanta music teacher.

Roses have universal appeal both to men and women as evidenced by the number of men seen in yesterday's audience. This masculine interest was further emphasized by the fact that a man—Dr. L. C. Fischer, a noted authority on roses, was selected to introduce Mrs. Crown. Introduction by a man was an unusual feature marking the garden school and in his brief speech yesterday Dr. Fischer said:

"I own no interest in the firms participating in this school, nor do I own interest in The Constitution, but I do feel that every person here should pay an admission fee for being able to attend such a noteworthy occasion as this school. People do not realize and I mean that more for the men here than for the women, just what a great thing The Constitution is doing in bringing this school to us. And of course with Mrs. Crown as the teacher that is enough said. The women have to lead us and we are willing to be led into this school and into garden work after hearing the advice from Mrs. Crown. The men owe the women a vote of thanks for their garden work and all of us here, men, women and children, owe The Constitution a rising vote of thanks for this school."

From the garden-designed stage, Mrs. Crown discussed roses from every angle and gave some outstanding information on the planting, cultivation and care of the universal favorite among Mother Nature's children.

Likes and Dislikes.

She said: "Roses have likes and dislikes just like human beings. But despite this there is not a climate anywhere in which roses cannot be grown. You do not have to have a garden to have roses. How many homes have you seen with roses rambling over the doorway? There was no garden there, yet roses were there in all their beauty and glory."

"There are three definite steps which must be taken in the rose cultivation. First you must find a place to plant them. Then you must decide on the type of roses you wish to grow and third, the variety. There are many varieties of roses and each in itself forms a definite spot in any garden or section. In selecting a place to plant the roses be sure that there is plenty of sun. I, myself, have never thought that roses could do well in the shade. I think that five hours' sun a day is sufficient. They must be planted as far from the roots of trees as possible for these roots sap the strength of the rose roots. And be sure that there is a windbreak on the north side of the garden.

"In old-fashioned gardens there, were always rose gardens and they were always large and round which meant that the gardener had to walk over the outside plants and ground to reach the center for working. This is a bad idea. The long bed is by far the best. They should be five feet wide and from 15 to 20 feet long."

Many gardeners let their roses grow into bushes which result in the blossoms having too short stems, Mrs. Crown pointed out. Roses now must have long stems. It is not too late to plant them now and all gardeners will be wise, and later, very thankful that they have roses in their garden.

"In planting roses," said Mrs. Crown, "dig a hole, pour in a bucket of water to test the soil. Roses like a lot of water, but do not like to go to bed with their feet wet. Dig down at least 24 inches for drainage. Take all the old tin cans, shoes and anything else you don't want, dump them into the bottom of the rose bed. They will serve as an excellent drainage work. Then put the top soil in first and then the bottom soil. Roses like a heavy soil."

"Roses with dry roots are useless. They must be kept wrapped up. As to pruning, the weaker roses, which are selected for necessary. When pruning a rose always cut away the outward growing stem."

Food for Roses.

"Rose beds must be worked from now until the last of June. Rose food includes nitrogen for growth; phosphorus for developing buds; and potash for developing rich color and stems. Roses must be watered once a week and always before a rain, if possible. They must be sprayed with a mixture of nine pounds of sulphur, one pound of arsenic of lead and one pound of tobacco dust."

"Paul Scarlett need very little pruning and should be kept with roots flat. Dorothy Perkins roses should be cut to the ground each year after blooming. All climbing roses should be trained in a horizontal manner."

At a special session last night, the first evening class ever given during The Constitution schools, Mrs. Crown summarized the highlights of yesterday and Wednesday's lectures on "Summer Flowering Bulbs" and "Roses." There were men and women in the audience, but Mrs. Crown directed much of her talk to the masculine element in the discussion of dahlias. She said men were really the chief dahlia growers, going in for giant cultivation of the flowers.

"Men are far different gardeners from women," she said. "Women like a lot of variety in their gardens while men take one plant, study its care and cultivation and grow it superbly. If you will notice there are far more men winners in dahlia exhibits at the flower shows than women," she asserted.

Preceding the lecture yesterday on roses there was a movie presented through H. G. Hastings showing the foliage and floral arrangements which should be used in the ground arrangement of a modern home. This was followed by an unusually attractive fashion show presented by Sears. The models wore the latest in practical fashions for spring and summer and adding an unusual feature to the presentation were the models made from material bought at Sears and made into dresses by Mary Sells. As each dress was modeled, a bolt of the same material was exhibited and the price given.

The attendance honor went to the Garden Division of the Grant Park Woman's Club of which Mrs. C. W. Heery is chairman, with a quota of 24. This group of women representing this garden division won the grand prize at The Constitution garden school last fall with the largest quota of attendance for the three days. Mrs. Heery, who goes out of office today as the chairman of the group, will have a double announcement to make regarding the outstanding garden work done by her co-workers.

REBEL AIR BOMBS SWEEP BARCELONA

lunch. Many victims were caught at a subway entrance.

Twelve workers were killed when a shoe factory was hit. Buildings five and six stories high caved in under the terrific assault. Nearly every section—Barcelona's center, the working class district, and the new residential area, felt the fury of the attack.

1,000 Diners in Attack. One bomb splattered fragments over a former hotel where 1,000 workers were eating in a workers' restaurant.

The Spanish capital—already threatened with severance from the rest of Spain by the insurgent advance along Catalonia's southern border—took the raids bravely.

The dusty silence that followed the roar of exploding bombs was cut by guards' whistles shrilling for ambulances and the noise of fire-fighting apparatus summoned to battle blazes.

The seat of Spain's principal manufactures and the largest seaport, Barcelona, is one of the greatest prizes still outside the grasp of Franco's forces.

It became the temporary capital of government Spain when insurgents drew their lines close to Madrid and threatened Valencia, the first temporary capital.

Reported from Castellon, 40 miles north of Valencia, said the Czechoslovakian consulate was destroyed in an insurgent raid yesterday.

At the coastal city of Vinaroz the French consul, Jose Ramos Delmas, was reported killed. No further details of the attacks were learned in Barcelona.

U. S. Embassy Moves.

United States embassy officials in Barcelona immediately began moving to new quarters after a projectile damaged their old headquarters.

As night fell on the damaged city three buildings still were burning and rescue workers labored in the glare and with the aid of flashlights searching for more victims. Officials believed the final death count would not be completed for days.

The city's handsome central boulevards and the famous midtown Plaza Catalunya were marked with bomb craters and strewn with wreckage of surrounding buildings.

Each of the successive bombings seemed worse to Barcelonians. In the attack at 7:45 a. m. at least 126 persons were killed and over 100 wounded when a subway entrance was hit.

A little later the narrow winding streets of the "old town"—Barcelona's poor section—were struck, killing about 35 and wounding 80 more.

The noon attack centered on the Plaza Catalunya in the heart of the city, rocking restaurants and cafes crowded with lunchers. Five bombs crashed near one of the most popular cafes, digging a huge crater and bursting water mains.

Bill Rogers, son of the late American humorist, was among those who escaped injury when guests of one of the largest luxury hotels were shaken from their beds by a bomb blast.

INSURGENTS TAKE CASPE ON MARCH TO SEA

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), March 17.—(AP) Spanish insurgents driving toward dismemberment of government Spain today captured Caspe—one more objective on their march to the sea.

Generalissimo Franco's heavily reinforced armies in eastern Spain smashed government resistance that was the greatest since the Madrid-Barcelona regime lost Belchite early in the week-old insurgent offensive.

MEETING ON PEACE ENDS IN FIGHTING

PARIS, March 17.—(AP)—Nearly 2,000 persons, unable to enter a crowded peace meeting tonight, turned to fighting the police instead.

Peace societies had called for a demonstration at the new Trocadero palace, and the overflow filled a large square outside.

The crowd screamed "open the Spanish frontier" (to shipments of arms for the Spanish government) until police flying squads fell upon them with night sticks.

the same time its troops had killed 4,000 insurgents in "the worst fighting of the civil war" in the sector south of Caspe.

A government communique said, however, their troops had been forced by the overwhelming insurgent power to evacuate both Caspe and Alcorizo, small towns dominating the Alcaniz-Montalban highway.

Evidence that the insurgent advance had regained its momentum and was moving south was indicated by a government announcement of heavy fighting on the Alcaniz-Morella road. The insurgents were reported to have been repulsed there.

Insurgent reports said five international brigades were dispersed in the capture of Caspe and hundreds of foreigners taken prisoner in the mountainous battle area.

SPANISH VIOLENCE LAID TO HITLER AND MUSSOLINI

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP) The Spanish ambassador, Dr. Fernando De Los Rios, charged tonight that Hitler and Mussolini were attempting to achieve in Spain "by violence" what Hitler achieved in Austria by "intimidation."

The government, he said, was ready to "resist to the last." It was "imperative," he added, that the right of purchasing arms should not be denied the Spanish Republican regime.

In this it was understood he referred to the American neutrality law, and non-intervention measures of other powers.

"Twelve hundred persons were killed and approximately 2,000 wounded in a series of raids on Barcelona today," De Los Rios said.

(News dispatches from Barcelona placed the number of dead at more than 600.)

John M'Cormack May Enter Irish Presidency Race

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 17.—(AP)—John McCormack, noted actor, announced tonight he was considering standing for the presidency of his native Ireland.

"I have not had any official invitation," said McCormack, "so very many of my friends in Ireland have written me to tell me to stand for the office. I would like to find out if I am eligible for the position under new constitution."

McCormack, who has spent years of his time in Ireland in recent years, said if both the Cosgrave and De Valera parties wished he would be glad to stand for election.

His announcement was made during a St. Patrick's Day broadcast.

RELIEF LABORERS IN STATE PRAISED ON EFFICIENT WORK

Co-operation Between Georgia, Federal Government Stressed by Rivers.

Work performed by relief labor in Georgia has been "on a whole conscientiously performed to a point of efficiency almost equal to that of private industry," Richard Job, director of the State Planning Board, told members of the appraisal committee yesterday.

The statement was made after analyzing 300 reports from 25 Georgia counties in which county commissioners, mayors and others sponsoring relief work objects told what they thought the permanent value of relief projects to the communities and the state as a whole.

The state appraisal committee is appointed by the State Planning Board to evaluate the projects the various federal work relief agencies in Georgia as a part of the United States Community Appraisal program.

Lot of Misinformation. There has been a lot of misinformation that the workers have received pay and have not given due received," Job told the committee. "That might be true in a few instances where the rounds had been fitted into square holes. However, having worked in Georgia since June, 1936, including engineers, draftsmen and clerical help, I find them both willing and loyal."

Governor Rivers said the appraisal will show what co-operation between the state and federal government can do.

Public work is often criticized, Job said, to have a survey made that will give the people a simple fact, so that the people may know what is correct.

What is misinformation, Job said, is to be a fine and worthwhile survey. Governor Rivers continued, "We hear on all sides the burdens of taxation—it is in time that the benefits derived from taxation should be recognized."

Job told the committee that no criticism of what has been done in the relief agencies had been in the reports, and there was no suggestion of misuse of funds or extravagance, he said.

Woodford Is Chairman.

Guy Woodford was appointed chairman of the state appraisal committee and a subcommittee was appointed to draw up a report for the committee to make to the Governor Rivers, M. T. Simpson, past president of the Georgia Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers; Zachary White auditor; Woodford, M. D. Center, president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers; Ralph L. Ramsey, executive secretary, Georgia Education Association; Miss Josephine Williams, president of the Georgia League of Women Voters; and Job.

Jane Van de Vrede of the men's and professional projects of the WPA, attended on invitation.

OVER JOB HUNTERS REPORTED IN STATE

Director Marion A. O'Connor, of Georgia State Employment Service, said yesterday public employment officers last month registered 43.1 per cent fewer unemployed persons hunting jobs in January.

The director said the Georgia State Employment Service during the month placed a total of 2,006 hunters, 868 in private employment and 1,138 on public jobs. The national re-employment service with the state service co-operating, placed a total of 2,198,554 of these in private employment and 1,644 on public jobs.

The Macon district led in placements made in private industry for February with a total of 356. The Atlanta district was second with 157. Augusta had 121, Columbus 136, Savannah 98, Albany 74, Athens 54, Griffin 25, and Valdosta 77.

WPA WORKERS BACK U. S. REVISION BILL

'Behind-the-Scenes' Struggle on Reorganization Viewed by Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP) The senate got its first official glimpse of the behind-the-scenes struggle over the administration reorganization bill when Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota, read today seven telegrams urging him to support the measure "so that WPA work can continue in North Dakota."

The senator took care to say that he generally approved the WPA program, but added "I do not like this."

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of a pending amendment which would restrict the powers of the President to reorganize department, offered his interpretation of the telegrams addressed to Frazier by mayors and other North Dakota officials. "What they meant," Wheeler volunteered, "was that you would be cut off from WPA work if you didn't vote for this bill."

Wheeler and others opposing the bill told reporters the administration was "moving heaven and earth" to defeat the Wheeler amendment, which would require the consent of congress before presidential reorganization orders become effective.

Administration leaders countered this charge, however, by calling a session of the senate lobby committee for tomorrow to study efforts which, they said, were being made to defeat the bill.

Chairman Minton, Democrat, Indiana, said witnesses associated with the National Committee to Uphold Constitutional Government would be questioned. This committee, sponsored by Frank E. Gannett, publisher, was active in the successful fight against the President's court reorganization bill last summer.

U. S. Considers Atlanta as Base For Federal Theater Road Shows

By LEE ROGERS.

A regional federal theater project to provide road companies which will present legitimate stage productions in southeastern states will be established in Atlanta if Mrs. Hallie Flanagan's plans come true.

Mrs. Flanagan, of Washington, is director of the Federal Theater projects for the nation. She was in Atlanta for a few hours yesterday on an inspection tour of southern theater projects.

She said the plan is to establish regional projects which will present stage plays in all towns that want them. Atlanta is an ideal city for one of the projects under consideration, she said.

Interviews Interviewer. The national director interviewed representatives of the Atlanta papers as much as they interviewed her. She inquired what plays they thought would attract more Atlantans to legitimate stage plays.

"The federal theater project was established to fulfill two purposes," Mrs. Flanagan explained. "One, and the basic principle, was to rehabilitate more than 9,000 actors, who were without jobs when the project was begun two and a half years ago. The other, which is related closely, was to provide entertainment for those persons being denied pleasure because of economic conditions. To provide this entertainment we must give the public what it wants to see."

Mrs. Flanagan wants the Atlanta Federal theater to present plays that will interpret this section of the country and will depict not only the south's "glorious past," but also the problems of today. Production of Cora Harris' "The Circuit Rider," was suggested.

Since the national theater projects were undertaken, plays have been presented before 25,000,000 persons and Mrs. Flanagan estimated that 65 per cent of this number had never before seen stage productions.

Give Youth a Chance. "American youth has not seen the theater and it is up to us to see that they are given an education in the theater," Mrs. Flanagan continued. "I believe people will go."

The national director complimented the local federal theater personnel, particularly Mrs. Sara Thomas, the director here, and pointed to the minstrel unit working in towns near Atlanta and making a financial success of its venture.

Mrs. Flanagan told of the federal theater plan to present 14 outstanding plays over the radio, which will feature such stars as Lillian Gish, playing with one of the federal theater units.

COUNCIL GROUP O.K.'S NORTH AVENUE PASS

Extension of Street Recommended to Relieve Ponce de Leon Traffic.

A step toward the erection of an underpass on east North avenue between Angier and Bonaventure avenues was taken yesterday when the streets committee recommended drawing of plans and specifications for the project.

The committee's report will be considered by city council Monday afternoon.

The North avenue underpass, which would open up North avenue behind Sears, Roebuck & Co., has been endorsed by business leaders as an important project.

It would relieve traffic congestion on busy Ponce de Leon avenue, they said.

Alderman I. Gloer Hailey introduced a resolution yesterday to direct Clark Donaldson, chief of construction, to draw plans and specifications and to make an estimate of the cost.

The city already owns the right-of-way for the underpass. It has been estimated that the cost of the underpass itself will be no more than $35,000, but that the cost of adjusting street approaches to the underpass will be greater.

Hailey said the city was in position to build the underpass if council so desired.

Mayor Hartsfield said he approves the plan for construction of the underpass and asserted he will aid as much as possible in arranging financing of the project.

TIMBERMEN MOVE TO SAVE CCC CAMP

Abandonment of Armuchee Unit Opposed by New Association.

ROME, March 17.—Timber protective associations in Floyd and five other northwest Georgia counties are leading a movement for retention of CCC Camp P-87 at Armuchee, which has been recommended for abandonment by the State Forestry Department.

A group of 24 prominent citizens, representing timber protective associations in Floyd, Chattooga, Cherokee, Polk, Bartow and Gilmer counties, formed the Northwest Georgia Timber Protective Association here this week and formed plans to obtain a better apportionment of federal and state forestry funds for this section of the state.

The new organization urged that the various counties represented, through resolutions of county commissioners, civic clubs and other organizations, protest to state and federal officials the removal or abandonment of Camp P-87, calling attention to the fact that work on private lands in north Georgia is being abandoned, while six camps are being retained in the northern part of the state.

State legislators from Floyd, Bartow and Polk counties will be asked to go to Atlanta and "through whatever source possible obtain figures relative to expenditure of state and federal funds for forestry work, and for what purpose funds were being spent," and representatives in congress will be requested to institute proceedings "to determine what federal money has been spent in forestry work in Georgia, where it had been spent, and for what purpose."

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO BABY GIRL, 2

Father Is Treasurer of Hotel Company.

Rebecca Diane Wallace, two-and-one-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Cobb Wallace, died yesterday afternoon of pneumonia at the residence, 408 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E.

Her father, W. C. Wallace, is secretary and treasurer of the Wallace hotel.

Surviving in addition to her parents are a brother, Will Cobb Wallace Jr., and a grandmother, Mrs. N. W. Wallace, Lincolnton, Ga.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Atwry & Lowndes, with Dr. W. A. Shelton officiating. Burial will be in Jonesboro cemetery.

FORESTERS TO SURVEY TATNALL TIMBER LAND

State Forester Frank Heyward and his assistant in charge of forest management, H. C. Carruth, left Atlanta for Tatnall prison late yesterday for a survey of more than 5,000 acres of timber land.

Heyward said Governor Rivers had asked the Forestry Department to prepare a detailed management program for operation of the tract by the State Board of Penal Administration. He added the program would include plans for fire protection and harvesting of merchantable timber and naval stores so as to produce a sustained income. All work would be done by convict labor.

Vehicle Owners Liable For Unlicensed Drivers

Automobile and truck owners who permit unlicensed drivers to drive their vehicles may expect to feel the "full force of the state driving license law," Recorder A. W. Callaway announced yesterday.

Recorder Callaway pointed out several cases of this type have been before him lately, adding the state law makes it a misdemeanor for an owner to let an unlicensed driver operate his automobile.

"Unless this practice is discontinued, I am going to be compelled to hold the motor vehicle owner for violating the state drivers' license law," he said.

Expert Traces Safety of Trade to Insurance

Major Roger B. Hull Speaks at Meeting of Atlanta Underwriters.

Use of the American agency system has made it possible for legal reserve life insurance companies to build up assets which constitute the bedrock of business and industry in this country, Major Roger B. Hull, general counsel of the National Association of Life Underwriters, said here yesterday.

Speaking at a meeting of the Atlanta association, he said no other method of selling insurance policies could succeed in the long run because of the personal elements involved and because insurance was a completely different type of commodity.

Citing the origin of the business in England, he pointed out that American pioneers found that the institution could be useful only to the extent that people learned to use it and actually did use it.

Future Benefits Sold. "Life insurance selling differs from other types of selling," he said, "primarily because it has to do with a unique kind of relationship between buyer and seller. Its main objective is to persuade people to forego present pleasures in return for future benefits. In other words, they must be taught what insurance really means."

"We may well be thankful, therefore, that our early leaders foresaw the necessity for establishing, in connection with the life insurance business, what has come to be known as the great American agency system. Without it the people of this country could never have learned of the benefits of life insurance, and the business could never have played such an important role in our economic life."

Major Hull referred specifically to a law just passed in New York which will put savings banks in the insurance business. This, he said, would result in inadequate coverage and policies which in many cases would not be properly adjusted to the needs of the policyholders and their families.

64,000,000 Own Policies.

Quoting statistics on the growth of the business in recent years, he said that at the close of 1937, a total of 64,000,000 persons owned policies aggregating $110,000,000,000 the largest amount of life insurance ever held in legal reserve companies of this country. Assets of these companies amount to $26,350,000,000, a gain of $1,500,000,000 in 12 months.

This reserve he termed "the treasure chest of America." He said no one should impair it by thoughtless or careless criticism. "I do not speak on behalf of the life insurance companies," he said, "but on behalf of more than 100,000,000 American citizens who are directly concerned. These assets are being held in trust for them."

Social Institution.

"Life insurance is not a mere commercial enterprise. It is a social and economic institution. Moreover, life insurance is not the private vehicle of the man of wealth. Policyholders in this country are the rank and file of our population.

"Nowhere else in the world has the life insurance business developed so rapidly as in this country. With less than 7 per cent of the world's population, we own more than 70 per cent of the world's life insurance."

"Canada comes next and Great Britain third. And there is striking significance in the fact these three countries are the chief surviving examples of democracy and the philosophy of individual liberty."

COBB IS CONVICTED IN CONTEMPT CASE

Lawyer Ordered To Serve 20 Days and Pay $200.

MILLEN, March 17.—(AP)—Albert L. Cobb, Savannah attorney, was adjudged guilty of direct contempt of Judge William Woodrum's court here today, while he was in the act of defending himself against a charge of constructive contempt, committed several weeks ago through his newspaper, "Cobb's Messenger."

Judge Woodrum recessed the hearing for which Cobb was brought to Millen today, and sent him to a cell in the Bulloch county jail to serve 20 days and pay a fine of $200.

Cobb is already under a similar sentence for language used in a book about the Daughtry murder case, which he wrote while in the Richmond county jail charged with murder. That judgment has been appealed. He now stands convicted by the judge of one instance of constructive contempt, one of direct contempt, and still another constructive contempt charge is pending.

The hearing was recessed this afternoon until March 31.

FLOOD FEARS PASS IN SOUTH ALABAMA

ELBA, Ala., March 17.—(AP)—South Alabama gave a sigh of relief today as the threat of a major flood from its swollen rivers appeared definitely past.

The Pea river here was receding rapidly, after giving the 3,000 residents of this community an anxious night. The Conecuh was rising still near Brewton, but backwaters from Murder creek there were going down and no major damage was expected.

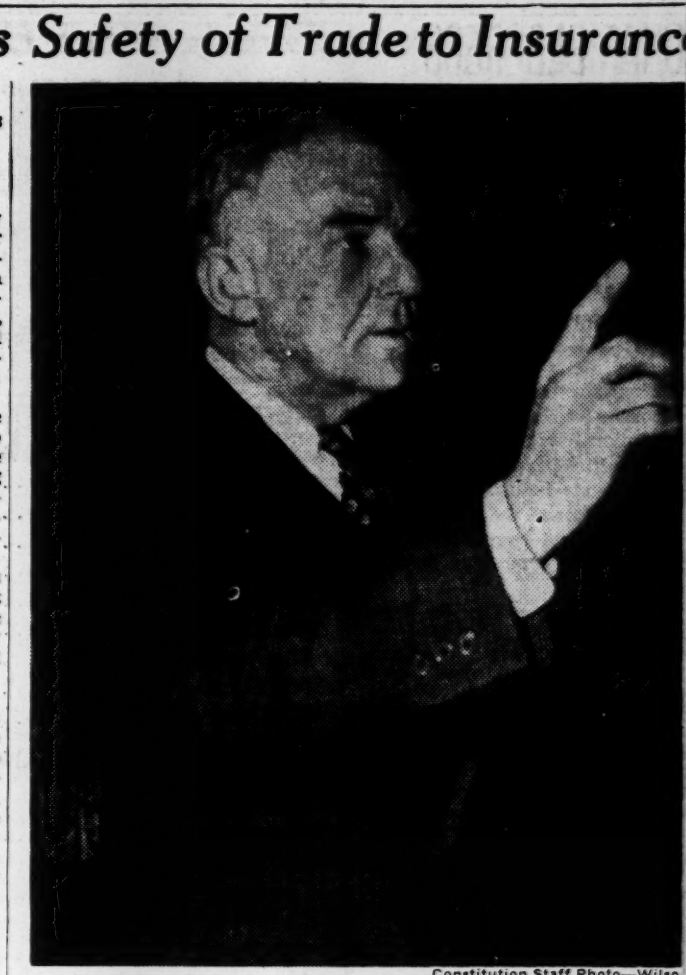

WOMAN, 53, KILLED BY TRAIN AT HAMPTON

HAMPTON, March 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Aiken, 53, was fatally injured today when she stepped onto railroad tracks in front of the Dixie Flyer passenger train.

She was a widow.

Witnesses said she was returning to her home after posting a letter.

COURT NOT DELAYED BY LAWSON SUICIDE

Earle and Guffey Split on Candidacy for Governor, Running for Senate, Backs Jones as Senator Favors Kennedy.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 17.—(AP)—Governor Earle lined up today with the Democratic state committee of Pennsylvania in opposition to United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey over a candidacy for governor at the May 17 primary.

At the same time Earle expressed confidence that the party—nearly three weeks—would be "happy family" after the primary.

The Governor endorsed Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh attorney who was slated for the nomination by the state committee, a urged Democrats of the state support him. The committee endorsed Earle for United States senator on the slate with Jones.

Senator Guffey, who, like Earle has supported President Roosevelt's policies, split with the Governor Thomas Kennedy. Kennedy is backed also for Governor by John L. Lewis, CIO chief.

As another prime development of the day, Mrs. Edith DeWitt, vice chairman of the state committee and deputy state secretary welfare, went over to the Guffey-Kennedy forces. She has been mentioned as a possible candidate for secretary of internal affairs Kennedy's ticket.

Earle's endorsement of Jones brought from the Kennedy headquarters a statement that the Guffey strategy was unchanged. "We are for the Governor," said Edward N. Jones, Kennedy's publicity director. "He is on our ticket (for senator). He has a right to be for anyone he pleases."

HEALTH CONDITIONS IN STATE ASSAILED

Long-Range Rural Cleanup Program Urged.

TIFFIN, March 17.—(AP)—E. A. Turner, Brooks county sanitary engineer, warned the Southwest Georgia Public Health Association today unsanitary conditions in some rural communities "form a potential powder keg that needs only the spark of some foreign infectious organism to explode a major epidemic."

Turner compared conditions in some rural areas to the sanitary condition in London 100 years ago, one year previous to an outbreak of cholera that took 100,000 lives in 10 years.

"Unsanitary conditions due to lack of apprehension on the part of the community in many cases have allowed sewer lines to become abandoned and in some places even the municipal water systems to become so dilapidated as to be a real health menace."

He urged "a long-range sanitation program, with emphasis on permanency of improvements, education and definite provisions for maintenance."

ATHENS BARBER KILLED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

ATHENS, March 17.—(AP)—Eugene Fields, youthful Athens barber, was killed early today when a car he was driving skidded on a curve on South Lumpkin street here, and overturned, as he and his sister were en route home.

Fields' neck was broken. His sister, Miss Helen Fields, was slightly injured and was given treatment at General hospital.

POPE NAMES U. S. BISHOP

ROME, March 17.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI today named Monsignor William Murphy as bishop of a new diocese at Saginaw, Mich.

CHAMBER BACKS BLUM CABINET BY 369-196 VOTE

Program to Hasten France's Billion-Dollar Rearmament Approved.

PARIS, March 17.—(AP)—Premier Leon Blum's four-day-old cabinet and its billion-dollar program for swift rearmament won a 369-to-196 vote of confidence tonight in the chamber of deputies.

Shortly before facing the chamber, the cabinet had taken two steps to hasten France's arms building.

It authorized extraordinary expenses of 4,465,000,000 francs (about $134,000,000) for new fighting planes, and decided to ask parliament for additional exceptional armaments credits.

Lines Not Intact.
Despite the vote based on setting a date for foreign affairs debate, however, Blum did not emerge from his ministry's first test of power with his lines intact.

The vote came only after a minority had rejected his offer to form a national union government—of all parties—to succeed the present popular front cabinet.

Blum declared France was compelled to speed up her arms program because Germany's annexation of Austria had shaken the continent and easily might lead to "much more serious" consequences.

Blum assured parliament France would go to extremes to preserve peace, but warned she must fulfill her pledges—a reference to her treaty obligation to aid Czechoslovakia if that country is invaded.

Parliament already has approved ordinary, extraordinary and extraordinary expenses of 25,945,005,856 francs (about $778,362,000) for fighting forces in 1938.

In addition, an estimated 3,000,000,000 francs (about $890,000,000) will be spent in 1939. France's five-year 12,000,000,000-franc ($360,000,000) plan.

Britain's pledge of naval aid if Italian and German forces in Spain menaced France's Mediterranean sea routes eased some French fears, but there still was anxiety over the danger of German invasion of Czechoslovakia and the dispute between Poland and Lithuania.

The foreign office said French and British ambassadors at Warsaw had asked Poland to submit differences with Lithuania to negotiation rather than endanger European peace through methods of force.

SOVIET WAR AID HAILED BY CZECHS

Assurances of Help If Attacked Satisfies Deputies.

PRAHA, March 17.—(AP)—Great satisfaction was expressed in the chamber of deputies today over Soviet Russia's assurances she would fight to defend Czechoslovakia if the war-created republic were attacked.

Meanwhile, two suicides were reported here among refugees who had fled Nazi Germany.

Frau Else Pollack von Parnigg, 44-year-old widow of a prominent textile industrialist, was said to have jumped to her death from a fifth floor. She arrived Tuesday from Vienna.

Dr. Fritz Kreisler, 31, former well-known Viennese lawyer-doctor, was reported to have ended his life. His mother became insane and was placed in an asylum.

LEWIS URGES RELIEF CASH.
WASHINGTON, March 17.—(AP)—John L. Lewis urged congress today to appropriate $3,000,000,000 for relief for the next fiscal year. Unemployment is a "profound threat to our stability as a nation," he said.

"Every Spring I take a course of S.S.S."

I KNOW that tired-let-down-exhausted feeling is often due to a lack of strength in my red cells.

It is all so simple, too! Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food turned into real energy and strength.

S.S.S. Tonic helps rebuild these precious red cells. S.S.S. is a simple, internal remedy, tested for generations and also proven by scientific research.

You, too, will want to take S.S.S. Tonic to regain and to maintain your red-blood-cell strength... to restore lost weight... to regain energy... to strengthen nerves... and to give to your skin that natural healthy glow.

Take the S.S.S. Tonic treatment and you should soon be delighted with the way you feel... and have your friends compliment you on the way you look.

This Is What Hitler Gets With Absorption of Austria by Germany

When Hitler took over Austria, he took over valuable economic assets as well as certain economic liabilities. A small, mountainous country, heavily populated, Austria's chief mineral resource is iron. Lumber is available in large quantities. In recent years Austria has increased its output of wheat, barley, oats, rye, dairy products, sugar and livestock, but still is unable to feed itself wholly, let alone make major food contributions to Germany proper. In the vicinity of Vienna are manufacturing establishments that produce machinery, automobiles, bikes, textiles, furniture and paper. These production areas are shown in the large map above. The smaller maps show the decline of the once-mighty dual monarchy of Austria-Hungary which, before the war, included the following groups, some of which have disappeared from the map, others of which are separate countries: Austria, Hungary, Transylvania, Czechoslovakia, Polish Galicia, the Trentino, Slavonia, Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, and the Banat, countries which gave it access to the Adriatic and control of practically all the Danube river.

MRS. C. D. DICKINSON DIES AT AGE OF 73

Was Member of Pioneer Atlanta Family and Active in Catholic Circles.

Mrs. Charles D. Dickinson, 73, member of a pioneer Atlanta family, died last night in a private hospital after a year's illness. She resided at 679 Myrtle street, N. E.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Coyne, of Atlanta, she was born in Louisville, Ky., where her parents had fled during the War Between the States. Her family returned home when she was 6 years old.

Mrs. Dickinson was educated at the Immaculate Conception convent here and was a charter member of the Immaculate Conception Altar Society. At the time of her death she was a member of Sacred Heart parish and active in the work of the Sacred Heart Altar Society. She belonged to the Pioneer Women of Atlanta and was formerly a member of the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Frank H. Dickinson, Houston, Texas, and James Coyne Dickinson, Atlanta; three grandsons, Frank H. Dickinson Jr., of Houston, and Thomas Coston Dickinson and James Coyne Dickinson Jr.; two nieces, Mrs. W. D. Bowles and Mrs. L. C. Fuller, and a nephew, Jerry Blount, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg & Company.

Grand Duchess To Speak Friday At Agnes Scott

Atlanta will entertain a Grand Duchess next Friday, and she will entertain Atlantans.

Grand Duchess Marie, of Russia, who escaped death by minutes with her brother during the time of the Russian revolution, will lecture Friday night, March 25, at 8:30 o'clock in the Bucher Scott gymnasium at Agnes Scott College.

A cousin of the late Czar Nicholas, of Russia, blood-kin to the royal family of England and first cousin of Queen Marie, of Rumania, the Grand Duchess has lived in England and America continuously since her exile began.

Her brother, Grand Duke Dimitri, and she are the only members of the immediate family who lived through the revolution.

Despite loss of her family fortune, the Grand Duchess has become successful as a fashion expert both in New York and Paris. Her two books, "Education of a Princess," and "A Princess in Exile," have made a name for her in the literary world.

She returned recently from a tour of Europe and a three-month visit to India, where she was the guests of maharajahs, who feted her with tiger shoots and elephant rides to picnics. Throughout Europe she lived with royalty, visiting the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, the King and Queen of Bulgaria, the regent of Yugoslavia and other royal cousins.

Her lecture will be the second public speech presented this year by the Agnes Scott Lecture Association, of which Miss Grace Tazewell, of Norfolk, Va., is student president. Miss Emma Mae Laney, of the English department, is faculty advisor to the association.

NAZIS TO BE 'NICE' TO SCHUSCHNIGG

Fallen Chancellor May Take Savings Abroad.

BERLIN, March 17.—(AP)—Nazi spokesmen said tonight Kurt Schuschnigg, Austria's fallen chancellor, would be permitted to decide for himself where to live.

These sources said that if he desired to go abroad, he would be permitted to take his belongings, including his savings, as an expression of magnanimity from the Berlin government.

Information here was that Schuschnigg, reported at various places since Austria's union with Germany, has insisted on remaining in greater Germany.

The spokesmen said the Berlin government had put its foot down on a move, which they said was contemplated by Austrian Nazis, to try Schuschnigg on charges of high treason.

Schuschnigg's Son Reported Held by Nazis

Kurt Schuschnigg, 11-year-old son of former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, of Austria, who is reported to be held by Nazis as a hostage for his father's "discretion." It was reported that the former chancellor decided to remain in Vienna, although allowed his liberty, when Hitler conquerors of Austria decided to hold his son.

German and Austrian Union Looms As Burden of Hitler's Declaration

Der Fuehrer Will Address Reichstag; Polish Tension Eases.

BERLIN, March 17.—(AP)—German-Austrian union today loomed as the burden of the declaration Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler will make tomorrow night to the reichstag.

Dissolution of the existing reichstag and the calling of new elections was taken for granted. (The reichstag is the only legislative assembly in Germany; Hitler calls it to hear important pronouncements.)

Since Austria has become a part of Germany, provision must be made for the new province's representation and presumably Germany, like Austria, will vote April 10, the date of the plebiscite on union.

Meanwhile, there was a slight easing of tension between Poland and Lithuania.

There was speculation whether Hitler also would discuss the situation in Spain, Czechoslovakia, the free city of Danzig and the Polish-Lithuanian conflict.

Circles close to the chancellery—who emphasized they could not speak for the Fuehrer—expressed the opinion that for the present Germany would be so occupied getting Austria rearranged on Nazi principles that there was little likelihood of German moves in and of those directions.

They admitted the possibility, however, of Hitlerian surprises.

Word from Poland and Lithuania indicated the two nations were seeking to find some sort of basis by which armed conflict could be avoided.

Nevertheless, there was a report in the Nowa Prawda, opposition Paderewski newspaper, which was not denied by the government, that another strong note had been dispatched from Warsaw to Kaunas by way of Riga.

This report said the note demanded immediate resumption of normal relations and stressed that if Lithuania refused, Poland would draw the most far-going consequences.

Hitler, who last addressed the reichstag February 20, when he proclaimed protection of Germans outside of Germany, recognized Manchoukiao and announced an increasing demand for return of war-lost colonies, will begin speaking at 9 p. m. (2 p. m., Atlanta time) tomorrow in the Kroll Opera House. The speech will be broadcast.

NEW ROTARY CLUB.
LAFAYETTE, March 17.—The newly organized Lafayette Rotary Club was presented its charter Tuesday night at a banquet held in A. R. Fortune grammar school. The charter was presented to Theo T. Molnar, of Cuthbert, district Rotary governor, and was accepted by J. F. Cobb, president of the club.

MURPHY DEMANDS ECONOMIC REFORMS

Michigan Governor Recommends 'Irish Way' of Settling Nation's Problems.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 17.—(AP) Governor Murphy, of Michigan, recommended "the Irish way" of settling many of the nation's problems in a St. Patrick's Day address here tonight.

He called for reforms to improve the lot of the laborer and not only to relieve distress from unemployment but to prevent it.

"We will all agree, I am sure," the Governor told the Irish-American Association of Lackawanna County, "that it is not the Irish way merely to be patient in the face of calamity, and let things take their course."

"It is inconceivable that the genius and ambition which have developed this land of wealth cannot bring order into our badly disorganized economic life," Murphy said. "We can no longer hide behind the flimsy defense that an orderly system of production and distribution would be 'collectivistic' and 'un-American.'"

"If we want to avoid the consequences of a genuinely extremist movement we will have to correct the conditions that breed unrest, and we can't afford to let the voices of reaction swerve us from that course."

Murphy demanded "steady work and an annual working wage" as a bulwark against depressions.

HITLER BEGINS DRIVE FOR BIG NAZI BALLOT

Berlin Propaganda Ministry Sets Up New Section in Vienna.

VIENNA, March 17.—(AP)—The new Austro-German Nazi administration threw its propaganda machine into high gear today to turn out a heavy vote in favor of Austria's union with Germany in the April 10 plebiscite.

A branch of Paul Joseph Goebbels' propaganda ministry was set up in a section of the old Austrian parliament building, the Nazi headquarters, to carry out the job.

One of the initial steps was to order 20,000 radio receiving sets from Germany for distribution to remote localities so that Nazi oratory could be heard in the farthest corner of the land.

Joseph Buerckel, former commissioner of the German Saar who is in charge of the plebiscite campaign, said there would be only one multiple question to be answered on April 10:

"Are you German, do you belong to your Germany and its Adolf Hitler, or have you nothing to do with us?"

He called for reforms to improve the lot of the laborer and not only to relieve distress from unemployment but to prevent it.

Jewish Refugees Tell Of Terror in Austria

LONDON, March 17.—(AP)—Jewish refugees from Austria came to England today, bringing tales of terror in the homeland—but most of them were refused permission to remain.

To stay, they had to prove they had adequate funds or convince authorities they would not become public charges.

TRIAL BALLOONS?

Colonel Frank Knox, of Chicago, Republican vice presidential candidate in 1936, delivered the keynote speech last Wednesday at the Republican state convention of North Carolina. In doing so he listed four national issues which, he declared, are the four paramount problems before the nation today. At the same time he indicated the solutions he would advocate for those problems and sketched an outline of criticism for democratic policies on the four.

There is strong suspicion that Colonel Knox, in this speech, was actually releasing four trial balloons for the coming national campaign of 1940. Although he declared at the outset of his speech he is not a candidate for any office, that he has no ax to grind, nevertheless it is the opinion of most observers that the reaction to the four suggested issues may have much to do with the formation of the Republican party platform for two years hence.

Colonel Knox listed the four paramount issues as social security, relief, crop control and labor. He declared that by a candidate's attitude on these questions it is possible to judge his fitness for office. The speaker who "skates around" the questions, Colonel Knox said, will bear the earmarks of the self-seeking demagogue, whereas the sincere man will bravely speak his views, regardless of the possible loss of some votes thereby.

The colonel, in outlining his own reaction to the four, displays an expectedly critical attitude toward the Democratic administration. Purged of this natural party bias, however, his remarks contain constructive suggestions that could prove valuable to any national leadership.

On the social security issue, the Chicagoan would remove old age and unemployment taxes out of reach of spending for any other than their specific purpose. He would simplify the methods of payment and employer bookkeeping and would base the collections on a pay-as-you-go basis in accordance with correct actuarial rates. He would also provide differentials in unemployment tax rates by industries, scaled according to the occupational record of work regularity.

Relief, he believes, should be taken out of the hands of the federal government and restored to local authorities, with federal grants of money where and when needed. He would do away entirely with all "made work" programs and would make relief a direct dole, continuing only so long as the individual emergency remained pressing.

Crop control, in the sense of crop limitation and the policy of "created scarcity," would be ended entirely if Colonel Knox's views prevailed. He would seek to improve the lot of the farmer by removing present handicaps caused by the high tariff policy, which benefits the industrialist at the expense of agriculture. He would intensify programs for soil conservation and upbuilding of soil fertility, but would put the direction of such work entirely in the hands of state farm experts. He would provide federal funds, but with no crop control or other conditions attached, for this work.

His program on the labor question includes the making of all unions legally responsible to their own members and to the government. He would continue compulsory arbitration of labor disputes as a permanent policy and would hold labor leaders and organizations legally responsible for losses resulting from illegal strikes, or other outlawed disturbances.

Regardless of party affiliation or personal reaction to these views, they are extremely interesting at this time. Colonel Knox was highly honored by his own party in 1936 and, therefore, may be accepted as a speaker representing, to large extent, his own party's views of today.

Thus the speech in North Carolina assumes a national significance. It is altogether likely, if nation-wide sentiment reacts favorably to the opinions expressed, the national Republican platform will bear strong resemblance to the policies set forth this week by the former vice presidential candidate.

March, which came in like a Hitler three-hour speech, shows signs already of going out like Schuschnigg.

LONGER LIVES FOR GEORGIANS

Life, most priceless possession of man, has been given new meaning in Georgia through the expanded activities of the State Board of Health. The report of Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the Department of Health, reveals how, since an increase in the department's appropriation from $100,000 to $600,000, in one year the death rate from all causes has been reduced by 9.9 per cent. An even greater reduction in the number of fatalities from diseases chiefly amenable to health work is cited.

These tangible results come after the expanded services have been in operation but a short time, and even greater gains through the years to come may be expected in the natural course of events. Life can be bought, and cheaply, as the health department has shown. The advances more than justify the increased expenditures, for the health of each citizen directly affects the health of all others. Better health conditions mean increased happiness and this, in its turn, greater prosperity for the state.

Board Chairman Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, joined other members of the board in saying he was "elated" over the report. It fully justifies Governor Rivers' request for the greater appropriation and should bring home to all Georgians the real worth of an adequate program, particularly in sections of the state where disease has been a factor in reduction of income.

Particularly gratifying are the reductions made in the maternal mortality rate of 7.5 per cent and in the infant mortality rate of 10.4 per cent. It is little short of criminal to permit high maternal and infant mortality with the advances which have been made in maternal care throughout the nation. These reductions alone will, through the years, amply repay the state for the health expenditures.

With $200,000 available for work at the Alto tuberculosis sanitarium, which it is hoped can be matched by federal funds, much should be accomplished in the fight against the white plague. Facilities at this institution have been greatly overtaxed.

Seldom is life bought so cheaply, and the report of Dr. Abercrombie augurs well for the future well-being of Georgia and Georgians.

PEANUTS GO TO MARKET

The lowly "goober" is coming into its own. The grower will be better able to judge his sales through established trading in peanut futures on the New York Produce Exchange. The exchange recently began trading in shelled peanut futures, which provides the grower the same advantages as cotton producers.

Officials of Atlanta companies predicted the price of the commodity, a principal crop in Georgia, will increase as a result of the new type of trading. It also will give the farmer a chance to hedge against part of his production. This permits the grower to minimize losses in a falling market.

Atlanta will benefit by the establishment of the market trading, the city having been made a delivery point. The only other such point south of Virginia is Port Worth, Texas.

This new recognition for a state crop should bring a higher standard of growth and grading and should result in increased income for Georgia farmers.

CEREMONIES OF JOY

The independent journal, "The Churchman," bemoans "giggly" weddings and pleads for a more somber tone at these ceremonies. As the joyous strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" steal forth from the organ loft, according to this opinion, the bridesmaids and other attendants come "simpering" down the aisle, lending an atmosphere of irreverence too often encouraged by the entire congregation.

Although, perhaps, a note of solemnity should prevail on such occasions, there is little hope of reversing a sentimental custom so firmly established. The wedding, by its very nature, is a ceremony of joy. Means have yet to be devised by the mind of man to successfully bottle-up the contagious spontaneity of young romance. Somber notes will be struck all too soon as the sterner realities of life are encountered.

Even so, a solemn moment for someone enters uninvited. A mother may be seen to dab her nose in the midst of the "simpering," or a father to dash away an unwanted tear at the pronouncement of the words "until death do us part." But let no artificial shadows mar the festival. The very music, bursting forth in unconfined rapture, as the happy ones leave arm in arm, signifies a triumph of joy over sorrow. May it thus remain.

If the worst happens in central Europe, the Caesars may call their ringers home from Spain, leaving Franco to carry on with an All-Spanish team.

RELIGION AT THE FAIR.

(From The Boston Herald.)

All the arguments for the building of beautiful and costly churches apply to the decision of the New York World's Fair Corporation for the erection of a Temple of Religion on the fair grounds. As one of the universal interests of mankind, religion should be represented in a worthy and impressive manner. The churches regard a great world fair as an opportunity for the expression of their faith. Often various denominations have each constructed a building for services according to their rituals, and great denominational rallies have been held during fair time.

The most remarkable enterprise in connection with such a fair, perhaps, was the Parliament of Religions at Chicago in 1893. Dr. John Henry Barrows, an eminent Congregational clergyman, as president, supervised what has been pronounced that "wonderful adventure in religious tolerance."

Nothing of that kind is contemplated for New York, however. A great tower of monumental design is contemplated, with a carillon and organs, within a garden which will be walled against the noise and commotion without. The whole effect is designed for peace, quiet meditation, and prayer, for all people. No formal services will be held. The plan calls for contributions from all denominations of Protestants, and from Catholics, and those of the Jewish faith. This program will signify the freedom of worship which is guaranteed in the constitution, and the "fellowship of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Percentage of Voters Favoring War Debt Reduction or Cancellation Is Rising To Outnumber Advocates of Trying to Collect in Full, Survey Reveals.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, March 17.—A significant change in public sentiment regarding the war debts—a change which may prove to be an opening wedge in settling the 20-year-old issue—is revealed in a new survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion. Today, for the first time, the majority of voters reached favor reducing or cancelling the sums owed the United States by European countries, instead of trying to collect in full.

The shift in sentiment has taken place during the last year, for in 1937, the majority of voters was in favor of holding our foreign creditors to full payment.

The present attitude of the public is important politically because while economic experts have long favored some sort of debt settlement, politicians have been afraid to make any move that might antagonize public opinion. The realignment of sentiment, as shown in the survey, may give them courage to work out a new program for liquidating the debts at less than face value.

SAME QUESTIONS USED YEAR AGO

The Institute used identical questions in its surveys of a year ago and today. The question read: "What is your opinion regarding the war debts owed this country? Should we continue to try to collect in full, or should they be reduced to a point where at least something might be collected, or should they be cancelled and forgotten?"

The following comparison of the vote in 1937 and today shows the trend.

For collection	Year Ago	Today	Change
In Full	54%	47%	-7
Reduced	37	42	+5
Cancelled	9	11	+2

Note that whereas voters favoring full collection were in the majority in 1937, they are outnumbered today by those favoring reduction and cancellation.

A move toward debt settlement was made last month by Hungary on a loan which she contracted after the World War. Hungary offered to pay the face value if the United States would cancel all interest. The offer was taken under consideration by the Treasury, but a special act of congress would be needed to give it effect. While congressmen recognized that the Hungarian loan was not a precedent for a post-war debt, many feared that settlement on Hungary's terms would set a precedent for countries seeking similar liquidation of their war debts.

VALUE OF KNOWING VOTERS' ATTITUDE

The fact that no change in war debts may be made without the approval of congress emphasizes the importance of knowing the attitude of the nation's voters on this issue.

Many economists point out that an obstacle to debt settlement is the stipulation in the original contracts that payment must be made in gold—a commodity which the United States already has more of than she needs. Some experts say that an arrangement for payment in goods or trade might be worked out if tariff barriers did not stand in the way. In that connection it is interesting to note that reduction of tariffs through Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreements was favored by a large majority in an Institute survey reported earlier this week.

The most typical reason given by voters for believing that the war debts should be scaled down is that "a loaf is better than none." Those who favor cancellation say that the United States will never be able to collect anything on the debts anyway.

That Dirty Black Stuff.

There are few things more repulsive to the dainty-minded than crude oil as it comes from the well. Black, dirty-looking stuff, it is. The last thing on earth a charming woman, for instance, would consent to touch.

Yet petroleum plays a big part in modern feminine toilet. It provides, for instance, perfumes, hair dressings, nail lacquers, pomades, facial creams and other beauty preparations.

And, among the articles of mid-lady's attire which are processed, in one way or another, with petroleum in its form or another, are the dainty underthings, the purse, compact, traveling bag, woollens, furs, etc.

The nasty stuff assumes many strange forms, after all.

Better Parenthood.

Now they've devised a "Better Parenthood Week." It is to be added to all the other special weeks, hundreds of them, we try to crowd into the inflexible 52. The new one is set for the first week in May.

Everybody knows we need better parents. Especially the children. If you want to hear just what is wrong with parents of today, you'd better do a little eavesdropping on a group of boys or girls of high school age.

The chief trouble, as I see it, is that parents who realize they should do the job better—and how we do realize it!—are already on the highway to improvement. Whereas the ones who need improvement most generally are of that type who believe God touched all mothers and fathers with the magic wand of perfection and whatever they do about their own offspring is done by divine right and is beyond criticism.

They are the hopeless ones—but no "Better Parenthood Week" is going to make them see it.

Implacable Destiny.

This column is written on Wednesday. And it is hard to compile. For all my thoughts are on the far side of the Atlantic, tangled with the dark news that comes across the cables.

For it seems to me that a new world war is making beyond hope. The situation of the world today is darker than it has ever been, to my mind. For the war that is coming will be far, far worse than the one we experienced 20 years ago. The instruments of destruction and of death are so much more horrific now. The quality of mercy, which once was known even on the battlefield, no longer hovers where the pennons of Mars fly.

And I can see no other outcome than eventual participation of this land of ours in the horror. The world has grown too small, man's interests are too interlocked, to make neutrality possible when a world is bathed anew in blood. The miasma of infection cannot be stopped by distance or by oceans.

This is my belief, despite all arguments of the isolationists, all pretensions of pacifists. They seem to me but the ineffectual crying against destiny that will not be denied.

And, deep in realization, is the knowledge that there is a boy, who carries so much pride and hope, who is fighting age when, and if, that war comes. There are hundreds of thousands of other parents who walk in fear, today. Who look in dark wonder-ment at the boys on whom the future hope of the race is pinned. They will understand why, today, it is so difficult to keep the mind attuned with the ordinary routine of the daily task.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Tuesday, March 18, 1913:

"Columbus, Ohio, March 17.—Declaring that the immorality of the attire worn by women on the streets and in public places is the cause of a great wave of immorality sweeping the country," Representative Capelle, of Cincinnati, this evening introduced a bill in the lower house of the Ohio legislature providing for the appointment by the governor of a commission to "prescribe the fashions to be worn by women in the state of Ohio."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Sunday, March 18, 1868:

"The sewer committee of the general council is now negotiating with two or three sanitary engineers, who are anxious to give Atlanta a perfect sewer system."

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

THREE HUNDRED YEARS.

Rhode Island Baptists are this year celebrating the 300th anniversary of the organization of the First Baptist Church of Providence and the founding of the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations. The First Baptist Church of Providence was the first church in America to adopt Baptist principles and policies in its life and worship. After organizing this great church, Roger Williams and his associates proceeded to organize the civil administration of the colony, guaranteeing to everyone absolute freedom of conscience in all matters of faith and worship, thus establishing for the first time in American the principle of the separation of church and state. Williams wrote the following clause into the charter of Rhode Island:

"No person within the said colony, at any time hereafter, shall be in anywise molested, disquieted, or called in question, for any difference of opinion, in matters of religion, who do not actually disturb the civil peace of our colony; but that all and every person and persons may, freely and fully have and enjoy his own judgments and consciences in all matters of religious concerns; they behaving themselves peaceably and quietly and not using this liberty to licentiousness and profaneness, nor to the injury or disturbance of others."

Thus Rhode Island became the first political unit in the world to be organized on the principle of a free church in a free state. The principle of religious liberty was written into the Federal Constitution in 1787 and now is incorporated into the fundamental law of 48 sovereign states within the United States. America is the only great nation in the world today where there is absolute religious liberty and the total separation of church and state. England, for example, has religious toleration, a thing Baptists despise. Baptists and other dissenting groups are taxed to support the Established Church.

Not only have Baptists given unwavering allegiance to the idea of a free church in a free state, but they equally insist upon each local church being absolutely free and independent of any domination or control by any other local church or any combination of ecclesiastical authority. Baptists accept no creed save the New Testament and no priesthood save that of the individual believer. Jesus Christ is the Head of the church, and in Him all authority is vested.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Routine Day SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 17.—Mrs. Roosevelt came to San Francisco from Los Angeles by train to deliver her lecture on peace at the very hour when the heads on the bulldozer editions were yelling "Hitler defies the world!" "France threatens war on Germany!" She arrived at noon and was taken over the usual jumps by the inevitable committee. Her chores included an appearance on the grounds of the 1939 World's Fair, where she sat on a tractor and went through the motions of turning the first gouge of ground for a formal building.

Some time during the day she had to turn out her syndicate copy, and presumably she took a few practice swings before her mirror at the hotel before advancing to the pulpit in the civic auditorium to say her say on a subject which, in the present state of the world, only a brave and honest person would attempt. She spoke for an hour and fifteen minutes to a crowd almost entirely made up of people over the combatant war age and then left by another night train for Fresno.

It had been another routine day in the life of one who is stingily described as the "most remarkable" and "most energetic" woman of her time in this country. But who deserves more than that, I think we can take the wraps off and call her the greatest American woman, because there is no other who works as hard or knows the low-down truth about the people and the troubles in their hearts as well as she does.

Neither Profit And reason? Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't give a damn about politics in the partisan sense. Profit? She is one member of the family who will not have a dollar of profit to show for eight or more years of banging around the country in a schedule that would break the body and mind of an old-time circus rider.

There was no style about her audience for the lecture on peace. Undoubtedly there were some more fans and some more or less deserving Democrats, but the spirit of the gathering—if it is possible to describe a spirit—was one of earnestness for some cheerful news, of some discovery of a formula that would touch the soul of the monster who had just kidnapped a whole country in Europe and threatened to kidnap another as soon as he got his wind.

Of course the Communists were out, as usual, trying to turn a trick. Outside the hall they were distributing a tract by Earl Browder advocating co-operation of the peaceful countries. With the Moscow slaughter house to boycott the reich and Italy and in the hour of victory leave Russia a great military power and her colleagues push-overs for the Browders, the Soviet Union, he said, is fully prepared to defend herself, but "preparedness" for this country he ridiculed as warlike and reactionary.

Diplomatic Mrs. Roosevelt's effort is the more creditable because she works in the strait jacket of diplomatic and political restraints. Many tempting weapons and arguments are just out of her reach, because, obviously, she cannot mention Hitler or Germany or go into the particulars of international disputes in the situation. Standing before an unsightly and ragged bit of scenery intended to represent either a peacock's fan or an indescribable mess, she nevertheless got home her argument that peace now is not the exclusive business of some distant thing called government but the personal concern and duty of every individual who must be affected by war.

How peace, then? Well, by force by the sacrifice of minor differences, by a sincere effort to know and respect the good in other people, by teaching the kids in the family circle to get on together without resort to fists on the slightest provocation. Futile, perhaps, and even silly and pathetic to realists, Mrs. Roosevelt's argument. Nevertheless, it followed the line of truth, for all other formulas think of peace through war, which has never succeeded yet, except Browder's, which is, of course, a trap. She has been taking elocution lessons, for she is inclined to whoop, and her speech is improving and the electrical gimmick doesn't zink and crackle when she speaks as it does for most women orators.

Mrs. Roosevelt has been before us for five years now. We know her better than any other woman, and she knows the country better than any other individual, including her husband, and the profit is all on our side. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Early Tragedian.

Short, fat Richard Burbage, for whom Shakespeare wrote "Hamlet" and "Othello," died in 1618 at 52, the greatest actor of his time. In his conformance with his wish, his gravestone was inscribed simply, "Exit Burbage." Highly paid, and also a part owner of the theater in which they were presented, Burbage made more money out of Shakespeare's plays than his friend Shakespeare did.

Those Who Lie Down With Dogs, Said Franklin, Get Up With Fleas

By ROBERT QUILEN.

You may have become "morally responsible" at the age of 12, or even at the age of six, but you were in no wise to blame for what your early environment did to you.

From the day of your birth until you were 16 or thereabouts, every adult in your vicinity made assault upon your personality and shaped and twisted it to match his own notion of perfection. Consciously by precept or unconsciously by example they provided the stuff to make your character, and you absorbed it like a sponge. If you were a genius or some other kind of freak, you weren't much affected by any outside influence; but if you were an ordinary mill-run youngster, bright or dull, that early environment shaped you for life. You didn't realize what was happening, and couldn't have done much about it in any case, so you deserve neither credit nor blame for the result.

But the effect of environment doesn't end at 16. Perhaps it never ends. In whatever kind of surroundings you find yourself, at 20 or 40 or any other age, you make use of the material within reach to continue building your personality. You still absorb what you touch. And though you may not realize what it is doing to you, the responsibility is yours alone, for you are free to leave if you don't like it.

Working among people whose speech is foul, you pick up more or less verbal dirt; among those whose speech is clean, you unwittingly clean up your own vocabulary.

In a community where everybody is religious, you give some thought to your soul; in another environment, where nobody seems aware of religion, you also forget it.

Unless you are watchful and consciously stubborn, your style of dress and work habits and opinions and accent change to fit your background. It is a tendency inherited from the pick of our race, for only those survived who changed to match their environment.

Mobile companions can make you noble; a petty and quarrelsome companion can make you equally petty. You are "catching" your environment as you would the itch. If you don't wish to be like it, flee as from a plague. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"I could think of it, wish it done, aye, will it, to boot. But do it, that's past my understanding."

Peer Gynt, the man of imagination who could accomplish more things by imagining them than by willing them, has modern counterparts in Messrs. Max Baer, Adolph Hitler and David Lillienthal. It seems to us, imaginative all three have lately been pitted against one another in a contrast with men whose wills rather than their imaginations were sources of their greatest strength.

The results, insofar as they have been determined or may be determined, should be interesting to psychologists as well as to those of us whose natural interests or fates are involved.

Never surely did imagination win a more clean-cut victory over will power than last Friday night in New York when the highly imaginative Mr. Baer defeated the stubborn-willed Mr. Farr in a 15-round fight. The same Mr. Baer, whose imagination crippled him against a Joe Louis he had been led to believe unbeatable became himself unbeatable after he happened to knock Mr. Farr down in the first round. It wasn't what the knock-down did to Farr, but what it did to Baer that made it decisive. It led Baer to believe—to imagine—that he was going to win. And he is the sort of man who wins not by determination but by destiny, not by what he wills to happen but by what he imagines is going to happen.

Adolph Hitler is able to be more consistent in the conquests his own imagination rings because its basis is deeper and its experience longer. A mystic always, the struggle in which he sees himself engaged is not a mere one-night stand but life-long. The thing that together with imagination is not a mere hunch but a notion of some occult hand guiding him to efforts and decisions whose outcome may be as hidden as his inspiration. Contrasting with him, imagine.

WORLD'S WINDOW

The Duce Swallows A Bitter Pill.

NEW YORK.—For years the Italian people and the world have been told that the independence of Austria was one of the bulwarks of Mussolini's foreign policy. All at once this is no longer so. The fact that Austria has been rubbed out as an independent state is its annexation to the German Reich, is now presented by the Italian government-controlled press as something natural, as something that had to happen and that carries the entire approbation of the Duce. If the partnership known as the Berlin-Rome axis remains in existence, it will mean that Mussolini has been reduced to second fiddle player and is no longer fellow-conductor with Adolf Hitler. Germany will call the dance henceforth, and she may make it a merry one for Signor Mussolini. In fact, the Duce now stands before a choice. He may reaffirm his friendship for the Fuehrer and intensify his collaboration with Germany even more. And there is no doubt that some more plans may be plucked by the two dictators in the Balkans, for instance. But on the other hand, Italy must now begin to think seriously of what an almighty Germany in Europe means to her own national existence. For, although the two dictators pick the plums together, Brother Adolf sticks them into his pocket. On the other hand, Italy may turn to England and through England to France. France's national interests are much more in harmony with Italy's than with anybody's else. Neither of the two can really afford to have Germany rule the roost in Europe. If the partnership known as the Kampff, where he talks of his plans for a settlement in Europe and the chapters which are now coming to fulfillment one by one, you can see that in the final analysis Hitler considers France the hereditary foe, the nation that must be smashed, crushed and wiped off the face of the earth before Germany can be truly free and great.

If that should come to pass, where

HAVEN

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: I have been interested in your editorial on the remarkable decision handed down by the superior court (Adel on Feb. 2) by Judge Will Smith. Three young men aged respectively 17, 18, 21 given the death sentence for holding up a bank and stealing some gallons of gas. Surely this punishment is too severe.

Do the people of Georgia forget their very state was colonized as a haven for just those who the laws of England dealt so harshly with? Path sentences for this, that and the other. This was many years ago, but have we got no farther on the road today in wisdom and judgment in dealing with crime? No discrimination or consistency when every day judges and juries are setting free mature murderers and criminals of all sorts.

Are not such decisions the very law of the disrepute our country is held by right thinking people? I have written our Governor in regard to this and his secretary answered that he had granted a stay of execution for 30 days. Will you not write a thought-provoking editorial on sound and sane dealing with crime? Our newspapers are the best educators of the public and could you possibly render a better service to your state by starting people in the right road thinking?

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: I have read your editorial on the "Handicapped of Deafness." I think with you that the south, by taking heart, can do better than by being defeatist. Here's hoping that your statement is a sign of the coming of a changed attitude, wherever it is needed, and that the south will find itself to the task of working out its own salvation.

More power to the south, and a useful, beneficent use be made of it!

REDISTRIBUTION OF TAXES

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: Some economist stated that "All taxes come out of production." He must have meant that taxes are taken from products that would naturally be produced something. Therefore, money is taken out of "production"—taken out of money at labor would have received. Politics beats labor to it, and labor has to do on what is left, whether it is enough to keep up employment, or not, and in the end the consumer pays the tax. This raid on the workers' funds is, sad to say it, the workers' fault, because of ignorant leadership. They have been advised to support a political theory of taking business profits to "redistribute" them. They fail to see that this "redistribution" prevents "re-hiring" labor to produce something to consume. There is then no market for agricultural products, and unemployment spreads rapidly.

Labor must support both our economic and our social life. When it decides to do that, the nation's savings will roll into the people's pockets and furnish the power. The power to consume and pay taxes.

AN UNEQUALLED

SUMMER RESORT SECTION
EDITOR CONSTITUTION: Your editorial of March 7, "A Southern Tourist Center," is most timely. I have summered in several different sections of the country, and in my opinion the Blue Ridge Mountain section is not equalled as a summer resort. The altitude is exactly right for the best respiration and there is enough moisture in the atmosphere to keep down all dust.

It is very difficult to convince our eastern and northern friends that we sleep under blankets every night during the summer when in the Blue Ridge Mountain section. During the past few years there has been a marked change in the trend of Texas from western summer resorts toward the Blue Ridge Mountains. To my personal knowledge more than 100 Texan families spent all or part of 1937 in the Blue Ridge section. So I sincerely trust our southern newspapers will follow the lead of The Constitution and with the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations carry on a wise campaign which I am sure will result in bringing thousands of tourists into this section each season.

"Singing Sweethearts" Reunited at Grand

The singing sweethearts of many film musicals are reunited in "The Girl of the Golden West," which is the midnight show tomorrow at Loew's Grand. They are Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald. Eddy saw the completed show for the first time when it was screened here last week while he was here to appear on an All-Star Concert series program.

'Penitentiary' Opens at Rialto; Grand Features 'Merrily We Live'

Priscilla Lane Sings in "Love, Honor and Behave" To Open at the Capitol; "Snow White" Continues on Fox Screen.

By LEE ROGERS.

Atlantans have a wide selection of movie types from which to pick their choices at the downtown theaters this week. There's a drama of prison life at the Rialto; a mad comedy at the Grand; a musical comedy at the Capitol; Snow White has been held over at the Fox, and Fred Waring will continue at the Georgia through Sunday, with a mystery film moving in Monday.

NO JAIL FOR "KILLER" IN "PENITENTIARY"
John Howard, convicted killer in Columbia's "Penitentiary," opening today at the Rialto theater, had to play his role without any background of realistic jail atmosphere. He spent weeks trying to get in jail, but no policeman would arrest him.

Once he thought arrangements had been made for him to spend the week end in Alcatraz, but his influential friends failed him at the last minute. Then on the first day of "shooting," he was driving from work with Jean Parker, his film sweetheart and the daughter of the warden, Walter Connolly, when a motorcycle cop stopped them. Howard saw his chance. "What's eating you?" he demanded.

Miss Parker sat bolt upright, aghast. The cop looked disbelievingly. "I just wanted to tell you only one light is burning and someone might give you a ticket," he said and drove away. Howard stammered his thanks.

"Penitentiary" is a story of life within prison walls. Connolly is the district attorney who sends Howard to jail for an accidental killing. Later, he is made warden of the same prison in which Howard is held. His daughter Jean falls in love with the prisoner and tries to save him. A riot breaks out and there is a murder within the prison.

"MERRILY WE LIVE" CAST INSURED

When Hal Roach began production of his comedy, "Merrily We Live," which begins at the Grand today, he realized something must be done to protect his actors from injury as they performed the stunts to make the picture so hilarious. He insured the cast for $1,250,000—believed to be the largest blanket insurance policy.

The story deals with the mad antics of the Kilbourne family, which calling cards distributed throughout the city have been inviting you to meet. Cast in the leading roles are Constance Bennett and Brian Aherne. Others in the cast are Alan Mowbray and Billie Burke, who played in "Topper" also; Patsy Kelly, the Irish comedienne; Ann Dvorak, Tom Brown, Bonita Granville, Marjorie Rambeau, Clarence Kolb and Philip Reed.

"Merrily We Live" is a sequel to "Topper," which thrilled Atlanta audiences last fall. It shows

"LOVE, HONOR AND BEHAVE" STARS PRISCILLA LANE

Lovely Priscilla Lane sings the popular "Bei Mir Bist du Schon" in "Love, Honor and Behave," opening Sunday at the Capitol. She is co-starred with Wayne Morris, with whom film fans have long demanded she play.

On the stage will be "Springtime Sereaders," featuring eight acts of vaudeville.

The story deals with a youth reared by his mother under a code to lose gracefully—that such an art is more important than winning. Years later, he meets his childhood sweetheart, Priscilla Lane, who determines to make a "fighter" out of him. She does and he falls in love with her.

"International Settlement," with Dolores Del Rio, George Sanders and others, continues through tomorrow.

WESTERN THRILLER OPENS AT PARAMOUNT

When Olivia De Havilland went on location for the filming of "Gold Is Where You Find It," which opens today at the Paramount, she left her mother behind for the first time. This time she was under the care of George Brent, with whom she co-stars, and Tim Holt, son of Jack Holt, who broke in her side-saddle horse for her.

The story deals with the fight between the wheat growers and miners of California. Miss De Havilland is the daughter of a big farmer and Brent is a mining engineer. Brent saves Tim Holt, her brother, takes him home, meets the sister and falls in love. But, the father runs him off the farm.

Things begin to get hot when a judge issues an injunction against the miners, saying agriculture would be of more lasting influence to California than mining. The miners prepare to fight.

In Preview Tomorrow

Alice Faye is featured with Fred Allen in the musical, "Sally, Irene and Mary," which will be shown in midnight preview tomorrow night at the Fox theater.

Rains, Margaret Lindsay, John Littel, Barton MacLane and Marcia Ralston.

FRED WARING CONTINUES ON GEORGIA STAGE

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, who have played to packed houses all week, will continue at the Georgia theater through Sunday. They are giving four stage shows daily, featuring Donna Dae, Fernie, Gordon Goodman, Poley McClintock, the Original Waring Glee Club and many specialty and novelty numbers.

On the screen through Sunday will be "Walking Down Broadway," with Dixie Dunbar, Claire Trevor and Michael Whalen.

Opening Monday will be the "Invisible Menace," in which Boris Karloff plays the role of a suspected murderer. He is seen in this picture minus the usual horror make-up.

"SNOW WHITE" STAYS AT FOX THEATER

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will continue at the Fox theater for an indefinite run.

This is Walt Disney's first feature-length cartoon and is a picture to be enjoyed by children and adults alike.

The cartoon picture tells the Grimm Brothers fairy story with but little change from the original. In it the dwarfs and animals appear with many human characteristics. The humans are drawn almost to perfection.

Dopey, the seventh dwarf, has more outstanding characteristics than any character in the picture and is the one most easily remembered.

Cost of the picture was more than $2,000,000 and it required three years to produce. "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" cannot be shown anywhere in Georgia until the Fox run is completed.

MIDNIGHT SHOWS AT GRAND AND FOX

Midnight shows will be given at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow night at Loew's Grand and the Fox theaters.

"Sally, Irene and Mary" is the preview picture at the Fox. In its cast are Fred Allen, Alice Faye, Joan Davis, Marjorie Weaver and Jimmy Durante.

"The Girl of the Golden West," with Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald, will be shown at the Grand.

SAVANNAH TO VOTE ON WHISKY TODAY; COBB POLL APRIL 5

Balloting Set for Monday in Baker County, First to File Petitions.

Voters in Chatham county and Savannah, long an oasis for thirsty Georgians, will go to the polls today to vote on legalization of the sale of liquor under the new county option law.

In Cobb county, Ordinary J. J. Daniel late yesterday called a local option liquor election for April 5, following presentation of a petition bearing names of 2,056 persons. Only 1,998 names were required.

While Chatham county voters are deciding whether liquor shall be sold under state control there, temporary injunctions holding up referendums in McIntosh, Evans and Bryan counties will be heard in Greenville today.

Hearing on an injunction holding up Upon county referendum will be held in Griffin tomorrow, while at Nashville the injunction against the Berrien county referendum will go to court.

The first county to set a liquor referendum voting date, Baker county, will vote on legalization and control Monday. Baker county's referendum was enjoined, but the injunction was dissolved recently.

MOTHER KILLS SIX SLEEPING CHILDREN

Husband Slayer Says She Was Unable to Provide for Family.

CENTER, Texas, March 17.—(AP)—A mother who today told officers she was ill and unable to provide for her family, killed six of her nine children at a lonely farm home near here last night, kissing each of them good-bye before and after shooting them as they slept.

District Attorney Lane said he would file murder charges against Mrs. Lillie May Curtis, 38, who was under a five-year suspended sentence for slaying her husband, Robert Curtis, 44, in 1936.

The slain children were: Marcie Jack, 5; boy, Margie Bee, 7; Robert, 2; Billie Burke, 10; girl, Gloria Jean, 11, and T. O. Curtis, 13.

Social Security Brings Georgians $6,781 in Month

Lump-sum payments made to Georgians under the social security act averaged $26.18 during February when $6,781.03 was distributed to 259 persons, Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Atlanta field office of the Social Security Board, announced yesterday.

Throughout the nation during February, a total of 16,294 claims was certified for payment, Murphy said. This brings the national total to 93,069 and the Georgia total to 1,066.

"Lump-sum payments amount to 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages from covered employment that have been paid to workers from January 1, 1937, to the day they reached the age of 65, or until the date of their death," Murphy explained. "Payments of death claims are made to the estates of the wage earners."

The largest sum paid to date under the social security act was $1,001.67 to a man employed by seven companies, Murphy announced.

JAYCEE DELEGATES TO CONVENE TODAY

Regional Conference of U. S.
Junior Chamber to Attract 300.

Delegates from five southern states will gather at the Biltmore hotel this morning for the opening session of a two-day regional conference of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Last night more than 150 of the 300 delegates from Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina and Virginia had registered. Business sessions will begin at 12:30 o'clock at a luncheon meeting at the Biltmore.

Governor Rivers will be principal speaker and Mayor Hartsfield will extend the official welcome to the delegates.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon committee appointments will be announced by George Yancey, vice president of the United States Junior Chamber. There also will be committee and state meetings and round-table discussions. Climaxing the first day's program will be a dance for the visitors at the Biltmore.

A sightseeing tour to Stone Mountain, the Cyclorama, the federal penitentiary, Techwood Homes, Emory University and residential sections of the city will be on the program tomorrow morning.

General George Van Horn Moseley, commanding officer of the Fourth Corps area, and Charles F. Palmer, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will be speakers at tomorrow's luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Biltmore. Vernon Brown, chairman of the conference, will preside.

Committee reports, discussions and a talk on national Junior Chamber will follow.

The two-day meeting will be climaxed by the President's dinner at 7 o'clock tomorrow, at which trophy awards will be made. A dance will follow.

T. C. BLANKINSHIP DIES; RITES TODAY

Retired Furniture Dealer
Came to City in 1900.

Thomas C. Blankinship, 79, retired furniture dealer, died yesterday at his residence, 132 Anderson avenue, S. W., of a heart attack.

Born in Cobb county, he came to Atlanta in 1900 and opened a stove and furniture store at 300 Peters street, which he operated until his retirement more than a year ago. He was a member of the Holly Springs Baptist church in Cobb county.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. G. H. Preston and Mrs. W. E. Reynolds; one son, G. W. Blankinship, 11 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, with the Rev. Happy White officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, under the direction of Harry G. Pools.

CITY FLOWER VENDERS MUST GET $50 LICENSE

Sale of flowers on Atlanta streets is illegal unless the seller possesses a $50 city license, City Clerk Joe Richardson said yesterday.

Heretofore, persons who grew their own flowers were allowed to sell them anywhere in the city without any license, but Richardson said the city legal department had advised him the license is necessary.

Joseph Demar Charged With Narcotic Law Violation.

Joseph Demar, under federal indictment for violations of the Harrison narcotic law, was returned to Atlanta yesterday from Dayton, Ohio, for arraignment today before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

Demar, who is listed on the indictment of April 26, 1937, with four aliases, forfeited $2,000 bond when he failed to appear for trial last October, records show. Narcotic agents said he was arrested in Dayton recently and held for them, being returned yesterday. The indicted man is charged with importing and exporting narcotics and the purchase and possession of 424 grains of heroin hydrochloride in Atlanta. He was arrested originally by narcotic agents here.

Lightweight Worsteds Simulate Spring Suits

THE NOT-QUITE-TROPICAL WORSTED

Note how this intermediate-season lightweight worsted simulates the appearance of your regular spring suit. Note also the medium gray lightweight felt hat, the large-figured tie and the white shirt.

In Color and Pattern, But Not in Weight—They Are Designed for the In-Between Season for Spring and Summer.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD

Editor Men's Fashions.

This is an intermediate season in your wardrobe. The spring suit has become just a trifle too heavy as the temperature gets higher, but it is still too early for the strictly summer suit. This is the time and the reason for the three-piece tropical-worsted suit.

The regular summer tropical is only two-piece—trousers and jacket, but for these intermediate days the waistcoat is added. The fabric, too, is a little heavier than the true summer tropical.

One of the reasons for the intermediate tropical as it might be called, if you don't mind outraging Madame Rhetoric and Contradict Common Sense, is to make the gradual change from the suits that are associated with spring to the summer types. For this reason, these fabrics resemble regulation weights in appearance. The difference is in comfort, their coolness and light weight, as well as the less elaboration of model, and such details as lining, pockets, etc.

Dark tones are the new note in these suits. Grays, browns, greenish blues and grayish blues are the smart color, just as they are in autumn and spring suits. Stripes are among the favored patterns, and solid heather tones, those mixtures of colors that give such a pleasant country and sports effect, are also among the leaders. Herringbones, and now and then an overplaid, will be seen on well-dressed men too.

The models are unusually simple, as I have said. The two-button, single-breasted and the double-breasted, both of them rather generously cut so as to give plenty of comfort, are the leaders.

FIRST AID LESSONS TAUGHT TO 1,600

Program Stressed by Russell
Nicholson, Red Cross Director Here.

More than 1,600 persons have been taught first aid during the past year in classes conducted by the Atlanta Red Cross chapter, Russell Nicholson, director of first aid and life saving for the chapter, announced yesterday.

"The purpose of instruction of this kind is two-fold," Nicholson said. "It is to inform people of the huge cost of accidents and also to teach them what can be done to relieve pain. Proper treatment, given promptly, always helps and often saves a life."

"It would be ideal if everybody could take a first aid course. Since this can't be done, we are giving it to those who normally have more opportunities to use first aid training. Those we have trained include firemen, policemen, ambulance drivers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, WPA workers, employees of manufacturing plants, school teachers and Junior League members."

The Red Cross also has set up a number of emergency first aid stations in the city and county as a part of its safety campaign. Those in charge of the stations have completed their first aid courses and are equipped to handle accident cases. The annual membership roll call to help in financing this and other projects will be held from March 28 to April 9 with Jere A. Wells as general chairman.

GEORGIA NURSES MEET HERE TODAY

Boards To Complete Convention Delegation Plans.

State nursing organizations will hold executive board sessions in Atlanta tonight and all day tomorrow to complete plans for sending a delegation of Georgia nurses to the American Nurses' Association Biennial convention April 24-29 at Kansas City, Mo., Durice Dickerson, executive secretary of the Georgia State Nurses' Association, announced yesterday.

Plans for the annual state convention this fall, and general activities for 1938 will also be discussed, she said.

Georgia state organization for public health nursing, executive session, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at state headquarters, 131 Forrest avenue, N. E.

The 1938 state convention city will be selected at the all-day meeting beginning tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.

OGLETHORPE MEN WILL MEET TODAY

Alumni To Confer on the University's Future.

Atlanta men alumni of Oglethorpe University will meet for an informal conference at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the convention hall of the Piedmont hotel, Joseph R. Murphy, chairman of the Atlanta division of the alumni association, announced yesterday.

Thomas H. Daniel Jr., who will preside, said the purpose of the conference was to discuss the future of the university and the relation of the alumni to it. Each of the more than 500 men alumni in Atlanta is invited, whether an invitation reached him, Daniel said.

MRS. JAMES AKERS RITES HELD HERE YESTERDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. James Akers, prominent Atlanta woman, who died Wednesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Fair, in Greenville, S. C., were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the residence, 806 Piedmont avenue, N. E. Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby officiated, and burial was in West View cemetery, under the direction of H. M. Patterson and Son.

Born in Charleston, S. C., she had lived in Atlanta since early childhood. She was a member of the Central Presbyterian church, and was well known for her interest in charitable organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore Arrive For Residence From Columbia

By Sally Forth.

ATLANTA society is indebted to Columbia, S. C., for a duo of its most attractive acquisitions, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry Moore. Arriving in the city just recently, the couple has established residence in the Winwood apartments at 1460 Peachtree and is already receiving a cordial welcome from friends and relatives here.

On second thought, perhaps it's Uncle Sam to whom credit is due for the presence of the Moores in Atlanta, for Mr. Moore has been put in charge of the regional office covering 13 states which was recently set up here by PWA. You see, he is one of the government's better known engineers, with wide experience in such important places as Latin America, Persia and Russia. After serving as senior engineer-examiner for the PWA in Washington, D. C., he was sent to Columbia as chief engineer for PWA in South Carolina, and from there was transferred to Atlanta.

Mrs. Moore is the former Sally Horton, only child of McDavid Horton and the late Mrs. Horton, from whom she inherits much of her beauty and charm. Her father is editor of that leading daily newspaper, The State, in which Columbia takes such justifiable pride. She numbers among her Atlanta relatives an uncle, Thad E. Horton, of 211 Fifteenth street, and her cousins, Robert A. Smythe and the Rev. Richard Orme Flinn.

Mrs. Moore's maternal grandfather, the Rev. John William Flinn, D. D., was for many years a member of the faculty of the University of South Carolina, and her grandmother was a daughter of Rev. Thomas Smythe, who for 10 years was a Presbyterian minister in Charleston, S. C.

After attending Miss Bonham's school in Columbia, this charming newcomer studied at Gunton Hall, Washington, D. C., and finished her education in New York. Mr. Moore graduated from the University of South Carolina, where he was a popular athletic star and captain of the football team.

Junior League circles will especially welcome Mrs. Moore, for he was an active figure and a valued asset to the chapters both in Washington and Columbia.

JIMMY WALKER has arrived in Atlanta! Not New York's renowned former mayor, but a handsome five-gaited horse that bears the name of his former owner. The gelding is a gift to young Frank Gay from Mrs. Chip Robert, to whom the former New York official gave the animal several years ago.

Mrs. Robert, who is considered one of the country's most accomplished equestriennes, has on many blue ribbons with Jimmy Walker when he has been entered in leading horse shows throughout the nation.

When Frank began riding horseback, Mrs. Robert promised to give him Jimmy Walker if he continued his interest in horsemanship for one year. With his hind set upon his reward, Frank as struggled daily with the technique of good riding. Today he is counted among Atlanta's best riders in the younger set.

Good to her word, Mrs. Robert had Jimmy Walker shipped from her Maryland stables to Frank, son of Mrs. Ewell Gay, who is a close friend of Mrs. Robert.

Jimmy Walker and his new owner will make their first formal appearance in equestrian circles here when they enter the ring at Fort McPherson in May to compete in Atlanta's annual horse show.

SALLY continues to hear echoes of Nelson Eddy's unrivaled popularity with the fair sex since his recent appearance here. From Marvin McDonald comes the story of how he tried to protect the handsome, blond singer from autograph seekers.

He stationed himself, it seems, at the stage entrance of the Fox theater, where Mr. Eddy gave his concert, to hold back the hordes of school children who sought the celebrity's autograph. He told them firmly and with finality that Mr. Eddy was not granting any such requests.

But one young miss was undaunted. "Well," she said, "you have seen him and talked to him and touched him, haven't you?" "Yes," assented Mr. McDonald. "Well, you just sign your name here," she sighed. "I 'spose you'll have to do."

And did you hear of the lady in another southern city who admired the star so extravagantly that she saw his picture, "Naughty Marietta," 42 times? Just previous to his appearance here, he gave a concert in her home city, and she concealed herself, it seems, back of the switch box on the stage to be perfectly sure she wouldn't miss seeing him.

Imagine his surprise and indignation when she jumped from her hiding place and kissed him as he passed!

Miss Proctor Speaks Here Twice Today.

Women in church missionary groups of all denominations who have been studying rural rehabilitation work, are invited to hear Miss Erna Proctor, who speaks twice in Atlanta today. At 10:30 o'clock she will speak in the Wilmer chapel, St. Luke's church, and at 7:30 o'clock, the Bishop's Auxiliary meeting at the Y. W. C. A., 37 Auburn avenue, holds an open meeting, so that business women and others may hear Miss Proctor.

Miss Proctor, who is regional chief with the Farm Security Administration, has traveled widely in rural sections and her topic, "Rebuilding Rural America," will follow the study program recently undertaken by the church groups. Those interested are invited to attend either of the meetings.

Behind-the-Scenes Talk With the Mother of Jane Withers

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Wednesday.—At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the WPA state administrator and various other officials called for me and we drove to the Fresno airport, which has been greatly improved by WPA labor. Under this program, some of the buildings have been moved and the administration building has been built. Then we drove through the park to see the artificial lake the WPA had constructed. Finally, we returned to the state college to see a project which had employed only a few people and which is now practically complete.

It interested me greatly because I think it will mean much to the school children of this district. In a series of well-lighted cases running along a corridor, they have depicted a section of California from the coast, over the mountains and to the desert. In each, against backgrounds painted from actual scenes, the birds and animals of the region are shown.

In those cases showing the marshy sections of the coast, I was amused to see the same little sand-piper and yellowlegs disport themselves as we find up north on the Atlantic coast in the marshy section of the Island of Campobello. The backgrounds are skilfully painted and give depth to each scene. I can well believe that hundreds of children have enjoyed this natural history exhibit.

Two of the men of the American Legion, which sponsored the lecture in Fresno, very kindly suggested that we might like to go out to see a winery. The wine industry is, of course, important in this state. My only knowledge of wine making is derived from seeing the champagne cellars in Rheims, France, many years ago, and seeing my grandmother make mulberry wine at home. Here we saw sherry, port, muscatel, brandy and many other varieties. We were given some sherry and port to taste and they seemed excellent to me.

We reached the hotel about 6 and a number of people came to call. After that I tried to write a few letters, but only succeeded doing the absolutely necessary ones before it was time for dinner and the lecture.

The gentleman who introduced me at the lecture had lost his house in the flood. He had built it only two years ago and I thought he accepted his loss very remarkably. Instead of bemoaning it, he said: "We regret the loss of things to which we had some sentimental attachment and which we cannot replace, but perhaps such things should happen to us lest we grow too soft." Not many of us take our adversities in that spirit.

I returned here on the first train to go through from Fresno to Los Angeles since the flood. We woke early this morning and saw we were going through an area which had evidently been hard hit. Steel bridges were destroyed as if they were made of paper and whole sections of the highway seemed to have been undermined.

Trimmings Give Freshness

Navy blue frock of Poiret with red patent leather and black cire braid embroidery with silver.

By LISBETH.

More and smarter details are being used to pep up the new spring suits. They are flowers, in new materials and styles; lapel jewelry, zipper closings, braids, buttons and whatnot used for trimming. Tuckings, pleatings and other details also do their stuff to make the spring suits look very new and smarter than in any season yet, or so it seems.

Quite military looking is the navy blue town frock pictured above. It is made of Poiret twill and is slimly fitted. This dress has an intricate trim of red patent leather strips and black cire braid embroidery held with silver metal.

The modified pillbox hat is of black silk jersey trimmed with red patent leather to tie it up with the dress. Of course, it has a chin strap, as American women have found chin straps or bonnet strings that tie under the chin very becoming, and will not let them drop even in Paris, where elastic has replaced the ties.

A handsome Himalayan marten scarf finishes this costume.

PLEASANT HOMES

A Lady and a Can of Paint.

What a lady and a can of paint, between them, can't accomplish is nobody's business. Right now we're interested in Helen W's plans for her bedroom. Because her own ingenuity with paint is going to be the main expenditure on the room, but we're betting that it's going to have plenty of charm when it's finished.

It's a small farm-house room, just repainted in a yellow-flowered paper on a white ground. The ceiling has yellow paper with tiny white dots. The bed is old-fashioned, a Jenny Lind type, painted ivory and the dresser is old and oak. The old washstand she's planning to use as a dressing table, taking off the heart-shaped piece across the top. The bedspread is a lovely quilt in pastel colors and the curtains are cream, draped and tied back.

But what she's really worried about is the paint to choose for the floor, woodwork and furniture and the material for the dressing table skirt.

Suggestions.

We suggested that she paint the floor a soft gray, then have the dresser and bed painted the yellow of the ceiling. The woodwork we'd prefer in the ground white of the wall paper. The dressing table skirt would be nicest in yellow or orange or yellow dotted swiss, but must you take off the heart-shaped frame at the top? It sounds quaint and delightful. Maybe you could use it as a frame for a mirror.

Another reader with a paint problem has a wood bed and an old dresser to be used in an attic room. The room is to be repainted, and woodwork and floor will be repainted. What colors? What paper? What should be done about the furniture?

Why not gray paper with a small all-over pattern of pink

HELPFUL BOOKLET FOR GARDENERS GIVES TIPS ON ROCK GARDENS

BRING WOODLAND CHARM TO YOUR PLOT.

An enchanting country retreat—wouldn't you think. Actually it's a corner of an everyday back yard—magically transformed by a woody rock garden and a tiny, jewel-like pool.

You can easily create such a spot in your own garden and this is the time to start.

Perhaps you already have a rocky slope. Fine! But if you haven't, build one from the ground up. You'll dig for the lily pool. Put down several layers of rock and soil—set the rocks at an angle as the diagram shows—and your slope will hold as firmly as you'd wish.

And now the "landscaping" and the real fun. You've a glorious array of plants and flowers to choose from—golden moss, creeping phlox and pinks are a mere start for sunny gardens; white moss, ferns and violets give you an idea what you can do in shade.

But whatever you plant, follow a plan. Keep the taller plants—

Hollywood Today

LISTENING TO JANE WITHERS' MOTHER.

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Conversation piece—with the mother of Jane Withers, box-office money-maker No. 6. . . . "It (the just-concluded personal appearance tour) was like a beautiful vacation for us. Jane worked only 40 minutes a day (doing impersonations of famous movie children). And she was paid $5,000 a week. Her new picture contract for two straight years gives her $2,500 a week. (The same contract for two straight years pays Mrs. Withers $200 weekly.) She makes lots of money from endorsements—$25,000 a year. As you know, she's had many offers of radio work—one for $75,000 for 26 weeks' work and appearances with Charlie McCarthy. She was wild to do it. But the studio would not allow her to go on the air. Ah, well; you can't have everything.)

"On the whole, we are both very happy. Only Jane sometimes gets tired of the good-little-bad parts she plays on the screen. The other day she said, 'Gee, mom, I wish I could be a meanie again.' (The first and last time was in 'Bright Eyes,' with Shirley Temple.) Sure, she's friends with Shirley (in answer to my question). They say 'Hello' to each other when they meet on the set. (Only they don't often meet on the set.)

"Jane's a wonderful child. All she wants to do is work. Yes, she sees her pictures, but she does not realize she's the central character. She never talks 'shop' at home (a four-acre, 10-room ranch).

"Jane loves Hollywood. She was born in Atlanta, Ga., but I brought her here when she was six—that was five years ago. She'll stay here to enroll at U. C. L. A.—she is the mascot of the football team.

"Jane is a normal child. She goes to bed at 8 o'clock when she is working. At nine, when she's not. But every day of the year she gets up at six—to feed her animals. (Her menagerie consists of Bingo and Red Fox—horses; Al, Harry and Jimmy—Ritz kittens; eight turtles, three baby alligators, 24 white Leghorn chickens, 12 turkeys, 2 Chinese hens, Charlie, the rooster, 6 bantams, Donald and Dotty Duck, 7 frogs, and 6 dogs—pew!—there are also 300 dolls.)

"She eats good healthy food, goes to Sunday school, one picture show a week, plays the piano, loves Dick Tracy, and 'The Wizard of Oz,' spends Saturdays and Sundays and vacations at our cabin at Lake Arrowhead. She's a very healthy child—she didn't feel so good when something fell on her in 'Pepi'—when she was out cold for 35 minutes—in 'Can This Be Dixie?' Both times the director wanted to send her home, but you couldn't get her to leave the set. Jane is simply crazy about picture work—chiefly because, as she herself says, 'You can do things you can't get away with at home.'

"Her favorite stars are Alice Faye and Stuart Erwin. She thinks Una Merkel is wonderful and likes Mickey Rooney and Deanna Durbin. (Mrs. Withers, who wanted to be an actress herself, but never made the grade, was determined that her unborn baby should be a girl, and an actress. When Jane was three, she was named after the actress.)

"Jane is a very happy child, and could impersonate anyone you named. In October, 1934, Mrs. Withers took Jane to see David Butler, who was looking for a brat to play opposite Shirley Temple. The director told Mrs. Withers to stand by for a call. 'I've been standing by for two years,' that lady told him bitterly. 'And I can't get Jane a chance to show what she can do.' At this cue, Jane leapt into her impersonations. Two minutes later, the moppet was signed.)

"She's kept her head through everything. When I told her she was No. 6 box office favorite this year she replied, 'Gee, mom, that's swell. Now may I go to a picture show?'

Beauty According To You

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

SO THE OLD FOGIES DO NOT APPROVE?

From the northwest a reader writes that her 12-year-old daughter is subject to a condition (no matter what) which renders general anesthesia too hazardous. The girl has infected tonsils and several physicians have advised that the tonsils should be removed. However, each of the physicians has deplored the situation and declined to recommend the removal of the tonsils, fearing the effects of general anesthesia.

Pretty dumb medical service I'm telling the world.

Finally the mother heard about a newfangled method by which tonsils are removed without the risk of a general anesthetic without the necessity of entering a hospital. By dint of research the public prints she learned that the new-fangled method is called diathermy extirpation or electrocoagulation. With this information the mother went back to town of the physicians who had urged removal of the tonsils and warned against the serious risk involved.

At first the two doctors couldn't comprehend what the lady was driving at. Sounded like a pipe dream to them. They both intimated it sounded that way. They dismissed the important client with the assurance that nothing can be done about it, though it would indeed be a blessing if the infected tonsils could be removed without the great risk of general anesthesia and a major operation would entail.

Now the mother writes to me. I am sorry but I know of no physician in her community who qualified to extirpate tonsils with diathermy. I can only tell her to travel a thousand miles to the who can do so rather than submit to the unnecessary risk, hospitalization, discomfort and interference with eating that uniformly attend surgical tonsillectomy.

My tonsils had to be removed. Diathermy extirpation of tonsils is now "accepted" even the Pooh-Bah of the A. M. A. I railed against it a few years ago chiefly, I imagine, because I urged it on the public before. Pooh-Bah learned about it. When you meet a doctor or a specialist who says "no good," "dangerous," "inefficient," et al., you may be reasonably sure that man has had no experience with it and no opportunity to observe the method in skilled hands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Butter, Please.
Which is better for cooking purposes, butter, lard or vegetable products? (Mrs. L. S.)
Answer—If it's all the same you I'd prefer butter for most things though food cooked with vegetable oil or lard is quite as nourishing, digestible and as appetizing.

Prevention of the Ears.
For prevention of soreness of the ears from spectacle bows let me suggest slipping a piece of fine rubber tube over the part of the bow that touches ear or helmet tubing such as is used for stethoscopes for artificial flowers.

Your Figure, Madame

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

GRACE MOORE'S FORMULA FOR CHARM ALLOWS FOR NEW SPRING BONNET AS WELL AS SENSIBLE DIET.

"There is spring in the air. But I'll tell you flat Spring can't arrive.

"I'll tell you a new hat!" That is the little verse that sprang into my mind as I walked into Grace Moore's apartment, which was the scene of preparations for a concert tour, and picked my way through more hats than I have ever seen outside a millinery shop.

"I take it you like hats," was my greeting.

"I love them," Miss Moore said, "and think there is nothing that picks up the spirits like a new hat. They are my pet extravagance—and yet I invariably wear the same old favorite."

Doubtless a number of such mental cocktails contribute to the "champane sparkle" that makes Grace Moore an outstanding screen personality. This fascinating star has an unusual insight into the things that make women beautiful—and the last ranges from the lift of a new spring bonnet to the art of being a good listener, and from daily relaxation to stretching exercises.

With Miss Moore, color is a matter of mood and I found her to be refreshingly romantic. You will be delighted with her style suggestions—all along the line of color and romance.

"When your romance is at a critical stage," she counsels, "wear a heavenly blue shade. When you want to be gay but noncommittal, wear white. . . . there is something about its subtle purity! Of course, if you want to be sophisticated, black is the thing."

It is her contention that you can size up your man and decide whether he wants you to be worldly wise in black, lovely in white, vivid in green or red, or romantic in blue—and then act accordingly.

PUT SPRING BLOOM INTO WINTER COMPLEXION

By Lillian Mae.

No doubt you're looking longingly at the new spring fashions, wishing you had started a little sooner to get yourself in shape to wear them. Particularly will this be so this year because it's going to be an untripped season with emphasis on fabric, color, detail—and face!

This is the message that comes from Paris, from a leading cosmetic stylist, now abroad collaborating with the French couturiers on designing new complexions to complement the new spring fashions.

Begin now to put a spring bloom into your winter-weary complexion, says this beauty expert, and you'll not only be ready for the new spring clothes, but you will be giving your looks and spirits the lift they so urgently require right now.

To help you combat the ill effects of winter weather and bring back youthful smoothness and radiance to roughened, dry skin, she offers a five-point beauty program for you to follow during the next few weeks:

1. Double the nutrition you give your skin. Because emphasis this spring in fashions will be on color as never before, it is all the more necessary for your complexion to be as fair, smooth and dazzling as the first flower that blooms, if you want to fit harmoniously in the picture! In fact, the pastels which usually do not come out until summer, are moving right into spring, and you'll see them all with the first spring fashions—the soft, light mauves, brownish roses, pale pinks, lavender-blues, yellow-greens, summer browns. So you haven't a minute to lose!

The majority of skins become drier in winter than in summer. The oil glands in the skin, contracted by the cold, do not function so freely in cold weather as in hot. As a result, the skin becomes dry, lined, drawn. Make up the deficiency, says this beauty authority, by selecting every cream you use with an eye to special nutritive qualities. Use for cleansing a pasteurized face cream that not only cleanses the pores to their depths, but that also molds the skin and arouses it to new life and vigor, making it look instantly lighter, clearer, finer of texture. Then, use the richest nourishing cream you can find, morning and night. Such a cream is youthifying tissue cream with its rare herbal oils. It attacks lines and wrinkles, and it also has stimulating ingredients that remove sallowness or a drab, weatherbeaten look. Use these two creams daily during the next few weeks and you'll have a complexion that's unlined and clear and young, a complexion that will do justice to delicate spring pastels and to such definitely youthful fashions as boleros, pleated, tucked and gored skirts, shirtwaist or bloused bodices. For youth will reign supreme this spring! Everything, whether softly bloused or smoothly tailored, is emphatically fitted, designed for young figures and young faces.

colored peasants' dresses copied from the style worn by the French and Belgian peasants? They have headstuffs to tie around your head if you are adverse to wearing garden hats.

Tonight and tomorrow night there will be 200 visiting businessmen here for the conference of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. There will be two dances and the visitors will have an opportunity of meeting and seeing the famous "Georgia peaches." What they wear will have a lot to do with what the visitors will remember of the girls they left behind them in Atlanta. Tonight and Saturday the great white race will be well in evidence and by that we mean that white evening dresses will be very much in evidence at the ball.

If you are going, try to get yourself one of those dreams of white organza striped with a Roman band of yellow, blue, red or orange. Or get yourself one of

In the Atlanta shops we found the gayest, most romantic hats seen in many a moon. The millinery designers seem to have gone fancy free. The hat at the top was created by a designer famous for her "gay, young things." It is of navy imported rough straw, tip tilted over one eye, high flower arrangement in front and filmy veil. Important news for you is the fact that this very famous designer will be in one of your favorite shops next week with her large collection of exciting new hats. Don't miss meeting her, for she does things to hats and to you that you'd never dream possible.

Middle. We saw the swankiest woman trying on this salad bowl tuscan straw. So we hastily made a sketch for you. It is of rough tuscan straw with a heavy gold jewel hat pin and graceful backward sweeping veil.

SEEN 'ROUND ABOUT ATLANTA

By Jacqueline Greene.

Hats are in the headlines again. Going high-hat now is to your advantage from a fashion standpoint at least.

Next week at one of the leading stores here, it will be a case of women and children first—in the line to see and talk to a famous hat designer who will be here to talk on hats, "prescribe" hits for the spring and summer season.

However, Atlanta women have been making a hit with hats a long time. Have you noticed the tricky ones being worn to town on shopping tours by the fashionable maids and matrons? Or the ones they have been wearing to the club and hotel dances? Even riding during these divine afternoons?

Here is a report of what we saw last week. Wearing a manish tailored suit, one of the debs of the past season chooses a black felt beret—very snappy looking posed over her hairdress which features the long bob.

One of our better known matrons who has a date with her husband three times a week for lunch knows her hats—and knows the hat her husband likes best. It is a straw with a comelike brim and an unpretentious bow. It goes fine with suits as well as with print dresses.

And speaking of husbands, don't let yours speak of the hats like mother used to wear. He might know, as a follow-up on the pies that mother used to make. Why not do like one of the young matrons here and buy yourself a very flat sailor hat made of blue Panama with two large magenta flowers perched like two birds, on the edge of the brim? Then to make you oh-so-much more alluring encircle that long veil around the hat and swirl it around to tie under your chin.

Were you at The Constitution's

Garden School Wednesday or yesterday? If not, you'd better come today, for blossoming in the audience are some models of varied and attractive styles. One young matron wears a black moire suit finished with a Roman striped blouse. Her hat was a flat black sailor and perched in the center front was the most engaging bunch of posies. There were many bursting into print in some of the gayest, brightest silk prints. Prints are always tops for spring and worn with a solid-colored coat and a jaunty hat, one feels the very latest in feminine attire. Speaking of the Garden School.—Have you been driving past any of the gardens lately and seen any Atlanta women working, digging, pruning plants and the like? If you haven't keep your eyes sharpened for them for the latest now is to dress up to dig. Still popular for working are bright-colored overalls. But why not get yourself one of those gay

"The Store All Women Know"

Trying time of the month but she enjoyed the show!

She goes out whenever she pleases, happy and charming because she feels well—a modern girl who has discovered the secret of CARDUI.

For Cardui benefits women in two ways. As an antispasmodic, it relieves the functional discomfort of monthly periods. As a tonic, Cardui helps to strengthen the entire system by improving the appetite and digestion. Medical authorities acknowledge the great value of the plants blended in Cardui for these purposes.

If you suffer from functional periodic pain, if you do not enjoy the food you eat and obtain proper nutrition from it, then try CARDUI by all means. Your druggist has it.

Annual Tour of Atlanta Gardens Will Benefit Egleston Hospital

Miss Jesse Candlish, superintendent of Egleston hospital, at the left, and Mrs. Frank Lamont, president of the hospital auxiliaries, photographed with one of the small patients at the hospital who will benefit from the annual pilgrimage of Atlanta gardens to be held April 1, 2 and 3. The tour will include 14 of the city's most beautiful gardens and proceeds will go entirely to Egleston hospital.

Chairmen are announced today for the tenth annual tour of Atlanta Gardens conducted by the Egleston Hospital Auxiliary. The tour is a part of the state-wide Georgia Garden Pilgrimage, sponsored by the Garden Club of Georgia, which will be an important event taking place March 22-April 3. The dates for the Atlanta tour are April 1, 2 and 3, and the chairman included: Mrs. Jesse Draper, general chairman; Mrs. Robert B. Pegram and Mrs. Paul Hultish, co-chairmen; Mrs. Frank Lamont, president of the auxiliary, in charge of guides; Mrs. J. Osburn and Mrs. Albert Thornton, contact chairman; Mrs. Jack Norris, concession chairman; Mrs. Beverly DuBois, in charge of headquarters; Mrs. Hines Roberts, poster chairman; Mrs. Philip L'Engle, chairman of maps; Mrs. Joseph Brennan and Mrs. Edwin McCarty, publicity.

The tour will include 14 of Atlanta's loveliest gardens, ranging from small intimate gardens to the more elaborate formal landscaping, featuring some of the south's finest specimens and collections of boxwood, rare native and exotic plants and flowers, extensive terraces, walled and rock gardens and unusual woodland vistas. Five of the gardens on the tour are being opened to the public for the first time and include those of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McEachern Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wilby and Mr. and Mrs. H. Warner Martin. Other gardens, which have been high-lights on previous tours and will be shown in the three-day event are those of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bulow Campbell, Mrs. J. J. Goodrum, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, Mr. and Mrs. James Floyd, Mr. and Mrs. Philip McDuffie, Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Finley and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Harris. The entire proceeds from the tour will go to the maintenance of Egleston hospital, a unique institution for children under 12, where medical aid and treatment is given to children from all parts of the south.

Wesleyan Students Elected to Society.

MACon, Ga., March 17.—(P)—Dr. Dice R. Anderson, president of Wesleyan College, announced in chapel this morning the election of three new members to Phi Delta Phi, honorary society. They are Miss Rebecca Gerdinge, formerly of Korea; Miss Alberta Trulock, Columbus, and Mrs. Annette Gardner, Atlanta.

The students, members of the senior class, were elected into the society primarily on merit of scholarship. They are chosen also on a basis of leadership and participation in other activities of the school.

Miss Gerdinge is the daughter of a retired missionary to Korea. Miss Trulock is correspondent for the Macon Telegraph and served as editor of the Watchtower, student publication, for a short time last year. Miss Gardner is editor of the Watchtower this year. Miss Margaret Turner, of Tampa, Fla., president of the senior class, was elected to Phi Delta Phi last fall.

Mrs. Browning Feted.

Mrs. J. L. Browning was honored guest at a St. Patrick's Day party last evening given in celebration of her sixty-eighth birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Wheeler, on Chapel Hill road. The guests included Mrs. Browning's children and their families. The children, in addition to Mrs. Wheeler, include Mrs. S. O. Jewell, of Easley, S. C.; Mrs. H. C. Wood, of Greenville, S. C.; Mrs. E. R. Smith, of Atlanta; P. E. Browning, of Charleston, S. C.; Lucius Browning, of Williamson, S. C.; W. E. Browning, of Pelzer, S. C.; and B. C. Browning, of Atlanta.

Visitors Arrive On Monday.

Mrs. J. S. Jonas, of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. John Clarke Shepherd, of Chicago and Omaha, will arrive Monday to visit Mrs. P. W. Godfrey. Numerous parties are planned in honor of these visitors.

Mrs. Godfrey will accompany her guests on the Garden Pilgrimage sponsored by the Garden Club of Georgia, which takes place on March 22 through April 3.

In addition to parties given in Atlanta in honor of the visitors, Mrs. Charles Candler, daughter of Mrs. Godfrey, will entertain at her home, Honeymoon Hall, in Madison.

Mrs. N. S. Turner will also entertain for Mrs. Godfrey and her guests at her home in Covington.

Party Is Postponed.

The birthday party, which June and Jane LaFontaine, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. LaFontaine, were to entertain on Saturday in celebration of their sixth birthday has been postponed to Thursday, March 24.

Whitehead-Hatton.

AThENS, Ga., March 17.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Whitehead announce the engagement of their daughter, Mabel, to John L. Hatton, of Athens, formerly of Macon. The marriage will be solemnized here on Saturday.

Mrs. DeLoach, Savannah, Elected Head of Mercer Woman's Auxiliary

Mrs. Sarah Dixon DeLoach, of Savannah, was elected president of the Mercer University Woman's Auxiliary at a meeting held recently in Pennfield Hall on the campus of Mercer University, Macon. Mrs. DeLoach is well known throughout Georgia, having won state-wide recognition through her able leadership in both civic and church circles. In addition to her official connection with Baptist denominational work, she is regent of the Savannah Chapter D. A. R., sponsor of Savannah Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, and director of Savannah Music Club. Among her civic interests are included membership on board of Chatham Tuberculosis Society, trusteeship of Health Center, and vice presidency of Savannah Y. W. C. A.

Serving with Mrs. DeLoach will be the following officers, all of whom are outstanding leaders in Baptist work and in cultural and patriotic circles of the state: Vice president, Mrs. Columbus Roberts, of Columbus; recording secretary, Mrs. Ben Thompson, of Madison; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. F. McMahon, of Macon; treasurer, Mrs. A. P. Montague, of Macon; parliamentarian, Mrs. Frank Dennis, of Eatonton; chaplain, Mrs. Jilia Veach Stewart, of Adairsville; honorary chaplain, Miss Sallie Boone, Macon; vice presidents from the various districts of the state are: Mrs. Isabelle Cross, Sylvan; Mrs. T. Callaway, Thomasville; Mrs. O. P. Gilbert, Atlanta; Mrs. Bessie Aldred, Sandersville; Mrs. C. C. Davison, Brunswick; Mrs. John Greene, Elberton.

The meeting was called for the purpose of formulating plans for the spring activities of the auxiliary, which will include projects for enhancing the social and religious life of Mercer's vast student body, comprised of both young men and young women. Assembled at this session were representative women from all sections of the state. Membership in the organization is open to all women who are interested in Mercer University and in the religious education of men and women.

Following the business meeting guests were entertained at luncheon by the local auxiliary unit.

Griffin Marriages.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 17.—Miss Ruth Goodin and William Zeigler Martin were married here last Sunday, Rev. M. Maxwell, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating at his home. Miss Virginia Steele, maid of honor, wore a black ensemble with a bouquet of Radiance roses. The bride wore a blue ensemble. Her hat and accessories were of navy blue and she wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. The couple left by motor for Florida. They will reside in Terracedale, suburb of Griffin.

Miss Tenny Mae Kennedy, of Griffin, and Loring Kilgore, of Ineyard, were married on Friday, the Rev. J. E. Holbrook, officiating. The bride wore a navy blue sheer crepe with gray accessories. After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside near Griffin. Mrs. Kilgore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kennedy, of Lovejoy, and is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Kellie Babo, pioneer settlers of Henry county, and of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kennedy, also well known in Henry county. Since her graduation from G. S. C. W., the bride has taught in Spalding High school here. Mr. Kilgore is the son of Mrs. W. T. Kilgore and the late Mr. Kilgore and is a well-known young farmer.

COSMETICS SOLD HERE FOUND DEADLY

State Without Law to Prohibit Use of Poisonous Dyes.

The State Department of Agriculture announced yesterday chemical tests had disclosed two widely used brands of eyelash and eyebrow coloring to be poisonous.

At the same time, Columbus Roberts, commissioner of agriculture, said Assistant Attorney General Ellis Arnall reported there was no statute under which the state could prohibit their sale.

Chemist J. Preston Yarborough said both preparations used paraphenylenediamine, a derivative of aniline, as the base. He added his department had received reports of one death, one case of total blindness and several cases of impaired eyesight attributable to one or the other preparation.

Many Cities Bar Sale.

Dr. Yarborough said Kentucky, New Hampshire and the cities of New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles had banned the sale, use or possession of any of these dyes. Both cosmetic preparations are manufactured by California concerns.

"These dyes are being used in beauty shops of Georgia for the purpose of dyeing hair, eyebrows and eyelashes," he said. "Usually the customer has to sign some agreement relieving the operator and the dye manufacturer from all responsibility of any ill effects."

The State Law Department ruled that since the preparations were considered cosmetics, rather than drugs, and since they were not on the list of prohibited poisons, the state could not ban their sale.

A bill seeking to prohibit the sale of drugs, cosmetics or patent medicines in Georgia until they were approved by the state chemist was introduced in the extra session of the general assembly by Senator Thomas Chason, of Donaldsonville, but was abandoned after Attorney General M. J. Yeomans ruled such legislation had not been included in Governor Rivers' call.

Dr. Yarborough said a similar bill, providing penalties of up to $500 fine or one year imprisonment for illegal selling of drugs or other preparations, probably would be sponsored by the Agricultural Department at the next regular session of the legislature in January.

FIFTH TERM IS SOUGHT BY JUDGE M. D. JONES

MACon, March 17.—(P)—Superior Judge Malcolm D. Jones is a candidate for his fifth four-year term as judge on the Macon judicial circuit. He announced his candidacy one day after Judge Louis L. Brown, of Fort Valley, entered the race.

Judge Jones presides over the civil division of court, Judge W. A. McCallan over the criminal.

Dinner Dance To Honor Sponsor

Miss Helen Jones, sponsor for the Alpha Sigma Pi fraternity, will be honor guest this evening at the formal dinner-dance at which members of the fraternity will entertain at the Ansley hotel roof garden, the affair to be followed by a breakfast given at the Colonnade.

Mrs. W. W. Stone Elected President Of Sixth District in Macon, Ga.

MACon, Ga., March 17.—(P)—Mrs. W. W. Stone, of Wrens, was elected president of the Sixth District of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs here today. Others elected were Mrs. Leonard Booth, Macon, first vice president; Mrs. Carl Nelson, Dublin, second vice president; Mrs. L. S. Leach, Cochran, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Duggan, Jefferson, Jeffersonville, treasurer. The corresponding secretary will be appointed.

Mrs. Stone succeeds Mrs. Leo Browning, of Cochran, whose term closes with many successful activities to her credit in the sixth district. Mrs. Stone possesses excellent leadership qualifications and is one of the most prominent clubwomen in the state. Mrs. Stone is president of Wrens Improvement Club and Jefferson County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Retiring officers are Mrs. Leo Browning, Cochran; Mrs. W. R. Malone, Bartow; Mrs. Otis Etheridge, Gordon; Mrs. J. J. Pilcher, Wrens; Mrs. C. B. Wray, Cochran, and Mrs. E. L. Maddox, Macon.

Woman Plans 17th Trip Abroad; Crossing Sea Just Incident to Her

Mrs. Elizabeth Lauren Has Been Atlantic Commuter Since She Came to This Country From Scotland When She Was Only 18 Years Old.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lauren, who has been abroad each summer since 1921, and is planning her seventeenth voyage, doesn't see anything unusual in trans-Atlantic commuting.

"There's nothing so remarkable about that," said Mrs. Lauren, who lives quietly in a comfortable apartment home at 1041 West Peachtree street, N. E.

"Lots of people travel a great deal more, and I just go over every year to visit my sister and brother in Belfast."

Mrs. Lauren, the widow of Thomas Chester Lauren, well-known Atlanta merchant tailor who died in 1920, dismissed with a nonchalant shrug her many years of travel and her familiarity with European points which have figured prominently in the news recently.

Came Here at 18.

But little by little, her story was unfolded. Mrs. Lauren was born in Glasgow, and came to this country as a young woman of 18.

"One of my older sisters had married a young man from Belfast," she said, "and he left the old country shortly after the wedding. He established himself in Jacksonville. About a year later he sent for his wife and their child. He thought it would be less lonesome for my sister in the new world if I were with her, so he sent for me a few months after my sister arrived here."

Mrs. Lauren had not been long in this country when she met her husband, who had been born and raised in Canada, although his family was originally from Glasgow.

"It seems strange that two people with such similar family backgrounds should meet from such opposite ends of the earth," she said. "But that's what happened. I came to Atlanta with my husband in 1899 and have lived here since."

First Trip Back in 1921.

Always interested in travel, Mrs. Lauren took her first trip back to the old country in 1921, the first trip home in 27 years.

"I found things much changed," she said. "In fact, the civil war was going on in Ireland at that time, and I arrived in Belfast with a military escort."

"But, of course, I was delighted to see my sister, Mrs. Annie Berry, who is a widow, and my brother, William McLain. He is a bachelor and a retired railroad man. He was with the Canadian Pacific railroad for more than 30 years."

"Now, the two of them live together in Belfast, and we have a wonderful time together each summer. That's why I go abroad, to see them and to see the country."

On the 1936 trip, Mrs. Lauren made her headquarters in Plymouth, and last summer, her headquarters were Bournemouth, England.

Fascinated by London.

London, in her opinion, is the most fascinating city in the world, and Mrs. Lauren has visited virtually all parts of the civilized world and its capitals. She has

Mrs. Moore Honors Mrs. Phil G. Saxton

Mrs. J. Noel Moore was hostess at a luncheon at her home on Cascade road yesterday honoring Mrs. Phil G. Saxton, retiring president of the Cascade Garden Club. It was also the birthday anniversary of the honor guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Saxton came to Atlanta about three years ago from Oshkosh, Wis., and immediately affiliated themselves with the religious, social and cultural life of Atlanta. Mrs. Saxton has served as both vice president and president of the Cascade Garden Club, secretary and fine arts chairman of the Civic Club of West End, chairman of the art fund of the Fifth District Federation, as well as chairman of the Atlanta City Federation of Art.

Mrs. Moore was assisted in entertaining by her mother Mrs. Fred Averett, and Miss Gunnelle Lowe.

A beautifully embossed birthday cake, which held green birthday candles and was decorated with shamrock leaves, centered the table. Original cards marked the places of the guests. An appropriate toast was given to the honor guest by Mrs. Joseph W. Crews, upon presentation of a beautiful antique silver water pitcher as a birthday gift.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Saxton, Mrs. W. W. Crews, W. G. Whisenand, Rose S. Bomar, Oscar L. Hester, Fred Averett, J. Noel Moore and Miss Gunnelle Lowe.

College Park News.

Mrs. Fred Brown was hostess Wednesday evening at a kitchen shower, honoring Miss Frances Bazemore, a bride-elect of April 9. Guests included the members of the College Park Methodist church choir. On Saturday Mrs. Lamar Hutcheson entertains at luncheon at Davison's tea room in honor of Miss Bazemore.

Mrs. Harold Youmans was hostess recently to members of the 1920 Club.

Mrs. Paul Solomon entertains her bridge club on Saturday.

Misses Kathlyn and Evelyn Brannen, of the University of Georgia, are spending the spring holidays with their mother, Mrs. J. F. Brannen.

Mrs. Edward Richardson spent several days recently in LaGrange, Ga., where he is visiting his mother, Mrs. Singleton Smith leaves Saturday for Demopolis, Ala., after a visit to Mrs. Lottie Everts.

Dr. B. D. Gray has returned from Birmingham and Mobile, Ala.

Mrs. Claud Hutcheson, of Jonesboro, recently visited Mrs. E. N. Seymour.

Mrs. W. E. Whitaker, of Roba, Ala., is visiting Mrs. W. R. Brewster.

Mrs. D. M. Berry is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lanham in Augusta.

Misses Pauline Vaughn and Dorothy Fitzpatrick, of G. S. C. W., are spending the holidays here.

Miss Ruth McElroy, of G. S. C. W., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McElroy.

Colonel Alfred Broom has returned from a visit to the Azalea Gardens at Mobile.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Knoff, of Sandusky, Ohio, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Young Evans.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

She bit into her lower lip to keep it from trembling. She couldn't permit herself to cry, she, the guest of honor of this brilliant party... Why had Bill come at all? To say good-bye, to say, "It was swell knowing you, Katha, and if I ever get to New Hampshire, I'll look you up." But if she had seen him just once more... If she had danced with him just once more...

Rex Dallam, big and dark, came up to her and smiled down on her.

"I've been looking all over for you. What is this? You came with Kemp and now he's with Millicent. I just saw them out in the hall and from what I saw."

"They are probably going to be married."

"Then you were..."

"Just falling in."

"Oh! Shall we dance? There isn't much left of tonight. How about my taking you home, Katha, since Kemp is occupied?"

"It's nice of you. Thanks."

"Bill was here. He was very steamed up over something. Had a train to get and not much time to get it. Wanted to see you. He's filthy with money since his uncle died, you know. Probably finding it quite a burden," he laughed. "Maybe he's running away from a girl..."

Lois came to Katha's room the following morning. Her brown eyes were shining.

"I wish you weren't going home. I've gotten used to you, Katha. You belong here." She curled up in the big chair and smiled. "Terry is coming tonight! Mother doesn't object to him. I can't explain that! He's coming tonight and we're having lunch with dad tomorrow. Everything is beautiful. And you..."

"Please—not that. You'll embarrass me."

"But it's true. Everything was horribly muddled when you came. We were in a muddle and you weren't. Now we aren't and you are. I saw Bill last night and I didn't get a chance to say anything to him."

Millicent and Evelyn knocked and came in.

"Katha, must you go home today?" Evelyn asked.

"Millicent and Kemp are going to be married on Saturday! Ever since she was a little girl I've dreamed of the wedding I'd give her and now she's going to be married without a tulleseal! But they can't wait. There's so much to be done I scarcely know where to begin! When does your train leave?"

"In half an hour. Lois is going to the station with me. I'd like to stay but I sent my mother a telegram and she'll be expecting me. Wearing the tailored black wool dress she had worn the day she reached New York. She stood in the center of the room and said, 'I'm grateful for everything. I'll never forget this month.'"

"We've done very little for you."

Lois went to her room to get her hat and coat. Evelyn was summoned to the telephone. Millicent looked at Katha. "I want to tell you how ashamed I am, how sorry..." I do want you to come out to California to see us. I mean that, Katha. I like you—very much. I'd like for us to be good friends." Coming forward, she held out a slender white hand which Katha took into her own.

Evelyn came back. "Gibson is here with the car." She put her arm around Katha. "Richard was sorry he couldn't be here to say good-bye. Give our love to Grace and John and the twins. When Richard comes north next summer, I'm coming with him. Millicent will be married and, who knows, Lois may be, too. Good-bye, darling."

Katha turned once as she went out and looked at mother and daughter and smiled at them. Evelyn was smiling. There were tears in Millicent's eyes. It was so different now.

Outside a light rain was falling. She shivered and followed Lois to the car. But she neither spoke nor heeded the traffic during the drive to the station. Nor did she glance back. To look back would be to see a hotel where she had danced and been happy with Bill and where he would dance again with another girl and still another...

In the great station Lois put her arms around her and held her tightly.

"I'll write," Lois said. "Oh, everything is so changed and so wonderful it makes me almost afraid. I keep saying to myself, 'Terry is coming tonight' and over but somehow it's too good to be true. You're crying about Bill, Katha."

"You warned me. Everybody warned me. Even my mother, as she didn't know him..."

A few minutes later the train started with a jerk. Lois was gone. Katha was alone except for the strange faces around her. Alone in her life.

To Katha the journey was unending. A man and woman across the aisle chattered constantly. The child wailed. Katha stared out the window, seeing nothing. Afterward she remembered nothing of the journey except her thoughts, the most despairing, hopeless thoughts of her existence.

For comfort she tried to think of her family. She had gifts for them all; a bridge set and a piece of costume jewelry for her mother, a muffler for her father who would probably say it was too good for him but wear it anyway because she had given it to him, an assortment of inexpensive toys and games for the twins, Jack and Jill. They would be so happy to see her and she would say to her mother when they were alone "Uncle Richard and Evelyn are fine and very happy. I wish Grace could see how happy they are. You'd like Evelyn now. And Millicent is going to marry a fine man and before long Lois will be getting married, too. I suspect it's a united family—now." Janet from next door would come over and read a detailed account of her experiences. The telephone would ring and friends would want to see her.

TOKYO BOWING AND FOOD. It is an old custom in Japan to bow. The bow starts at the waist, and the head goes down about one-third of the way to the floor. There are even lower bows than that in Japan, but most of those I've seen have been as described.

Speaking of bowing, I saw a Japanese woman meet a man in the elevator. He bowed, and she bowed, then he bowed again. Between the ground floor and the fourth floor (where he got off) they bowed three times apiece.

That is not the longest series of bows I have seen. In the lobby of my Tokyo hotel, I saw a man and a woman bow so many times they would finish. When at last they stopped, they must have exchanged about 15 bows!

I am not sure, but I believe they kept saying friendly words to each other, such as "I hope you are well," "You are looking fine," or "I trust your family is in good health."

Whatever they did say, they bowed long enough to prove they wanted to be polite.

Feature of Recent Stock Trading Is Weakness in Gold Securities

International Crises Causes Spasmodic Dealings on Market, Says Hughes.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.

(Copyright, 1938, The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, March 17.—Liquidation in these days of successive international crises is spasmodic. It is not a steady pressing for sale of securities with continuous recessions in prices, but it is fitful, with intervals of relative quiet and intermittent recoveries.

As far as our market is concerned, that often has been the case on the upside as well as on the reaction, and in part it is due to the lack of a large speculative interest. That, however, does not apply in so great a degree to foreign trading centers.

Reappraise Situation.

By way of illustration, Wednesday was a day of acute weakness both at home and abroad, with large losses in both fixed-interest paying obligations and in equities. Thursday, the pressure lifted and for a time a rally seemed in the making, but at the end little progress had been made either way.

The point is that the sellers of the new level, they are still more attractive, provided, of course, the liquidation abates. The weakness in the golds seems to have originated in Toronto, where there has been a large speculative following, particularly in the lower-priced shares. That position proved vulnerable when the general market collapsed under the war threat.

The suggestion that this government either will reduce the price of gold or will cease buying any gold but that domestically produced is too absurd for discussion. Secretary Morgenthau says that the tripartite agreement is working satisfactorily. It would be ruined by any such action.

Next to the gold stocks, the issues which continue to be depressed the most are the rails. Now there has been a slight improvement in railway traffic. The first roads to report loadings, for last week showed a gain over the preceding week, although still a heavy loss compared with previous years. It had no effect on sentiment and the reason is not hard to find. Even with the increased rates recently allowed, expenses will eat up the gain and the reflection in net will be inconsequential.

Industrials and specialties as groups moved without definite trend, utilities were off a shade, oils tending easier, and mining issues rang up both gains and losses.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass lost 1-3 at 75 1/4, and down fractions were Pan-American Airways at 14 1/4, St. Regis Paper 2 3/4, United Wall Paper 2 and Cord Corporation 1 1/2.

Aluminum Company, on the other hand, finished 1-2 higher at 75 1/2.

Transactions totaled 149,000 shares against 173,000 yesterday.

Brokers' Views.

COURTS CO.—The action of the market Wednesday was not encouraging for the future of the trade. Dow-Jones Industrials seems probable.

BEER & CO.—The crisis appears to have passed and increasing attention to improving domestic conditions is likely to impart a firmer tone to stock prices.

BEANE & BEANE. The course of basic commodity prices may have a particular significance bearing upon industrial stock prices.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We believe weakness in other markets will soon be reflected in cotton.

BEER & CO.—We think the policy of accumulating contracts on moderate returns is likely to remain on the side.

THOMSON & MCKINNON. Until foreign political conditions become more settled, we prefer to remain on the side.

PUNER & BEANE. We believe that tendency of the market is to do better on an encouraging note.

PIERCE & FENNER. Technical condition of the market appears sound, but we have a little less than a warrant much of an advance at the present.

SANDERS BROS. & CO.—We expect a steady rise in the market until foreign situation clears. Liverpool may due Friday 5.01.

COURTS & CO.—Nothing to prevent what from declining and selling very low later when crop movement starts, unless there be some foreign complications.

THOMSON & MCKINNON. We remain discouraged for the present and a sound market is to be expected pending some change in the situation.

PUNER & BEANE. Prices rally rather than steady rise in the market until foreign situation clears.

Wholesale Dethronement Faces 1937 Southeastern Champs

(Editor's Note: Break o' Day is written today by Jack Troy, acting sports editor of The Constitution, pinch-hitting for Ralph McGill.)

SAVANNAH, March 17.—A little oddity in the baseball news is the report from Tallahassee that Manager Charley Fressen has his players go through setting-up exercises every day.

CHUCK DRESSEN.

Can it be that the Nashville Vols, having been set-ups all these years in the Southern league, are now making it authentic by practice?

'Tis said that Dressen, who managed the Cincinnati Reds last season, has installed so many signals, he may, in the heat of a close contest this summer, find himself stealing his own.

Dressen is set against fraternizing. In addition to the Southern league rule that now provides a fine for players caught visiting each other's bench or otherwise displaying signs of sociability, Dressen has warned he personally will slap on a fine, too.

Which is a good thing for baseball. Modern day ball players aren't getting soft. They've simply been allowed too much pity. There easily can be just as much rivalry as at any previous time in baseball simply by letting them know the honeymoon's over, or words to that effect.

When the umpires give the game back to the players in a common-sense fashion, you'll quickly see the difference.

Speaking of Nashville, however, there is some question if the Vols have recovered yet from the deal of last year which sent Coker Triplett and Poco Taitt to Memphis for Wee Willie Duke.

Taitt didn't stick. He was sent to the New York-Penn league. But Triplett was so good the Chicks sold him to the Chicago Cubs and he's seen as a certainty to stick.

But what of Duke? He doesn't even want to play for Nashville and has asked that he be given a chance to make a deal for himself.

You'll have to give Billy Southworth an "A" on that one. On second thought, maybe an A-1.

It's curious how trades work out sometimes.

HUTCHESON FOR ROSE.

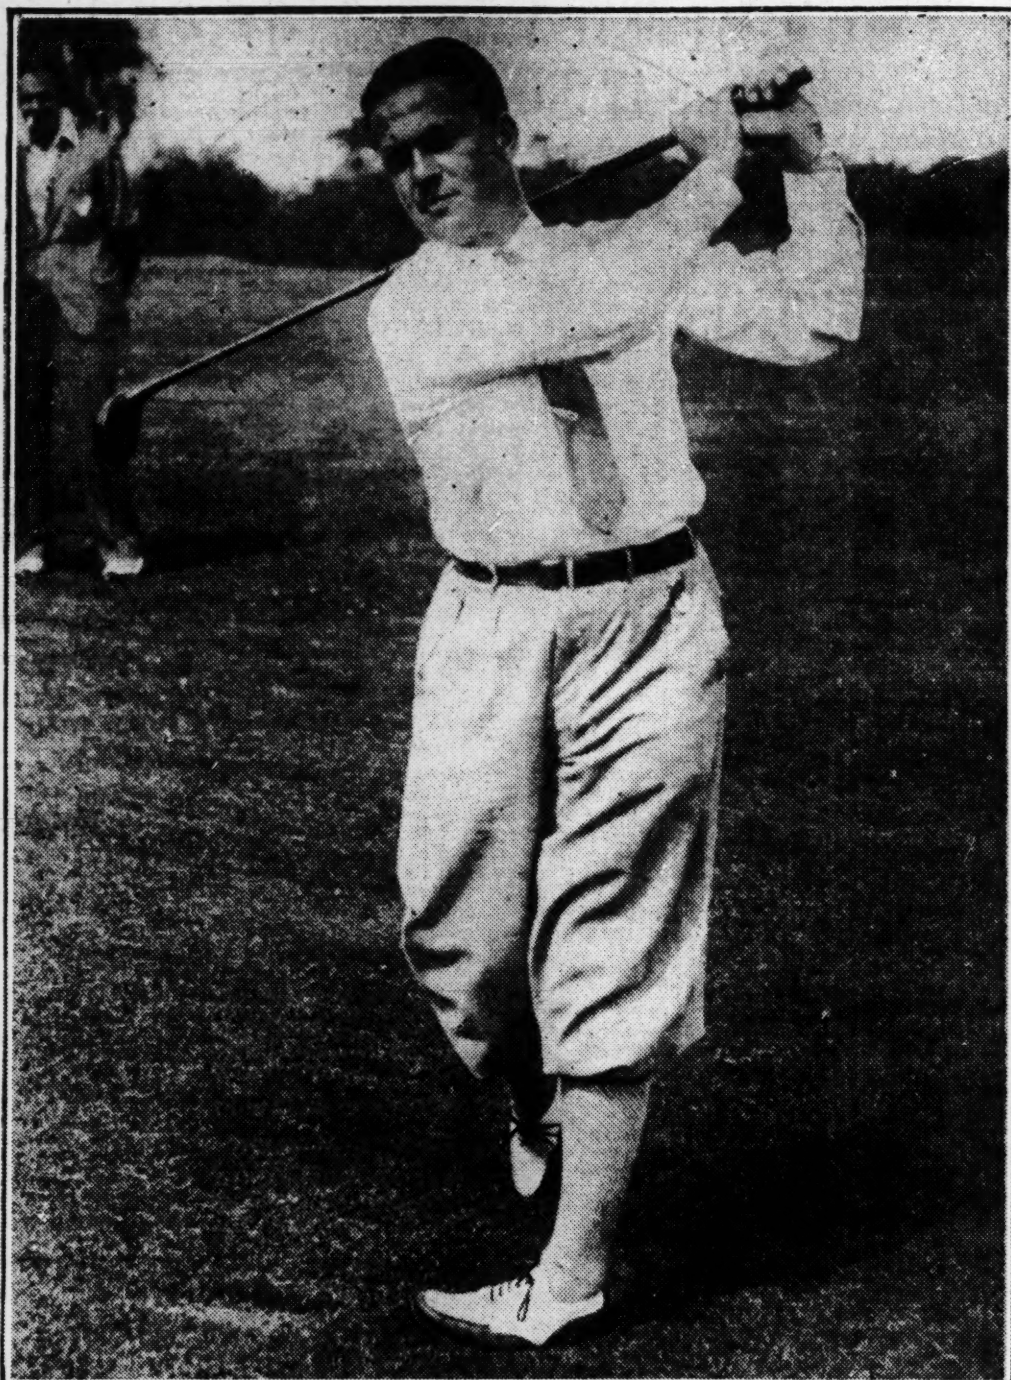

There was a general yawn in Atlanta and around the league when announcement was made early last season that the Crackers had traded Joe Hutcheson to New Orleans for Eddie Rose.

It was figured by many at the time that New Orleans might have the edge in the deal if for no other reason than Hutcheson weighed more than Rose. Some figured the Crackers were giving away weight.

Seriously, though, Hutcheson did have a better bat.

Emperor of Golf Passes 36th Milestone

Bobby Jones celebrated his 36th birthday Thursday, talking about the game from which he retired from active competition almost eight years ago. After most of the day at his law office Jones spent some time at the East Lake Country Club in conference with his father, president of the Atlanta Athletic Club.

"It's still golf, but with more interest in its development than play," said Bobby. "I will participate in the Masters' Invitation April 1, 2 and 3 at Augusta. Jones received many birthday wishes, including one from Ireland, from Hugh Treacy, an admirer whom he has never met.

Says He Has No Desire For Active Competition

Spends Day at Law Office, Then Goes Home for Simple Dinner.

By KENNETH GREGORY.

Robert T. Jones Jr., the retired emperor of golf who reached the 36th milestone of a colorful career this St. Patrick's Day, said he had no desire to return to active competition.

This birthday anniversary is the eighth since the champion of golf champions announced his retirement in 1930 after accomplishing the unprecedented feat of winning all four of the world's major crowns in a single year.

After a day at his law offices, during which hundreds of greetings were received, Bobby practiced briefly at the East Lake Country Club course where his career began and then went home to a quiet and simple dinner with his wife and three children.

Mrs. Jones, as usual, went to the kitchen and prepared Bob's special dishes. There was a cake, too, a store-bought chocolate layer—"the kind Bob is very fond of," but the candle ceremony was dispensed with as were all formalities.

GOES TO AUGUSTA.

Just two weeks from this anniversary of his birth in Atlanta in 1902, Bob Jones will go to Augusta for his only competitive appearance—his fifth campaign with the all-stars of golfing ranks in the Augusta national tournament, where, as president of the club, he also plays the role of host to the visiting golfers.

"I still give a lot of attention to golf, but little to my own game," he said when interviewed today at his desk. "My major interest is in angles other than my own game, except for a few rounds when time permits."

Jones, whose magic tournament touch that won for him 13 major championships left him with his retirement, finished in a tie for 13th place in the inaugural Augusta tournament, and that is his best showing of the four.

"I don't know what I'll do this time," Bob said. "I play good one day and bad the next. It is difficult without practice to concentrate on your game when the pressure is on."

LITTLE WINTER PLAY.
"There might be a chance I could win the Augusta tournament if it were played later. I don't play much golf during the winter. If the tournament came late in the summer my chances would be better because I play quite a bit more during the spring."

While admitting he had no present intention and had not even thought of entering any tournaments other than the Augusta classic, Jones said "I would not say that I will never play in others," adding:

"I might sometime play in other events, but I don't plan to return to golf for active competition. There are too many things I have to do to keep me from working on my game like I used to."

Jones, in addition to his law

Frankie Parker Weds Ex-Wife of His Coach

RENO, Nev., March 17.—(UP)—Mrs. Katherine Audrey Browne Beasley, of New York, today divorced Mercer Beasley, internationally known tennis coach, and then immediately was married to Frankie Parker, 22-year-old protege of Beasley and Davis cup member.

Mrs. Beasley, mother of two children, Katherine, 21, and James, 14, obtained an uncontested divorce at a private hearing on her charge of extreme cruelty. They were married in New York January 1, 1915.

In obtaining the marriage license Mrs. Beasley gave her age as over 21. Parker used his right name of Franciszek A. Pajkowski, and gave his address as Los Angeles.

Shortly after the ceremony the couple left for a honeymoon in Los Angeles.

Parker became a protege of Beasley when the latter found him as a boy in Milwaukee chasing tennis balls for $2 a week, of which he gave all but five cents to his widowed mother.

Beasley took the youth into his home and sent him to Lawrenceville Prep school. Parker was national boys' tennis champion at 14 and at 17 he was national clay court champion. Last year he scored the winning point for the American Davis cup team.

Beasley is coach at the Bermuda Lawn Tennis Club and formerly was tennis mentor at Princeton University.

Thompson Is Winner Of East Lake Bogey

L. D. Thompson was alone in winning the mid-week blind bogey Thursday afternoon on the East Lake courses. The winning score was 79.

Second place was divided between C. G. DeNormandie, E. S. Humphries, L. U. West, C. C. Gray, Homer Starr and Roger Martin.

Others in the prize list were W. L. Markert, J. A. Dodd, Jack Grabbe, Burk Rudolph, A. A. Orrender, Judge McClelland and S. M. Haw.

The booby prize was won by W. R. Rescott.

TECH CAPTURES COURT LAURELS, BENGALS BOXING

Bulldog Track Hopes Slim; Auburn May Lose Baseball Title.

By KENNETH GREGORY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

If developments within athletic circles of the Southeastern Conference to date may be taken as a gauge for the future, champions of 1937 may be dethroned in wholesale order.

Already defending titleholders in basketball and boxing have been dumped from the high perch and the crowns rest uneasy upon the heads of the current champions in track and baseball.

Georgia Tech's basketball team started the route of defenders, aided and abetted by Tulane. The Atlanta Engineers, after Tulane had put the skids under Kentucky's 1937 champions, went on to take the basketball crown. Louisiana State University took over ting average, slim as it was, at the time of the trade. Rose had done practically nothing for the Pelicans.

Both players had good records behind them in years past. The main idea behind the deal was that a change of scenery might be good for both.

And what happened? Well, Rose blossomed out in the rarified atmosphere of Ponce de Leon. In four months time he had jumped from five runs batted in to 112—the most he ever accumulated for—to lead the league.

Big Joe, who had been seriously ill during the winter, couldn't make the grade with Larry Gilbert and was shipped to the Southeastern league.

And with all due credit to Joe, he staged a nice comeback in a B league. No one ever tried harder to stick with the Crackers than did Joe Hutcherson.

I know because I roomed with him at Panama City and also because I watched him every day giving everything he had in the training camp.

The big fellow had led the league in batting at Memphis a couple of years before. The spirit was still willing but the flesh was weak. Advancing age didn't stop Joe Hutcherson. A serious illness hastened his departure from Class A baseball.

It was altogether different with Rose. He simply had stayed too long in one town. A new environment made all the difference to him.

And for the life of me I can't see why he shouldn't have a great year with Atlanta. Everything is in his favor except, of course, age. And he's not complaining about that.

You're only as old as you feel. Or, if you happen to be a ball player or an athlete of any kind, only as old as your legs feel. Eddie's legs are in fine shape.

MUCH ADDO OVER NOTHING.

When Johnny Gill said not long ago that he and Joe Engel were $1,100 apart on salary, one was prompted to wonder just how much Joe had offered him in the first place. It couldn't have been much.

You still read that Gill, who hit less than .250 in the Pacific Coast league last season, insists his demands must be met; that he will remain at his home at Nashville, and all that.

But ball players must eat. Johnny Gill will sign—or else. Or else he won't eat.

It doesn't seem that Gill is very much in demand. Chattanooga wants him, I'll grant. The Lookouts talk of him as embodying a great deal of their left-side power.

A less than .250 batting average doesn't smack so strongly of power, but one supposes Joe Engel knows what he is doing.

Fred Sington is the best and hardest hitter in the Engel ensemble, and that includes Dee Miles. And very few expect Gill, even if he does sign, to cause much wear and tear on the fences.

Engel threatened the other day to try to get Taft Wright from Washington and immediately the howls that arose in Chattanooga would make even the din of Joe's proposed elephant hunt pale into insignificance.

Chattanooga people are fed up with the Washington setup. And they fondly had figured the alliance was ended when Clark Griffith sold the club to Engel and the 1,700 stockholders.

But has it ended—the alliance, I mean? It doesn't mean much to the rest of the league whether it has or not. The Washington Senators haven't been setting any woods on fire in the American league. They need most of the players they have themselves.

What Chattanooga fans seem to object to is the idea that perhaps they're having the wool pulled over their eyes. Here's hoping Engel turns up with more than an elephant hunt as his contribution to the Southern league race.

CULLOP STILL POPULAR.

Every now and then someone around Atlanta wishes Nick Cullop was back in a Cracker uniform.

You hear taxi driver, bellboys, men in the street and business heads speak about it.

Cullop's fire and dash caught the public's fancy. And it will be a long time before the memory of it fades. He was a fighter—and a hitter.

He was, in short, a baseball fan's ball player. It would be good to see him hitting the dirt at Ponce de Leon park.

CZAR LOOKS INTO CARD CHAIN GANG

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 17.—(P)—It was learned today that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis has conducted a thorough investigation of the St. Louis Cardinal farm system and may release between 25 and 100 Class D players into free agency.

Though the tight-lipped commissioner refused to discuss the investigation other than to say "You know as much about it as I do," Judge W. G. Bramham, boss of the minor leagues, admitted the investigation had been made and that an announcement was expected within a few days. Judge Bramham, however, said he had no idea of how the commissioner would rule in the case.

"All I can say," said Judge Bramham, "is that the investigation has been made. What Commissioner Landis will do or when he'll do it is something I cannot say."

The case before Commissioner Landis is a charge the Cardinals entered into a working agreement with the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, club, of the Three-Eye league, without advising the commissioner. It is charged the Cardinals shipped between 25 and 100 players from its rookie camp at Springfield, Mo., in 1935, '36 and '37 to Cedar Rapids, which in turn farmed the players to some of its own affiliates such as Mitchell, S. D.; Crookston, Minn., and Newport, Ark.

The ex-emperor, just back from a visit to Augusta, said the visiting golfers would find the national course in "perfect condition."

"We have made several changes which will eliminate any unfairness on the putting greens. The course will be easier but fairer, yet there still will be a good premium on play around the greens."

Alma Mater Honors Major Scott Tonight

G. M. A. To Give New Southern League President Banquet—Many Notables To Attend.

A formal military parade and banquet will honor Major Trammell Scott, Atlanta sportsman who recently was elected president of the Southern Baseball Association, when his prep school Alma Mater, Georgia Military Academy, entertains at the school tonight.

Colonel J. C. Woodward, president of G. M. A., announced that the program will begin at 8 p. m. with a band concert. A dress parade, with Major Scott and other leading visitors in the reviewing stand, will follow at 8:30. Dinner will be served at 9 p. m.

Major Scott was captain of the G. M. A. football team and took an active part in other school sports 36 years ago. He was later graduated from the University of Georgia and then became a major in the World War.

He will speak at the banquet following short speeches by Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution; John Temple Graves II, Birmingham newspaper executive; Colonel Robert Woodruff, Wilmington, Del.; O. B. Keeler, sports writer, and W. J. Vereen, Moultrie.

Colonel George W. West, president of G. M. A.'s board of governors, will preside.

SEEKS SECOND ACE.

BALTIMORE, March 17.—(P)—J. Cookman Boyd, Maryland's parole commissioner, is leaving tomorrow for Pinehurst, N. C., and—hope—another hole-in-one.

WRESTLE ROYAL BILLED TONIGHT

A wrestling program that shows promise of being, by far, the best balanced program ever attempted by Promoters Bettis and Jones, will be offered fans tonight at the East Point auditorium arena, with four sure-fire action bouts, topped off by a lady's wrestling royal, featuring five girl grappling stars, in the ring at one and the same time, including two referees.

Three of these feminine wrestlers have been signed for several weeks; namely, Miss Dorothy Dalton, Miss Joan Rogers and Miss Alice Smith. And are rarin' to go.

The wrestling royal exhibition will be the first contest on the program, starting promptly at 8:30 p. m., and fans planning to attend the bouts are requested to come early in order to get choice seats.

Joe Ferona, scientific Italian matman, will meet another scientific wrestler in the person of Larry Schaff, Indiana, in the feature match.

PURPLE ROOKIES BEAT VETS, 13-6, AT ROSE BOWL

Two Touchdown Passes Pave Way for Newcomers' Victory.

By ROY WHITE.

Two touchdown passes gave Coach Shorty Doyal's 1938 eleven a 13-to-6 victory over the 1937 veterans, Thursday afternoon on the Rose Bowl field. It was the first victory ever scored by the newcomers and was a climax of the most successful spring training ever held by the Purples.

A heavy field slowed the game up considerably and forced both teams to take to the air for most of their gains.

In their eagerness to score first, the newcomers attempted to run with the ball deep in their own territory and fumbled, late in the first quarter. It was the first and one of the few breaks for the veterans, who took advantage of the opportunity and scored a few plays later.

Carlting Dinkler Jr., on a well-executed crisscross over tackle, ran 15 yards to the touchdown. The try for the extra point was missed.

The newcomers came right back and won the game in the second quarter. Dan Greer tossed a short pass to McDermott to tie the score and then kicked the extra point for a 7-to-6 lead over the veterans.

A few minutes later Greer passed 15 yards to Connor for another

Daily Double Pays Off $6,000 at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 17.—(P)—A chubby little deputy sheriff from Little Rock picked two horses "out of the blue" at Oaklawn Park today and cashed a $2 daily double ticket for $6,002.70, the second largest such ticket ever paid in American turf history.

A ticket for $7,205, won by Harry Topsy March 18, 1935, at Tropical Park, Fla., holds the present record.

To combine today's ticket, Charles McNutt, chose Peggy Torch in the first race, and Miss Firefly in the second. It was the only one sold on that combination.

Peggy Torch paid $157.70 for a $2 win ticket, setting a new high for the current meet, and Miss Firefly returned $88.80.

McNutt also had $10 on Miss Firefly to win and collected $444 more.

"I just liked 13 for a combination so I picked No. 3 in the first race and No. 10 in the second. I didn't know anything about either one of the horses," McNutt hobbled.

He was far too excited to say more.

When Peggy Torch won the first race, McNutt was with a friend, L. R. Biggs, Arkansas state ranger.

"He told me he had the first part of the ticket," Biggs said later, "and he was shaking like a leaf. He also told me which horse was on the second half."

Then Miss Firefly came "out of the clouds" to win. She was out of it until the stretch, where she moved from tenth to sixth and then went on toward the leaders and raced to the wire with her neck poking out in front of Galon Boy.

touchdown, but missed the try for the point.

Both teams threatened several times in the last half, but the defenses tightened up and turned back every drive.

Coaches Doyal, Dwight Keith and Bill Orgain were well pleased with the result of the game. It gave them a good opportunity to see the 1938 eleven in action against a veteran team and the newcomers broke a two-year jinx.

Last year the old team won, 21 to 6, and the year before the game ended in a scoreless tie.

Bluebirds Stage Rally To Defeat Union Bag Nine, 11 to 8

SUNKEL GREAT IN RELIEF ROLE FOR CRACKERS

Van Antwerp Plays First Base; Michaels Looks Good.

By JACK TROY.
SAVANNAH, March 17.—"Twice St. Patrick's Day and the Irish were celebrating in devious ways, but there was a goodly crowd for the Bluebird-Union Bag game at the stadium which the Bluebirds won in a great closing rally, 11 to 8.

A high wind interfered with good baseball but it was an interesting game. John Michaels was great in two innings and was fielding his position like a master. He comes off the mound like a cat and was responsible for throwing out six men.

DRIVE HITS RUCKER.
John Rucker was hit in the back of the head by a line drive during practice before the game, but it is nothing serious. Ross Van Antwerp, catcher, played first base for the Bluebirds.

Behind the plate, Dewey Williams displayed the ability that has won him the reserve catching post on the Cracker mitt staff. He's a wonder.

The Union Bag boys got four runs off Darwin Cobb, Atlanta boy, and Michaels, both left-handers, in six innings, but they were not able to touch Tom Sunkel, another left-hander, for the remainder of the game.

SUNKEL LOOKS GREAT.
Sunkel looked great. He's the boy the Cardinals have optioned to Atlanta. He has a fine fast ball and a lot of stuff.

Today's game, first he has worked in, was hardly a fair test for Michaels because of the wind.

The Crackers continue on their merry way in the matter of consecutive practice days. They haven't missed a single day since they opened camp on March 1.

There will be a long workout tomorrow. Then Saturday and Sunday the regulars will play Savannah. Leo Moon is scheduled to make his first appearance Saturday.

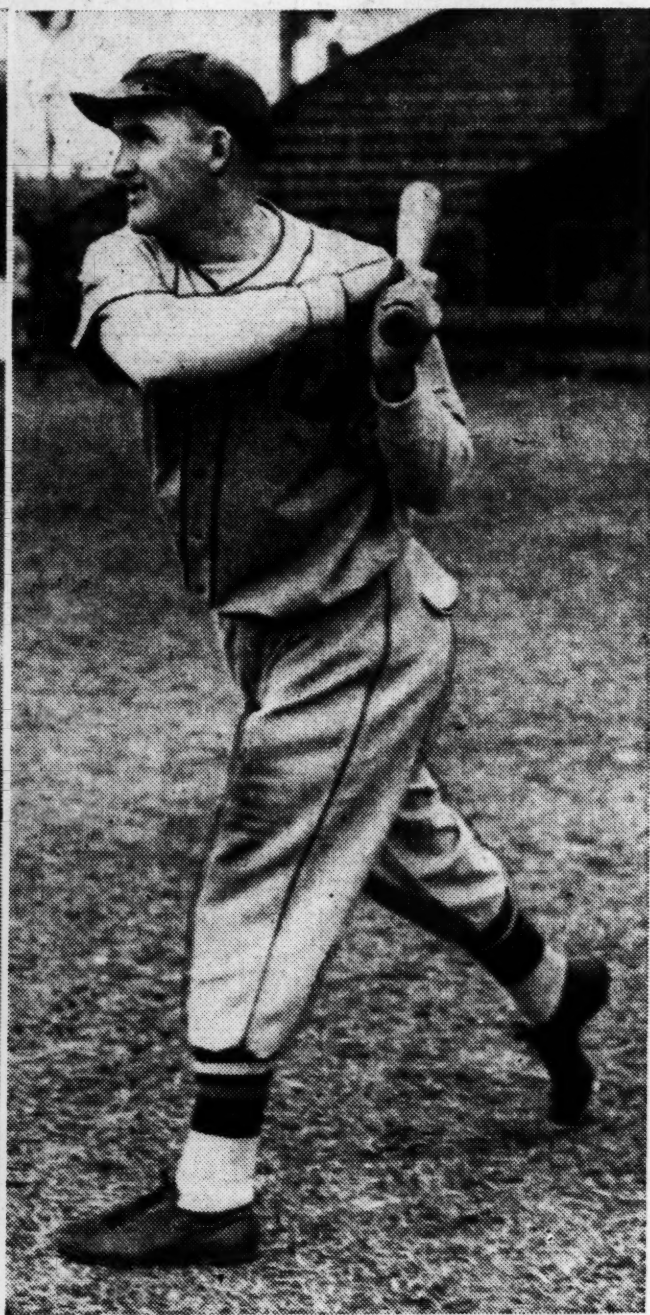

Manager Paul Richards was impressed with Jack Bolling's ability at the plate today and he also thought the former Macon boy had great possibilities as a first baseman. He can tell more about that when Bolling has had a real chance to work around the bag.

IMPRESSES RICHARDS.
Warren Huston's batting of late

New Second Sacker Starts Double Play---Takes a Healthy Cut

he is shown taking a swing at the ball. Last season with Macon he hit .325, drove in 90 runs, and stole 19 bases. He is considered an excellent prospect.

also has impressed Richards. The young shortstop's fielding has been great all along and he may, by virtue of improved hitting, become the Crackers' utility player. Huston will continue to work at short with Buster Chatham. He is a wonderful fielder at the position. They threw President Earl Mann to the Lions today and the Atlanta executive told the civic organization that the weather and the hospitality have been so fine that the Crackers will seriously consider coming back next year.

Rubeling Starts Slow, But Warms Up Fast

New Second Baseman Is a "Natural" Fielder; When He Starts Hitting He's Consistent.

By JACK TROY.
SAVANNAH, March 17.—Al Rubeling, the new second baseman of the Crackers, who is a natural-born fielder, has a reputation of being a slow starter in hitting.

But Manager Paul Richards is the sort who will go along with him until he hits his stride. For the past two seasons Rubeling didn't start hitting in his true style for Macon until almost a month had passed. But he always made up for it in his fielding.

BETTER THAN LUBY.
You can't take that away from him. He goes to his right or left better than either Nig Lipscomb or Hugh Luby and he has a fine throwing arm.

Once started, Rubeling maintains a consistent hitting stride. And that's greatly in his favor over a long season.

What has happened in the past two seasons, however, may not hold true this year. Rubeling may start hitting at once. He is connecting solidly in the spring drills and he is getting more batting practice than ever before.

Timing is the big thing in batting anyway and the only way to get it is through hitting at all kinds of pitching. Manager Richards' system of long batting sessions and numerous exhibition games may be just what Rubeling needs.

HAD GOOD YEAR.
The ex-Macon Peach had quite a year in 1937. He batted .325, drove in 90 runs, hit 28 doubles, 12 triples, scored 89 runs and stole 19 bases.

It may be well to mention here again that he was the fastest man in the Sally league. And that he is a potential base stealer in the Southern league.

Rubeling is a fine, conscientious boy who will make a great team player. And he has ambitions to rise to higher company. The Cracker club may serve as the stepping stone. A team isn't always so fortunate in getting a second base replacement like Al Rubeling who also plays short and third very acceptably.

He was field captain and star utility player of the Peaches last year. And he is considered by scouts to be the best prospect Macon sold off the '37 team.

Regardless of how he starts at bat, Rubeling will prove a real asset to the Atlanta team over the season.

Women Golfers Vie In Tourney Today

A one-day blind bogey at 9 o'clock this morning will open Druid Hills' women's golf tournament schedule. It will be the first of a series of regular events every Friday morning for the women members.

Mrs. Ben Barrow is chairman of the tournament committee and together with Harry Stephens, the club professional, will be in charge of today's event.

Prizes will be given for the bogey winner and also to the woman making the smallest number of putts on the 18 greens.

HANDLERS SAY WAR ADMIRAL TO WIN PIMLICO

Nervousness at Start Only Bad Fault of Seabiscuit's Rival.

BERLIN, Md., March 17.—(P)—War Admiral's trainers, who term the 1937 "horse of the year" the perfect racer, predicted today he would beat the fleet Seabiscuit in the Dixie handicap at Pimlico, May 11.

"The only bad habit the horse has," Trainer George Conway said, "is his behavior at the gate; he's too anxious. But outside of that he's a wonderful little animal."

Rodger Whittingham, one of War Admiral's handlers, commented:

"He's just a little pet. Nothing bothers this horse except the excitement at the starting gate. We can do anything with him."

The son of Man o' War, undergoing a rubdown from Whittingham while the handler talked, obediently raised one and then another hoof as Whittingham began to clean and polish them. He tried to nip the trainer's hand, but Conway said he was just mischievous.

The Glen Riddle Farm folk say they aren't worried about what War Admiral will do against Seabiscuit in the Dixie handicap.

Conway doesn't like the difference in weights the two horses must carry—War Admiral's 132 pounds against 130 for Seabiscuit—but Whittingham and the other handlers expressed confidence the horse will be able to carry the added weight and win.

BOWLING ENTRIES REACH 100 MARK

More than 100 pairs of bowlers are signed to compete in the sixth annual Atlanta Constitution doubles bowling tournament, slated to be rolled on both the uptown and downtown alleys Saturday afternoon and evening, as a result of 12 additional pairs of bowlers signed Thursday. The dozen new entries make a total of 102 doubles teams entered thus far. Games may be rolled at either 1:30, 5 or 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

With at least 25 additional doubles teams expected to be signed this afternoon and evening, there is little doubt but that a new entry list record will be established, breaking the all-time high of 125 couples that bowled last year, in this season's bowling of this popular event in which interest has shown marked increase each season.

No entry fee, other than the cost of the five games to be bowled, will be charged.

An outstanding team from LaGrange, Ga., will have Judge Lee Wyatt and Wyck Rusk bowling together. This formidable pair has been hitting the pins for big averages in LaGrange and has turned in top scores on the local drives.

Two new entries from Rome have Mrs. Carl Tidwell bowling with Miss Melba Strain and on another team Mrs. L. W. McMillan and Mrs. G. M. Richardson will be teamed.

Additional local entries include Jack Wallen-Harry Keene, Kelly Heffner-George Vogel, Robert Buck-Charles Swilling, Earl Goodman-Charles Powell, Joe Lewanda-J. A. Burns, D. J. Harrison-O. F. Applebee, J. L. Smith-T. J. Dunn, A. M. Crawford-J. B. Bradley, H. S. Murphy-F. A. Johnson.

The entry list will remain open until 1:30 Saturday.

Hemphill, Dettweiler Lead Aiken Tourney

AIKEN, S. C., March 17.—(UP) Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., and Helen Dettweiler, of Washington, D. C., with a total of five points, today took the lead in the Aiken invitation four-ball round robin golf championship.

Miss Hemphill and Miss Dettweiler had won two matches and halved one.

Marion Miley, the Lexington, Ky., star, withdrew because of a sprained ankle. Physicians did not expect Miss Miley to be able to resume play for two months. Her partner, Virginia Guilfoil, Syracuse, N. Y., continued alone.

Three teams had won two matches and were tied for runner-up honors.

ROME DOES NOT BID FOR GAMES

CAIRO, Egypt, March 17.—(AP) The International Olympic committee today announced five European cities had bid for the summer events of the 1944 international games, but to the surprise of many observers Rome was not among them.

It had been generally expected that Rome would ask to hold the 1944 games, since Italy had given way to Japan as the site for the 1940 competition.

The committee announced that bids were received from London, Helsinki, Athens, Budapest and Lausanne as sites for the summer games in 1944, and that St. Moritz and Oslo had asked to hold the winter events.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS

No. 47

TEX MAXON

Jeff was elated when Kapungo agreed to exchange the fabulous emeralds for Tarzan, dead or alive. He believed that by trickery he could capture the ape-man. Now the witch-doctor turned to resume the fiendish ceremonies which would be climaxed by Mary's death.

Jeff's mind worked quickly. He wanted to save Mary, too, hoping that some day he might persuade her to marry him. "No, no!" he called out to Kapungo; "you must not kill the girl. She is attractive to Tarzan, the Tree-Devil. I shall use her as bait to trap him."

Kapungo nodded. He would do nothing to interfere with the capture of the elusive demon. With a lordly gesture he commanded the guards to return the girl to her companions. "I have saved you," Jeff boasted. Mary looked up eagerly, excitedly. "Are we free?"

"I've only won a delay," he said; "tonight, we'll try to escape." But the treacherous white man turned to Kapungo and said in the native tongue: "The girl and I shall leave tonight in search of Tarzan. Tomorrow you may feed the other captives to the Tree-God!"

SHERIFF ALDREDGE GETS GOLD BADGE, GIFT OF FRIENDS

Official Marks Birthday at Party; Judge Wood Also Is Honored.

Friends of Sheriff J. C. Aldredge celebrated the 53d birthday of the new official and his recent assumption of office with a birthday party yesterday at which Sheriff Aldredge received a diamond-studded gold badge.

The criminal courtroom, where the party was held, was jammed to capacity by members of the sheriff's staff, courthouse workers and former fellow employees of the new sheriff on the Southern railroad.

Judge Jesse M. Wood, the principal speaker, voiced the sentiments of the assemblage when he wished the new official success in the conduct of his office and wished him the returns of the day on his 53d birthday. Judge Wood celebrated his 59th birthday the same day. Court attaches presented a dozen and a half gold balls, a box of cigars and a carton of cigarettes to him earlier in the day.

In responding to the gift of the badge, which was bought by friends of the sheriff, Sheriff Aldredge promised the co-operation of his office to the other departments of the county government.

'PUNITIVE TAXATION' IS ASSAILED BY COX

Congressman Addresses 126-Year-Old Hibernian Society.

SAVANNAH, March 17.—(P)—Representative E. E. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, told the 126-year-old Hibernian Society here tonight a reduction of governmental costs and "a reduction of hampering and punitive taxation" must be brought about if the economic trend is to be improved.

"The basic fear underlying every depression," said the congressman, "arises out of unsettled governmental policies, class and sectional strife, fear of revolution or of entanglements in foreign affairs which may involve the nation in foreign wars, threats to our constitutional democracy, excessive taxation and an unbalanced national budget with a mounting national debt."

Foreign Policies.

Cox said foreign policy should be clarified and that "to further quiet the fears of threats to our constitutional democracy" there must be "a return of state sovereignty and self-determination."

"The policy of preserving our free institutions must be clear and unmistakable. Conditions calling for swollen powers of a centralized federal government must be eliminated."

"We must return to individual self-reliance, labor democracy instead of labor despotism, industrial stability instead of industrial instability, courage instead of timidity on the part of capital, and fair dealing as between sections and classes."

The congressman's address featured the St. Patrick's Day banquet of the society.

Officers Elected.

In the annual election of the society today, Christopher P. H. Murphy was elected president to succeed Edward C. Brennan. Dr. Michael J. Egan was elected vice president to succeed Murphy, and Henry B. Brennan was elected secretary to succeed John L. Suttle, who retired after two terms. John J. Powers was re-elected treasurer, and Jerome F. Sullivan, assistant secretary.

Speakers on tonight's program besides the Camilla congressman, were Judge J. J. Kennedy, of Pittsburgh, and Julian F. Corish, of Savannah.

POLAR SCIENTISTS HAILED IN MOSCOW

Half-Million Greet Four on Their Return.

MOSCOW, March 17.—(P)—A half million persons swarming the square in front of Moscow's railway station welcomed Commander Ivan Papanin and his three colleagues today at the end of their ice floe, icebreaker and railway return from the North Pole.

So dense was the cheering throng that mounted Cossacks were unable to push through it. The Papanin party was rescued from an ice flow off the coast of Greenland February 19. They drifted more than 1,300 miles from the pole.

An icebreaker brought them to Leningrad and a special train to Moscow.

'HITCH-HIKER' SLAYER LOSES LAST APPEAL

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., March 17.—(P)—Lester Brockelhurst, 24-year-old hitch-hiker, tonight awaited sun-up to pay the penalty for a 1937 cross-country crime tour which brought death to three men.

At Helena, shortly after 5 p. m., United States District Judge T. C. Trimble refused to interfere in the scheduled execution after hearing in chambers a petition for a habeas corpus writ.

Scheduled to die with Brockelhurst is his cellmate, 30-year-old Joe Neut Sims, convicted of chopping his wife to death on Mothers' Day of 1937.

ADERHOLD TO SPEAK.

LAFAYETTE, March 17.—O. C. Aderhold, of the College of Education at the University of Georgia, will address the Walker County Teachers' Association Friday in Chattanooga Valley Consolidated school.

May-Ling's Poor Health Keeps Her From Side of Chiang Kai-shek

Chinese Generalissimo's Wife in Hongkong Suffering Old Nervous Complaint But Keeps Strict Direction of National Air Force.

HANKOW, China, March 17.—(P)—Madame Chiang Kai-shek's poor health, which has forced her to remain in Hongkong for more than two months, is causing her relatives and friends considerable concern.

"The 38-year-old wife of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who received her education at Wesleyan in Macon, Ga., and other centers of the United States, is understood to be suffering from an old nervous complaint which the doctors say only long rest and quiet can eradicate.

While her condition apparently is not so serious as to confine her regularly to bed, or to interfere with her work or reception of visitors, her continued absence while the war is going full blast in China, puzzle her friends, who ask skeptically:

"Is there something else which keeps May-ling (that is her first name) in Hongkong?"

Many Speculations.

Some of her Chinese friends say she is staying in Hongkong in order to represent the Generalissimo and the national government in the event Japan offers any new peace proposals. Others say she is in Hongkong to place new orders abroad for airplanes, ammunition and arms for China. Others insist she is merely seeking relief from her nervous malady, which, it is said, was brought on largely by overwork.

The fact is, the Associated Press learns, that Madame is remaining in Hongkong for all three of these purposes, with emphasis on the last.

In the meantime, the Chinese air force, of which she is the head, has been placed under the direction of the general staff of the Chinese national army. This move has been hailed by the Chinese as a logical and sensible one, since it is vital that the operations of the nation's air corps should be coordinated with the military operations.

Japanese Attack River Strongholds

SHANGHAI, Friday, March 18.—(P)—Chinese defended their last stronghold north of the Yellow river today against heavy Japanese attacks in southern Shantung province.

Official Chinese sources said four divisions of Japanese reinforcements had reached Tientsin from Manchoukuo.

They said the troops would be used to bolster both sides of Japan's central front offensive—along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad on the coast and the Peiping-Hankow line inland.

Japanese said their army and navy forces made a landing near the mouth of the Yangtze river, south of the vital Lungshai corridor, and advanced northward as the Chinese retreated without resistance.

Japanese naval authorities delivered notes to foreign consular officials warning against traffic in a "danger zone" along the Yangtze's north shore.

Restriction of traffic would create a serious problem for Shanghai, as it would hamper movement of foodstuffs from one of the city's major sources.

WOOL MEN ASSAIL TRADE PROGRAM

Declare Plan Will Cause Deeper Depression.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(P)—American woolen manufacturers assailed today the reciprocal trade agreement program, declaring it was "bound to retard business recovery and may plunge us into a deeper depression than in 1929."

Millard D. Browne, of the Continental Mills, Inc., Philadelphia, testified before the wool section of the committee for reciprocity information that "the uncertainty caused by the threat of downward tariff revision is holding up wool buying."

Thurmond Chatham, of the Chatham Manufacturing Company, Salem, N. C., blanket manufacturers, protested against tariff reductions, asserting "we can't compete with European labor conditions."

3 KILLED IN CRASH

Auto-Train Collision Fatal to Mother, Daughter.

WAVERLY, Tenn., March 17.—(P)—Three persons lost their lives today when the automobile in which they were riding and a freight train collided near here.

The victims:

Mrs. Tom Box, 55; her 14-year-old daughter, Matheil, and Mrs. Pete Thompson, 20.

Mrs. Thompson and the girl were killed almost instantly and Mrs. Box died four hours later.

U. S. TO LOAN $16,836,000 ON HOUSING PROJECTS

WASHINGTON, March 17.—(P)—The United States Housing Authority signed contracts today to lend $16,836,000, mostly for low-rent housing projects.

Nathan Straus, the housing administrator, said the loans were contracted as follows:

Austin, Tex., $643,000; Charleston, S. C., $1,017,000; New Orleans, $8,411,000; Syracuse, N. Y., $3,930,000; Youngstown, Ohio, $2,835,000.

$650,000 IS READY FOR TEACHERS' PAY

Treasurer Signs Warrant for Part of Balance Due on February Salaries.

A warrant for $650,000 to cover part of the balance due on February salaries for the teachers of the common schools was paid yesterday by State Treasurer George B. Hamilton. Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, said salary checks would go forth today and Saturday.

Governor Rivers ordered the salaries paid as soon as he had been notified that the treasury was able to meet the warrant.

Income tax collections which began to flow in Tuesday go into the general fund, from which school salaries are paid. Attaches of the Governor's office said they were hopeful the balance of school salaries could be paid shortly.

John B. Fallaize, Here 40 Years, 80 Today, Urges Atlanta Changes

Would Revise Development of Downtown Area and Abolish Annual Fair.

JOHN B. FALLAIZE.

"We are growing into a city, yet in some cases, Atlanta is like a country town."

Thus spoke a man yesterday who has been in Atlanta for 40 years and who will celebrate today his eightieth birthday. He is John Bonamy Fallaize, sturdy, white-haired merchant.

"I predict Atlanta will become a great metropolis," Mr. Fallaize added. "But I would make some changes, if I could, in the manner in which the downtown district is growing."

"The city is growing in a line and not in a square, so to speak. I would suggest that the business district be made more compact. Too, I would do away with the annual fair, letting smaller towns sponsor it, if there must be one."

The elderly merchant, who came here on January 1, 1897, has fought in no wars, although he has been "warring against depression" for many years, he said. He was born on the Island of Guernsey, one of the Norman group and a part of the ancient Duchy of Normandy.

After the fall of England to "Guillaume de la Fallaize," better known as William the Conqueror, the island became English as won home rule. Youthful Mr. Fallaize served his business apprenticeship there, later going to London.

In 1883 he married Miss Loui Adelaide Dubreuil, of Jersey. She is 82 years old now. They came to New York, later went to Montgomery, Ala., thence to New Orleans, La., and then to Atlanta.

On September 2 they will celebrate their 54th wedding anniversary.

Never Out of Job.

One of the things of which Mr. Fallaize is proudest is the fact that he has not been out of a position since the day he landed in New York, although he knew no one when he came to this country. His knowledge of French stood him well, and because he could speak the language he was hired by a New York firm on his first day in this country.

"Dozens of friends are expected to send greetings to him today, for he is widely known in mercantile circles in Atlanta, New Orleans and New York. He and his wife, who is an invalid, live at 146 Beecher street, S. W. They have two sons, Emile and L. D. Fallaize, both of whom are connected with their father in business."
